

Student Delegate Reports On Annual L. S. A. A. Convention

After enjoying a refreshing banquet at the Trinity Lutheran Church, Lawrence, Kansas, on Friday, February 22, the delegates to the annual Southwest Regional Conference of the L. S. A. A. gathered at 8 P. M. for the opening program. Devotionals were given by Edwin Hartman, Kansas University, and a special musical number by the Trinity Lutheran Quartette, after which Dr. Duenow delivered an address on the topic, "The Student in His Relation to his Church". In the course of his address, he stated that the two greatest enemies of our church are Agnosticism and Atheism. They endanger the soul of every member in the church, but the soul of the student is in greatest danger. What we need he said, is a "changeless Christ in a changing world." We need a church united in body and in spirit, founded on pure Biblical doctrine and upon the infallible Christian truths.

The next session opened Saturday morning at 9 A. M. with devotion by Carl Lindquist, Bethany College, after which there were discussions on the following phases of the L. S. A. A. work: 1) Shall we continue to support the Russian Seminary Fund after this year? Dr. Harry informed the delegates concerning the situation in Russia, and urged the support of this fund and that every student contribute $1.00 for this cause. 2) Shall we hold a national L. S. A. Conference in 1931? The decision was in favor of such a meeting, and a delegate from every college in the region should be sent. 3) What policy should be adopted for keeping the alumni interested in L. S. A. work after leaving school? It was urged that the L. S. A. should keep in touch with the alumni by correspondence. 4) General topics such as the support of the American Lutheran Student, our national paper, and the world wide Lutheran conference were also discussed. A piano solo was then rendered by Miss Florence Scott, after which Miss Magnussen, instructor of psychology at the Chicago University, gave an address on the topic, "The Student in His Relation to His Campus." Three points were of special interest: 1) The social duty

DANA BASKETEERS MEET CONCORDIA

Saturday, March 2, marked the closing of a fairly successful basketball season for the Dana hoopmen. The season ended by suffering a defeat at the hands of Concordia college. The game was fast and thrilling throughout, and at the final whistle the score remained 21-14 favoring Concordia.

The game began with a rush, Dana scoring the first goal. This was quickly retaliated by another field goal and shortly after by yet another. The Concordia team was beginning to show signs of uneasiness; but Concordia received the ball from the tip-off and by cleverly working the ball toward their goal was able to sink a short shot. From then on the game was fairly close, each team scoring alternately. At the half the score stood 15-9 favoring Concordia.

The second half began with even more speed and fight than the first, showing the both teams were determined to win. The latter part of the game became slow, having very few thrills. Few points were made by either team. With 5 minutes to play, and a 5 point lead Concordia began stalling which made it practically impossible for the Scarlet and White to win.

DANA NEGATIVE GAINS TWO MORE DECISIONS

The Dana negative debate squad succeeded in boosting our conference standing by two victories in the clashes staged on the local platform February 28 and March 1.

The Grand Island debaters of Grand Island, Nebr., February 28 attacked the present jury system, which was defended by the Dana negative, Dorothy Jensen, Richard Morton, and Clifford Madsen. They contended that the present jury system was unable to cope with modern conditions because of incompetency of the jurors, failure to adhere to the laws, expense, delay, and miscarriages of justice. They advocated the use of judges as triers of fact in place of the present "twelve good men and true". The Dana representatives, however, arose in vigorous defense of the present system, and in addition to meeting the attacks of the affirmative as fast as they were advanced, pointed out clearly that the use of judges as triers of fact would only enhance the evils of our judicial system.

DANA A CAPELLA CHOIR RENDERS TWO CONCERTS

Last Saturday evening after a good half day's ride the hosts for the choir were patiently awaiting us ready to take us to their respective homes. The minister at Hampton in one of his letters had written that the coffee pot would be standing on the stove waiting for us and so it was to the pleasure of every choir member.

The afternoon concert at Hampton was very well attended by an interested and appreciative audience. In the evening the choir went to Grand Island where again it met a group of attentive and enthusiastic listeners.

After the concert the choir returned to Hampton where they enjoyed the hospitality of their considerate friends.

Six-thirty in the morning found all the girls and only two boys on deck, but the boys decided to be more prompt next time.

That Grand Island enjoyed the concert of the choir is shown by an extract taken from one of its newspapers:

"While the audience for the Dana a Capella Choir's concert at the auditorium on Sunday evening was not as large as could have been wished, it was a most attentive and appreciative one." The result of Sunday night's offering was gratifying. Prof. Waldo B. Nielsen, director and manager of the choir, was pleased with the evident appreciation of both the choir's numbers and those of Miss Marie Rasmussen, the violinist, and the president of the Liderkranz was equally gratified by the program given the audience.

The first group of songs rendered by the choir at once captivated the several hundred hearers. The choir sings without accompaniment. Especially considering the fact that the choir is composed wholly of young students, it is only such thorough work on the part of the individuals under the efficient training by an efficient director that the unusual clearness with which the closest harmony was rendered, can be explained. Twelve numbers were given at the Sunday night's program.

An investment in knowledge always pays the best interest.

TRINITY SEMINARY MISSION SOCIETY INVITES MISSIONARY

Missionary M. A. Pedersen of Santhalistan, India, who is at present traveling through the States, also favored Dana College with a visit on the evening of March 9, upon the invitation of the Trinity Seminary Mission Society.

Students and visitors gathered in the College chapel to hear his message on "The greatest work of the Kingdom of God", and assuredly no one went away disappointed.

As a text Rev. Pedersen used Rom. 1: 16: "For I am not ashamed of the Gospel for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth; to the Jew first and also to the Greek."

He had observed in Americans a disposition to affiliate themselves with things big in politics, industry, finance and education, but the speaker said there is nothing greater to be associated with than the gospel and missions because it is the only thing that can recreate and remake man. With such a mission and such a gospel he said the Christian should be imbued with a holy pride as over against a false humility which would prefer and excuse for his or her existence.

Mr. Pedersen says that old things in India are passing away and new things are coming in. This statement was followed with vivid narratives of Indian native life and of the better life after a period of unrest and transition—the result of the glimmer of light, which a Jungle Missionary, as he termed himself, had brought to the people. His work was among the untouchables but one hand had touched these people and it was the hand of Jesus Christ.

On Sunday morning Rev. Pedersen spoke at the service at the local Lutheran church. Taking his text from John 6: 1-14, wherein is recorded the feeding of the five thousand, he centered his thoughts about the question of Andrew, "What are these among so many?" and applied it in connection with the attitude of many people toward the cause of missions. The speaker pointed out these words as being a fruit of unbelief and said that they are often repeated by Christians of today when they discuss or think about foreign missions. There is in the hearts of men a general kind of faith in God's great power but when it comes to believing in His power in specific instances that faith fails.

THE LUTHER LEAGUERS HOLD WEEKLY MEETING

The Luther League held its meeting March 6. The meeting was opened by a hymn. Viggo Petersen read a Scripture passage, John 12: 20-36, fitting to the season of Lent, and led in prayer.

After the singing of another hymn Immanuel Petersen, our delegate to the conference of the Lutheran Student Association of America at Lawrence, Kansas, gave his report.

The chairman, Gudmund Pedersen, closed the meeting with a word of thanks.

The program was followed by a short business session.

DANNEVIRKE HOLDS ITS LAST MEETING

The Dannevirke Society held its last meeting February 27. The meeting was opened by a song by the audience. Mr. Møller gave a reading which showed that the ability to please everyone is an art. Miss Alfa Hansen gave a very humorous reading depicting the old man World and all his troubles with the planets and moon. Miss Alice Gissel favored those present with a piano solo, "Farewell to the Piano," by Beethoven, his last composition. Some of the winter students presented a short one act play which amused everyone. The program was concluded by a song by the audience. The winter students served refreshments followed by a social hour which was much enjoyed. No doubt the success in making it an hour long to be remembered was due to Møller's and "Sprut's" ability of entertaining.

All, indeed, have enjoyed having the winter students here and hope they will recall their days at Dana with happy memories.

DANA AFFIRMATIVE MAKES WEEK END TRIP

Thursday morning, February 22, the Dana affirmative boarded the debate-bus for Grand Island and Kearney. With much humor and good roads the team reached Grand Island early in the afternoon, after an enjoyable trip.

The question for debate was: Resolved that the present jury system of the United States should be abolished. The affirmative side of the proposition was upheld by the Danaites: Winston Hansen, Leo Andersen, and Kris Winther. The Island team, consisting of Joseph Tomiska, Dean Mayers, and Dean Goodwin, defended the present jury system. Winston Hansen led the Danaites into the battle with the old Viking spirit, and Mr. Tomiska with his followers came back with much force. The rebuttal was opened by Mr. Tomiska of Grand Island and was followed by Leo Andersen who presented some almost irrefutable arguments. Mr. Mayers followed Leo Andersen and brought forth some very good arguments which however were met by Mr. Winther. Mr. Goodwin closed the debate for the negative, but Mr. Hansen, the last speaker of the affirmative appeared for the second time, he found many leakages in the roof of the negative's arguments.

However, the debate was not a debate of wits, but rather a battle of sound arguments and flighty oratory. It was very difficult to tell the outcome before the chairman read "negative, affirmative, negative." Such ended the great battle between the Islanders and Danes.

After the debate a delicious luncheon was served in an informal manner.

The following morning the Danaites continued the journey westward. And on the eve of March 1, the battle was ablaze again not in Grand Island but at the State Teachers' College at Kearney. The battle was opened by Mr. Hansen, who seems to possess the characteristic of opening battle. The negative side of the proposition was defended by Mr. Jones, George West, and Sheldon Wingerd. Mr. Jones very convincingly brought forth four points which a jury must meet. These points were undermined by the affirmative, thus leaving the negative without any

Visitors Express Appreciation

The state high school basketball tournament of the Northeast District was held in the new Dana gymnasium, February 22-23. This is the second consecutive year that such an event has taken place. Last year, immediately after the completion of the new gymnasium, the "Riverside Basketball Tournament" in which teams from a radius of 150 miles competed, was held at Dana.

This year the following teams participated:

Class A
Craig	Blair
Herman	Arlington
Decatur	Papillion
Class B
Fort Calhoun	Bennington
Walthill	Kennard
Uehling

Papillion carried off the honors in Class A after exhibiting a game of first class basketball.

In Class B Kennard was victorious.

The teams are to be complimented upon their sportsmanship, spirit and skill. Every game proved to be a close contest between opponents as games lost by a single point reveal.

Beautiful trophies of miniature bronze and silver statues of basketball players were awarded the winners by the Blair Chamber of Commerce. Papillion, the winner in Class A was presented the silver, and Kennard, the winner in Class B, the bronze statue by President T. M. Hansen of Dana College.

All-tournament teams were chosen after careful consideration. The following were chosen:

First Team
Forward...	Boyer.....Papillion
Forward...	Connealy....Decatur
Center....	Jespersen...Herman
Guard....	Hancock....Herman
Guard.....	Beadle.....Papillion

Second Team
Forward...	Gaines.....Herman
Forward...	Weddle.....Craig
Center....	Rose.....Papillion
Guard....	Kennedy....Papillion
Guard.....	Hamming....Arlington

Saturday afternoon visiting players, coaches, and officials were entertained at the Dana College dining hall at a luncheon. Toasts were given by several of those present with Coach Fynboe of Dana College acting as toastmaster: D. V. Masser, Chairman of the tournament committee, Clark O'Hanlon of Blair Chamber of Commerce, Pres. T. M. Hansen and Prof. Erland Nelson of Dana College, Coach Park of Blair, Coach Beechy of Papillion, and Henry Hansen, Dana letter man.

The visiting teams were evidently pleased with the new gymnasium with its smooth standard floor, high ceiling, large seating capacity and basketball facilities. The Dana gym is one of the few buildings in this part of the country so well equipped

VARIOUS KINDS OF BOOKS

Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested. That is, some books are to be read only in parts; others, to be read, but not curiously; and some few to be read wholly, and with diligence and attention. Some books, also, may be read by deputy, and extracts made of them by others. . . . Reading maketh a full man; conference, a ready man; and writing, an exact man. And, therefore, if a man write little, he had need have a great memory; if he confer little, he had need have present wit; and if he reads little he had need have much cunning, to seem to know that he doth not. Histories make men wise; poets, witty; the mathematics, subtle; natural philosophy, deep; moral, grave; logic and rhetoric, able to contend.—Bacon.

OUR NEW RESPONSIBILITY

One Saturday afternoon in the fall of 1925 a student from the seminary went through that part of our town known as North Blair seeking out such children as might be glad to attend Sunday School. In that whole section there is no church; and most of the children and their parents had no connection with any church. The interest shown by the children the first Sunday afternoon was great enough to inspire the students to continue. The history of this work has been presented to us often enough to make further explanation unnecessary. Now the liberality of one of our teachers has insured the permanency of the work. That liberality must be matched by the interest of the students; for here we have been presented with an opportunity to put into practice the spirit of service that Christian education aims to inculcate. Here is an opportunity to make deadening theory alive in Christian service. Here is opportunity to give God's friends—the little children—a better chance to become useful to the world and of greater help to themselves. Through the interest shown in the children we may perhaps reach the parents. Opportunity has knocked at our door; and we must open to it. Our present enthusiasm must not make us careless in our working method, for there can be little success if our efforts are only sporadic. The virgin field which we are to cultivate must not be abused and made sterile by thoughtlessness. But it is after all most important that we have that divine enthusiasm which seeks the welfare of others. In that spirit the work cannot fail. Where are those that will help to make the new meeting house as pleasant a place for the children as possible? Who has a dollar to spare or a pair of hands that can work? These are needed now.

TRUE FREEDOM

Is true Freedom but to break
Fetters for our own dear sake,
And, with leathern hearts, forget
That we owe mankind a debt?
No! True Freedom is to share
All the chains our brothers wear,
And with heart and hand to be
Earnest to make others free!

They are slaves who fear to speak
For the fallen and the weak;
They are slaves who will not choose
Hatred, scoffing and abuse,
Rather than in silence shrink
From the truth they needs must think;
They are slaves who dare not be
In the right with two or three.

James Russell Lowell.

"I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service. And be not fashioned according to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is the good and acceptable and perfect will of God. Rom. 12: 1—2.

Would to God that this serious exhortation of the Apostle Paul may make a more forceful appeal to the Christians at Dana. There is no danger that the atmosphere on the campus will ever become too spiritual, but on the contrary the tendency is that the external and temporal things are drawing too much attention and interest, and as a result the Christians are conforming to the ways of the world. Must it not be confessed by those who profess Christ, that they have but shown meagre concern for the spiritual life here. The activities or studies are allowed to interfere with one's periods of devotion. Likewise, one is so prone to be satisfied by keeping his faith secret and thus assume a passive position. This is a serious and dangerous attitude to take, because the inevitable result will be retrogression in the spiritual life within oneself and amongst the students in general. Christianity must express itself in the life and conversation of believers of the Gospel, if they hope their life shall be a force in influencing others to holiness. The exercise is just as important as the nourishment received from reading the Bible in maintaining a healthy spiritual condition.

The lack of proper devotion to God weakens one's sense of personal sin. Many express a realization of a need of a spiritual awakening at Dana, but the need of a personal change is overlooked. How easy it is to blame one's neighbors for the lack of spirituality, but this sort of criticism is in itself an indication of slothfulness. It seems that God has in a peculiar way sought to awaken the sense of a personal need this year. He has spoken to students and some have been religiously stirred at instances, but how few are there not who have been moved to dedicate their lives more completely to God and His service? The indications of more spiritual life is at least slight and each Christian can blame himself.

Is it not time to arise from slumber and heed the apostle's exhortation? Would that there was a greater thirst to be filled with the Holy Spirit. When the Christians awaken to a realization of their need and make earnest prayer that the Holy Spirit might guest their hearts, He will transform their minds. Christ is ready and desirous to renew the minds of His disciples that they may be able to prove what is the good, acceptable, and perfect will of God. In order to realize this much needed and desired transformation the Christians must determine by the grace of God to spend more time in meditation upon the Word of God, in prayer for oneself and others, and to act as a living testimony of the life and faith within them.

Henry Hansen.

Rev. Pedersen stressed the Word of Christ as being as efficacious today as in that day the five thousand were miraculously fed and satisfied with the insignificant supply of loaves and fishes. With the blessing of Christ added human gifts and efforts can accomplish great things. This fact he illustrated by pointing to the beginning and stupendous growth of the Santhal Mission. In sixty years, the mission that was started in 1867 by two men, Skrefsrud and Børresen, has grown to become a congregation numbering twenty-five thousand souls—a sure proof that the Word of Christ is powerful in the souls of men where it is given room to work, a proof that little can become much at the personal touch of Jesus, that this "little", the gospel of Christ, is enough to satisfy a world of hungering souls.

Sunday afternoon Missionary Pedersen gave a more general survey of the entire Santhalmission. His lectures were interspersed with good cheer and humor, which everyone present thoroughly enjoyed. In conclusion Rev. Pedersen, at the evening service in the local church, made a strong appeal to us to yield to the touch of Jesus Christ and to offer everything to Him who would in turn reward abundantly.

REV. N. C. CARLSEN SPEAKS AT DANA (Continued from page 1)

United Danish Ev. Luth. Church in America rests on the Holy Scriptures (the canonical books of the Old and New Testaments), the Apostolic Confession of faith, and the other confessional writings of our mother church (the Nicene Creed, the Athanasian Creed, Luther's Small Catechism, and the Unaltered Augsburg Confession). In its essential teachings our church professes to be orthodox. Rev. Carlsen referred to the strife between the fundamentalists and the modernists, and said: "Our church is neither agreeing with the fundamentalists, nor does it agree with the modernists. We believe more than the fundamentalists.

It is characteristic for our church, that it does real personal work. To that effect Rev. Carlsen gave citations from Dr. Morehead and also from Dr. Vig.

Rev. Carlsen especially emphasized the work carried on in our home mission. He remarked that he had met many objections to the work. Old members of the congregation say: "We pay our own church affairs; why shall we pay for others?" But these dear people do not realize that those of our countrymen who are without church affiliations whatsoever are spiritually spoken going to die unless we are going to help them right now. We must respond to that secret cry of souls who hunger.

Rev. Carlsen closed with a general survey of our mission in Canada, Oaks, and Japan.

DANA QUINTET AGAIN DEFEATS WALTHILL

Tuesday, February 26, the Dana Scarlet and White encountered the Walthill Junior College basketball team in the Dana gymnasium, and again trounced them in their second game by a score of 35 to 15.

The game did not result in much scoring although both teams worked hard. At the sound of the whistle the game started with a spurt with the ball in the possession of the home team. In a short time a Dana man sent the sphere through the hoop. From then on the game became rather slow. The ball was advanced from one end of the floor to the other with an occasional score.

DANNEBROG PRESENTS HUMOROUS PROGRAM

The Dannebrog Society sponsored a very interesting program Friday evening, March 8. As the name implies this literary society uses the Danish language. To those who were able to understand the language, the numbers of the program were especially amusing, since selections were taken from true Danish witticisms.

After the singing of a song, Johannes Petersen reviewed the chief events of H. C. Andersen's life. Harry Thomsen played "Ramona" on his guitar in a pleasing manner. "Konen med Æggene," the woman with the eggs, was very aptly personified by Rosa Kirkegaard who proved to be skilled in carrying the basket of eggs upon her head. Following the singing of another song, Gudmund Rundstrom gave a humorous reading, "Flipperne" (collars). Esther Johnsen and Lucille Hansen sang an old beautiful Danish song. "Klods Hans", an amusing reading by Immanuel Johansen, completed the literary program. The meeting adjourned with the singing of a song.

of the class room is to avoid bluffing, as it is a reflection on one self, the church, and on Christ. All should live honest, sympathetic Christian lives. 2) The student's social duty during his leisure hour is to encourage the fertility of ideas and learn to display real wit. 3) His social duty on the campus is to be a leader, organizer, and group builder. He should be a good follower and learn to live with things he didn't choose. Finally, it should be a soul winner, permeated with the love of Christ. A short discussion followed on questions arising from the addresses.

After lunch the delegates met for a short business meeting. The following officers were elected: George Endicott of Kansas University, president; Miss Verona Park of Kansas State Agricultural College, vice-president; Hilmar Larson of Bethany College, treasurer; and Miss Bernice Henriksen of Midland College, secretary. The quota for the Dana College dues next year is $30. A conference picture was taken in the city park with the Trinity Church in the background, and a sightseeing trip was taken about Lawrence, including such places as the Kansas University, the Kansas State Industrial School, and other places of interest.

Saturday evening at 7:30 the meeting was opened with devotion by Dana's delegate followed by a violin solo by Miss Ednah Hopkins. An address was delivered by Dr. Martin, president of Midland College, on the topic, "The student in his relation to his spiritual life." He stated that our relationship with the spiritual is a relationship with a person. The way we know that we have this relationship is by measuring ourselves with the Holy Scripture, which says, "Every spirit which confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in flesh is of God;" and "By your fruits you are judged." Finally, we may ask ourselves, does this relationship appeal to us? The evening program was followed by a pleasant and enjoyable social hour.

Sunday morning, at 9:45, a short discussion was introduced by Dr. C. P. Harry. The chief question discussed was: "How shall we gain the interest of the student in the church?" Various suggestions were made, of which the chief were to offer pro-

DANA DEFEATS NEBRASKA CENTRAL

Dana's negative team traveled out to Central City Friday, March 8, and debated the Nebraska Central College affirmative team on the jury question. The negative was upheld by Dorothy Jensen, Alfa Hansen, and C. Clifford Madsen. Nebraska Central's kind hospitality was very much appreciated and the relationship between the two colleges was made still stronger.

The debate opened with great interest, zeal, and vigor which never abated but rather increased as the contest wore on. As the clash closed, each debater was keyed to the highest pitch and seemed to be in his best form. While the judges were preparing their ballots, the audience was tensely waiting, they themselves being unable to decide which team deserved the decision. Dana, however, proved to be the superior debaters. The judges were of the same mind and so gave the decision to Dana by a score of 2 to 1.

Dana's standing in the conference is now .800, having won four and lost one debate.

The morning service held in Trinity church. Dr. C. P. Harry delivered a sermon on the significance of the cross. His sermon may be summed up in his definition of the cross: "The cross is the plus sign of the greater life, that heals the scar of sin."

The invitation for the regional conference in 1930 extended jointly by Dana College and Trinity Seminary and our Luther League was accepted.

tem. The result was that the judges of the debate, Supt. Bishop of Tekamah High School, Miss Ryan, Coach of Debate at Central High, Omaha, and Supt. Cropper of Craig High School cast their ballots unanimously in favor of the Dana squad. Prof. M. L. Kirkegaard presided at the meeting.

On the following evening our negative again appeared on the local platform with the same line-up as on the previous evening except for the substitution of Alfa Hansen for Richard Morton as second speaker. The opposition for this debate hailed from Kearney State Teachers College, Kearney, Nebr., in the persons of Miss Irene Thorell, Mr. Roland Ogley, and Mr. Louis Albrecht.

As soon as the first Kearney speaker took the floor, the locals realized they were up against some real opposition which would require the best they had if they were to win. Spurred on by the victory of the previous evening they were determined not to be out-done by the fluent oratory of the Kearney aggregation. At the end of the constructive argument the cases seemed to be very evenly matched, but the negative came back in the rebuttals and succeeded in so weakening the case of the opposition and strengthening their own that the decision of the judges was cast two to one in Dana's favor.

The judges of this debate were Supt. Bishop of Tekamah, Principal Weisensee of Tekamah, and Miss Robinson, Coach of Debate of North High, Omaha. Richard Morton acted as chairman of the meeting.

case. Mr. Andersen followed Mr. Jones and brought forth the main defects of the present jury system which, however, the negative could not meet. Mr. Winther amalgamated the four points which the negative had set forth into the affirmative case leaving the negative without any case of their own. At this point of interest the affirmative presented to the negative a few questions which the negative attempted to pass by with the exception of two. These two they believed were irrelevant to the question of debate, but they discovered later that they were relevant matter. The rebuttal was opened by Mr. Jones, Leo Andersen then pointed out very effectively that the technicalities which the negative had contended did not belong to the present jury system. At this point the flashings from the cannons reached its heights and remained such throughout the debate. Mr. Winther pointed out that the debate should not be in the subjunctive mood, as the negative would have it to be. Mr. Hansen closed the debate with a rebuttal that proved fatal to the opposing team. The Danaites were victorious with a 2 to 1 decision in their favor.

This debate was a very close debate, and not until the final vote was read by the chairman was anyone sure of victory. Besides presenting some almost irrefutable arguments, the Kearney debaters gave the Danes plenty of work but their fort was impregnable.

After the debate was over a sociable hour was enjoyed in the ladies' reception room and a very delicious luncheon was served.

SUCCESS

'Tis the coward who stops at misfortune;
'Tis the knave who changes each day;
'Tis the fool who wins half the battle,
Then throws all his chances away.

There's little in life but labor,
And tomorrow may prove but a dream,
Success is the bride of Endeavor,
And luck but a meteor's gleam.

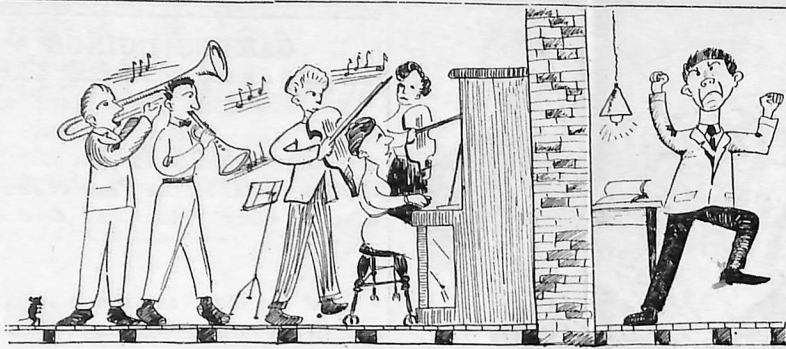

The time to succeed is when others,
Discouraged, show traces of tire;
The battle is fought in the home stretch —
And won—'twixt the flag and the wire.

—John Moore.

HOW MEN ARE MADE

JEST OURSELVES

Dear Folks:

As usual I am too late in writing to you; there are always so many things to take care of; but anyway thank you for your last letter.

Now the winter students have left. We surely had a fine program at Dannevirke last time with speeches and coffee and everything. All of us had a good laugh, although Harald Larsen broke the record; he was not himself again before they gave him some ice cream.

It is awful, Ma, now I have been home for 20 years, and first now I have found out that in all these years we have been eating the wrong way. It is a queer thing that we have not all died a long time ago. And then you say it is no use to take Danish, you should just try to be in that class; we learn every thing. I never knew that literature was such a wide subject, but there we even learn about "Etiquette" (Det er Kunsten at spise). Our teacher told us that we could only use two, at least not more than three fingers,

Dana, however, was able to keep well in the lead with superior team work. A number of substitutions were made due to fouls. The half ended with the score standing 21—9. The second period of the game proceeded in much the same manner as the first. Mortensen was substituted for Hansen and Petersen for Sorensen on the Dana team. Again the ball was carried from one team to the other with the scoring in Dana's favor. When the final whistle echoed "over the field of strife" the score was decidedly in favor of the Scarlet and White, 35—15.

to take hold of our "Redskaber" with, and then we should put our little finger straight up in the air and keep "Guldebrand" a little away from the others. To eat with the knife was "forkastelig". Yes, Ma, wait till I come home, then I will show you something, for when a professor says so, it must be right. I am trying to practice it every day, but I can't get the finger to stay up.

You say it must be tiresome to go on choir trips. Yes, you are right, my "Ligterne" gets tired when we have to sing for a couple of hours, and then you know we get so tired of eating that we can't eat anything more the rest of the week even though we have to pay for it. I also got tired waiting for the boys when we had to leave in the morning. One of them came too late out of bed, and in his hurry he took tooth paste instead of shaving cream, so he had a hard time getting it off. But some of the others could not come early enough because the chickens had not laid the eggs that early. Prof. Nielsen's watch seems to take a rest too at night, it is always too slow in the morning. But we sure had a fine time anyway. Esther Johnson fell in love with a coon last time when we were in Hampton, but "mødes og skilles er Livets Gang." We had a Dannebrog meeting last Friday, and Rosa Kirkegaard reminded me so much of my grandma, so I got so homesick that the tears ran across each other down my cheeks. Johansen told us about Klods Hans, and he looked so dumb that I wished I had been the princess, then he most likely had gotten another result.

It is the class bell. Latin comes next hour. I can't see why those dumb people of Rome could not write in English. But I have to go, and close with many kærlige Hilsener,

HUMOR

Visitor on the Campus: "Where is the football coach?"

Alice G.: "We don't have any, you see, we use the choir bus."

Wife: "I think I hear burglars. Are you awake?"

Timid husband: "No."

A negro cook answered the phone the other morning, and a cheerful voice inquired, "What number is this?"

The cook, in no mood for trifling questions, answered with some asperity, "You-all ought to know, you done called it."

Instructor: "What is the technical name for a woman-hater?"

Hilton R.: "A bachelor."

"Christy" is becoming quite adept with a saxophone. He appeared for the first time in public dress parade
