

Nebraska Forensic Ass'n To Hold Meeting At Dana

A LOCAL CONTEST TO BE CONDUCTED

The Nebraska Intercollegiate Forensic Association will hold its annual fall meeting at Dana College early in December.

Besides the regular routine business the Old Line State Oratorical Contest will be held. The winners will be entered in the Divisional Contest, the place of which has not yet been determined for the year. The Association pays all expenses which such trips might incur for the students.

This year there will be a division for both men and women orators. The student prepares his own oration upon any subject which he may choose; consequently those aspiring to enter and win must possess some natural ability.

Dana students anticipate eagerly the opportunity to hear some of the most brilliant orators of Nebraska colleges.

Dana sent no representative to the state contest last year but at the contest held two years ago at Kearney, Alfred C. Jensen of Blair, Nebraska, represented Dana.

The Alpha Sigma Phi will sponsor a local contest to select Dana's representative. More details concerning this contest will be announced at a later date.

The following colleges will be represented by their debate coaches and participants: Cotner, Doane, Hastings, Kearney, Midland, Nebraska Central, Nebraska Wesleyan, Omaha, Peru State Teachers', Wayne State Teachers', York, and Dana.

Seniors Have Many B.A. Candidates

Dana is rapidly becoming a four year college. More students are realizing the high scholastic attainments of Dana and are glad that they are able to receive their degrees from her. Out of the 23 senior graduates this year, 11 are candidates for the B.A. degrees. This remarkably shows that Dana is steadily climbing upward.

The seminary has six graduates this year compared to the four graduates of last year. Two students are graduating from the two years music course, and four are graduating from the normal department.

The first meeting of the Senior Class of '33 was held October 11. Wm. Larsen presided over the meeting as temporary chairman. The important business of this first meeting was the election of officers. The nominating committee elected was Paul Rasmussen, chairman; Alma Johnson; and Emil Pedersen.

The officers of the Class will be: President, Wm. Larsen, who is one of the candidates for his B.A. degree; Vice-President, Theo. Jensen; Secretary, Aliene Miller; Treasurer, Wesley Andersen.

One of the debatable questions of the Senior Class is: "Should the Senior Class of '33 edit a Danian?" Much discussion was issued on the subject, but the question is to be postponed until Wesley Andersen and Skriver Nielsen can produce data on the publication of the Danian.

Danish Culture Propagated

Since the founding of Dana various Danish organizations have existed in the college. They have afforded an opportunity to the continuance of the Danish culture. During the last decade, Danish language has been losing ground; nevertheless, there are still many students who enjoy programs in their mother tongue. These students have assumed charge and are carrying on the Danish culture societies.

The more outstanding society, the Dannebrog Society, held a meeting Friday, October 14.

A journey to Denmark was portrayed by means of song and music, each selection depicting some scene along the journey.

The ocean steamer approaching Øresund, the harbor of Copenhagen; the trip by ferry; and the roaring of North Sea waves against the coast was realistically presented by a series of piano solo by Mrs. Malmin, vocal solo by Emil Pedersen, and Alma Johnson gave scenes along the route through Sealand. Sailing past Fyn was vividly pictured by a poem read in the dialect of the island by Lily Jørgensen. Kristian Ludvigsen acted as guide on the journey and added many historical and instructive facts.

We were brought back to Dana by a short business meeting. The new officers elected were: Chris Bertelsen, president; Alfred Magnussen, vice-president; Mary Jensen, secretary; Johan Pedersen, treasurer.

The Nordic Læsekreds is also planning an active year. Re-organization has been delayed due to the fact that Prof. Stub, the chairman, has resigned from the faculty. However, those who are interested in Scandinavian literature are pleased that they will be supported by Professor Swanson, thus adding the Norwegian element and making the society truly "Nordic" in nature.

Historical Club Is Contemplated

It has been rumored of late that a History Club is to be organized on the Campus. This rumor was verified by an interview with Prof. Swanson, head of the History Department.

It is planned, Dr. Swanson says, to issue a call to all those who are interested in such a club, to discuss matters of organization. The purpose of the club will be to cultivate an interest in History in general, and particularly that which deals with Danish life in America. Through such an organization it might be possible to collect interesting documents, pictures, curios, and other treasures which will be of increasing interest and value to us.

However, the club will be organized to meet the needs and special interests of its members in order that it might give opportunity for self-expression as well as lasting benefit to the students who participate.

Sufficient interest has been indicated to justify the organization of a History Club. The organization will prove to be an active and useful one if the students maintain their beginning interest.

Representation Is Widespread

On looking over the registration statistics of the students we find that Dana College is well representative of many sections of the United States and Canada. Dana College is not merely a local institution but we find students here from both the Pacific and the Atlantic Coast.

Nebraska heads the list this year with fifty-six students, thirty of whom are from Blair and vicinity. Maine and California are represented in the student body with one student from the former and four from the latter state. It is interesting to note that California sends as many students to Dana College as does Minnesota, which also sends four students this year. Iowa and Wisconsin are again giving very good support to the institution. There are eighteen students from Iowa and twelve from Wisconsin. Canada sends three students while Colorado sends two. Kansas, South Dakota, New Jersey, and Maine are each represented by one student.

Trinity Seminary consists of three students from Wisconsin, three from Minnesota, two from Nebraska, one from Montana, and one from Missouri.

Radio Broadcast Features Trio

The radio program on October 11 depicted the spiritual and cultural life at Dana.

The program was opened with the inspiring hymn, "Beautiful Savior"; sung by the girls' trio. "Thy Word, O Lord, Like Gentle Dew" was the next number. The trio is composed of Inga Schultz, Racine, Wisconsin; Alma Johnson, Plainview, Nebraska; Aliene Miller, Waupaca, Wisconsin.

The advantages and merits of the winter semester course was set forth by President Nelson.

The Dana Winter Semester was begun in 1929 as a means of opening educational opportunities for those who are not able to attend during the regular nine-month term. Each year since then, a number of young men and women have made use of this term. This year the winter semester begins Nov. 14 and ends April 1. It is hoped that many young men and women who could not leave their work in September will be able to enjoy the advantages of one or more winters at Dana.

The semester is a regular eighteen week semester and enables the student to earn sixteen college hours

Pastors' Conference Will Be Held Here

The pastors of Iowa and Nebraska Districts will hold a conference here during the days of Oct. 17-20, inclusive.

The conference will open Monday evening with Holy Communion service in the local church. Rev. A. M. Andersen will deliver the opening sermon. Services will also be conducted in the local church on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

The sessions of the conference will be held in the College Chapel, where several pastors and professors will lecture on different aspects of the Christian ministry. Over forty pastors are expected to attend. The meeting will be open to college students.

Dana Gridsters Capture Second Consecutive Game

Dramatic Club Is Proposed

A meeting was called on Thursday evening, October 13, for all those who were interested in dramatics.

A representative group of students turned out and prospects are very good for a successful season in the promotion of this culture. In the meeting, in which Professor Swanson was chairman, the suggestion was made that a club be organized and that officers be elected. A committee consisting of Alice Nielsen, Loren Boulier, Margaret Henningson, Mary Mullin, and Robert Larsen, was chosen. This group was empowered to nominate candidates for officers, to select a date for the next meeting, and to read and select plays.

This organization will have a two-fold purpose. First, to inculcate and encourage an appreciation of the best that is in dramatic writings. Second, to give the student an opportunity to develop the invaluable asset of self-expression. The end which is cultural and not material will be reached through the study of productions by such authors as: Shaw, Galsworthy, and Strindberg. This club offers the opportunity that has been waited for by a large number of Dana students, this fact was duly exemplified by the group that attended the first meeting. Many more students are expected to take part when the organization is fully established.

The future of this club is facilitated by the fact that Dana has some equipment for such propagation. This will undoubtedly be both a live, profitable club and a prominent, permanent one. It behooves all who can, to join the group and partake of its benefits. An opportunity to enter and be one of the group is open to all students. The first plays are going to be of the more common type and not of the difficult; here is your chance to get in on the ground floor.

Hesperian Sponsors Exhibition Debate

The Hesperian Literary Society presented its second program of the school year on Friday evening, Oct. 7, in the college chapel.

The Hesperian Society gives bi-monthly programs which are of great interest to everyone who attends. This society gives a great variety of programs throughout the year. The programs are presented by members of the student body, and it is the aim of the society that the programs shall be both cultural and entertaining.

The feature of this program was a debate which was given by the debating class. The clash centered on the question, Resolved, that "President Hoover and a Republican Congress should be elected in the coming election."

Mr. Wesley Andersen, former debate manager at Dana, acted as chairman for the evening's debate.

The question of vital interest to everyone attracted a fairly large crowd. The affirmative side of the question was upheld by Edward Andersen, Johan Pedersen, Emil Pedersen, and Paul Reins; the negative

CRESTON DEFEATED WITH 18-12 SCORE

Displaying a superior running and passing attack, Dana proceeded onward toward an undefeated season last Thursday night. The game was played under the lights at Creston before an overflow crowd.

The superiority of Dana was clearly marked, they piled up 10 first downs in the first half to Creston's 2 and then went on to roll up a total of 19 to their opponent's 10.

The game was thrilling in every way. Dana kicked off 45 yards to Creston who returned 15 and the game was under way. Dana's line held and Creston punted to Dana's 40 yard line. Immediately Dana's powerful running attack centered around M. Jensen was under way and with the line opening huge holes the team plowed down the field to a touchdown. The try for point was a pass—incomplete.

Score: Dana 6; Creston 0.

Dana kicked off 40 yards to Creston who returned 10. The line again held and they punted to Dana's 35 yard line. A fumble in the backfield was recovered by Creston. On straight line plunges Creston took the ball over for a touchdown. Their try for point was blocked.

Score: Dana 6; Creston 6.

Creston kicked off 40 yards to Dana and the game developed into a punting duel with Creston having a slight edge, their punts averaging close to the 40 yard mark. Finally Dana gained possession of the ball near midfield and proceeded to get their running attack under way again. Marching straight down the field on line plays they took the ball to the 4 yard stripe where M.

Professors Are Convalescing

Illness has invaded and disturbed the regular routine of school life at Dana for the first time this year. Two members of our faculty are in the hospital at the present time, but according to latest reports both are doing nicely and are on the road to complete recovery.

Prof. G. J. Malmin, director of our music department, was operated upon at the Blair Hospital for appendicitis October 7. His recovery has been rapid and he will probably be removed to his home Sunday, however, ten days or two weeks will be required before he will be able to return to his duties.

The other faculty member is Dr. C. X. Hansen, head of the department of Education, who has been critically ill in Immanuel Hospital at Omaha for the past three weeks. Dr. Hansen suffered an attack of peritonitis that resulted from an operation for acute appendicitis.

For a time there seemed little hope for his recovery, and although he suffered a relapse late last week his condition at present is said to be decidedly favorable. Just when Dr. Hansen will return to his home and his duties as instructor is uncertain but if the improvement he has shown the last few days continues he may be able to guide us through the second semester—perhaps sooner.

ONE STEP AT A TIME

As a group of college men and women, we, of course, all have come for the definite purpose of receiving an education. Though we have this common end in view, each one has his own personal problems in life. Some of us have already chosen our profession, while others of us are at a loss as to what the future has in store.

We have often read articles and listened to addresses which endeavor to teach that each person attending college should have a goal in view and that our highest ideal should be to serve man. We must be able to make a living for ourselves and some people maintain that we should make as much money as possible. It cannot be denied that these ideals are important, but it seems to me that often in our work at school we think so much of the future that we forget to build a strong foundation from the material which confronts us every day.

To those who have selected their life task, I say, take heed lest you be looking so far ahead that you stumble into a pit. "Take One Step At A Time" and let that step be this school year. It is your duty to take one step forward in whatever activities you participate. Think not only of your own advancement but of your fellow class-men who are to take this step with you.

To those who are undecided, I say, take heed that you worry not too much of the future and forget the things of the present. Yet do not float along the river of life thinking that you can easily turn back. The current might become so strong that you will go down over the falls. "Take One Step At A Time" and as you go forward, seek God in prayer. He will lead you on the track of your life work.

Thus each one of us has his own problem, but we are all to take that common step forward. We are different personalities in one group endeavoring to prepare ourselves for that ultimate goal. Let us all work together in this "step." Select the activities which suit your needs and try to perfect yourself in that line of work. We are often tempted to try everything with which our minds come in contact so that our efforts cannot be concentrated upon a few lines of endeavour.

Let us realize that this school year depends upon us. We make the school what it is. Let us carry on the work at Dana with the determination of going forward, each one having his task to perform. Let us attempt to perfect that "step" and take it so accurately that those who follow may not find it difficult to retrace our "step" of 1932.

WILL POWER

Will power is the guiding force of human destiny. Power of will lifts man past physical handicaps; a giant will has put a crippled body in the executive seat of one of the greatest properties in America.

Consider the will power of Napoleon—the one thing that carried him past obstacles that seemed insurmountable. In the face of defeat, disgrace, exile, and imprisonment, his giant will struck off iron chains and brought him back a conqueror.

Will power is a commercial asset, the value of which is far beyond human reckoning. Look about you in the world of commerce for the men of will who have found the way.

Electricity is a recognized force of nature. And will power is the corresponding force of humanity—just as real and as much of an actual driving, living force as electricity. You see electricity driving street cars. You see will power driving men. First of all comes the desire to do a definite thing. Then comes the will that does it. Don't confuse stubbornness and inflexibility with will power. Stubbornness is the "cast iron" of humanity. It breaks before it gives. On the other hand, will power is the "highly tempered spring" that yields to conditions, but instantly returns to place when the pressure is released. The stubborn man is the victim of prejudice or ignorance. The man of will is ready at the proper time and place to recede from his position—but only for the purpose of getting a better start. He never stands still.

Now mark this: Nothing—absolutely nothing in this world—is impossible to the man who can will strongly enough. If mere "wishes were horses, all would ride." It isn't the absence of desire that keeps people from achievement. We all want things. But the lack of will power, not merely to begin, but to continue—day after day—yes, even year after year, if necessary, is the wrecker. Put energy and decision and unflinching belief back of your will and thereby gain a power that does not recognize the possibility of failure. Will—will with all that is in you. Will persistently, intelligently, and for a definite goal.

A mind of great will power is a well-disciplined mind. It obeys. It acts. It controls. Test yourself. Does your mind obey you? Do you

In the third chapter of Genesis, in the ninth verse, we read these words: "And Jehovah God called unto the man, and said unto him, Where art thou?"

What had happened that God must thus seek Adam? The tempter had come with his poisonous "Yea, hath God said?" Man had sinned and eaten of the forbidden fruit and immediately there arose that wall of sin between himself and his Creator. He became ashamed of his nakedness, sewed aprons of fig leaves and when God came in the cool of the day and called out, "Where art thou?", Adam sought to hide from God.

Not only in the garden of Eden did God call man. He has been seeking him ever since and today the question still comes to each one of us, "Where art thou?" This question cannot be answered by a statement of our position in this world. Our place among men, our honor and glory, our wealth or poverty, our training and knowledge—all these cannot answer the question. It concerns but one thing, our relation to God. And it can be answered in only one way, by stating our relation to God.

In this last decade thousands have learned to their bitter experience that they can not depend on earthly things. That which at one time was safe and sound has proved to be nothing but sinking sand. Wealth that once was safely and securely invested is now gone. Homes and property have been taken from many. Position and honor mean nothing. Fortunes disappear over night. In short, all the material things man once depended upon and thought safe and secure are now gone or have become unsafe today. Man cannot state, with any degree of certainty, his status financially, socially, politically or otherwise. Such conditions are indeed deplorable. But spiritual uncertainty is far more dangerous. The man who cannot give God an answer when asked "Where art thou?" is in a far more serious condition. For the things of this world are but temporal while the soul is eternal.

"Where art thou?" It is not enough to be able to say that we are baptized, that we are confirmed, that we lead respectable lives, that we read God's word and that we attend worship in His house each Sunday. These outward acts are often only perfunctory. We must have God in our hearts and worship Him in spirit and in truth. We must meet His Son, Jesus Christ, as our personal Savior and experience His love in our hearts. We must be able to say as did the blind man, "One thing I know; whereas I was blind now I see."

Could not God have come to Adam? No. Man as a human being, created with a free will, must of his own volition come to God. God cannot compel man to serve Him; he can but call him. It is for man to accept or reject this call. Salvation is a personal matter and each man will be held to account for his own soul. No one can answer for you. You must face God alone.

do the things you know you ought to do? Do you decide positively when you know you ought to decide? Do you do the things today that ought to be done today, or do you put them off until tomorrow? Do temptations and passions master you or does your will control them? Those are the everyday tests of will power. That's where your strength begins. That's where you can practice. That's where your discipline begins and that's where you form the habit of great will mastery over all the problems of life. Use that God-given force within you which makes mind greater than body.

You have will power. Don't let it lie latent. Use it.

CHAPEL THOUGHTS

The privileged person has a great responsibility for the unprivileged.

A nation can do nothing better for its youth than to make them both learned and wise.

"Behind the dim Unknown standeth God within the shadow, keeping watch above His own."—Did you ever consider that?

"God's word in the heart is youth's best protection against folly and wickedness."—Do you believe that? Why then don't you store your heart with it?

"No revelation of truth is merely for personal benefits; it is always for the sake of some service one may render."

The teaching of the Bible is not that God once was, but that He ever is.

"If there were more thinkers we could spare a good many talkers."

Whether God says "come" or "go," His promise is the same: "Certainly I will be with thee."—What more could you want?

LUTHER LEAGUE

Luther League held its regular meeting Wednesday, October 5. Leo Andersen read a portion of Scriptures and led in prayer. Alma Johnson read a selection entitled, "The Thread from Above." The girls' trio, Aliene Miller, Alma Johnson and Inga Schultz, sang a song entitled, "Now the Day Is Over."

Immanuel Petersen delivered a devotional talk on the question: "What think ye of Christ?" Jesus presented this question to the Pharisee, who in turn responded "The son of David." This was in a certain sense correct, in so far as they considered Jesus to be only man. But He was more. He was also the Son of God, and that was the reason why "David called Him Lord." This is an important question because man's salvation depends on whether he accepts Christ as the Son of man or also as the Son of God. Every person must answer this question for himself. What then do you think of Christ? What is He to you?

A short business meeting was held for the purpose of electing officers. The result of the election is as follows: Verner Carlsen, president; Ervin Bondo, vice-president; Mary Jensen, secretary; and Paul Rasmussen, treasurer. John Gebuhr and John Petersen were appointed to serve as auditors. The arrangement of programs was left in the hands of the committee in charge. It was also decided to continue to conduct the Saturday and Sunday morning devotions in the chapel.

What then have you done with the invitation extended by God? Have you accepted the salvation offered you by God through His Son, Jesus Christ? Are your sins blotted out by the blood of Christ? Such questions are not to be put lightly aside. They have an important bearing on your life in eternity. "Where art thou?" asks God. What is your answer?

The book, "Queen Victoria," by Lytton Strachey, is an unusual biography, for it is not written in the usual chauvinistic style, but portrays Queen Victoria as a fellow human whom fate had placed in a high and responsible position. The author makes the reader feel that Queen Victoria is human and shares with, even the least of us, the joys and sorrows, and the trials and temptations of life; and by the time the reader has finished the book, Queen Victoria seems like a familiar acquaintance for whom he has great respect and admiration.

The biography furnishes a background of history and gives the reader an interesting insight of the petty intrigues and strifes of the royal families of England and the neighboring nations. Following this plan of a historical background, the author presents Queen Victoria at the time of her ascension, she shows inexperience in politics, her dependence on Lord Melbourne, and traces the gradual development of her character up to the time of her marriage with Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg. From that time the author makes the reader realize the important part her husband, the Prince Consort, plays in Queen Victoria's life; and only in his description of the Prince Consort does the author display any trace of chauvinism. The gradual development of the Prince Consort from "a foreign prince who married the Queen" to a respected political leader is one of the most impressive expositions in the book. The reader admires the Prince Consort for his determination to become more than a mere figure-head. Again, at the death of the Prince Consort, Queen Victoria stands forth a wife bereaved of her beloved life partner. Yet one never loses sight of the fact that she is Queen of England and that she exerts a tremendous influence over the policies of the nation she reigns. In the closing years of Queen Victoria's life, the reader feels the same loyalty to her as did her subjects of her scattered domain, and he feels strangely affected when the end comes to this queen who reigned over the world's largest empire for nearly sixty-four years.

The greatest lesson from this book is that though one may hold a high and responsible position, he nevertheless, aside from the duties of that position, is a fellow being who endures life's trials and temptations and life's joys and sorrows. The author forcibly brings out this point by using Queen Victoria's personal diary as a source of innumerable quotations.

The great lessons that may be drawn from Queen Victoria's life are her tireless industry, her unshakable loyalty and devotion to her husband and family, and her great personal interest in others manifested through her huge correspondence.

Jensen again went over for a touchdown. The try for point was blocked.

Score: Dana 12; Creston 6.

The play for the remainder of the half was centered near the midfield with neither team having a decided edge.

Creston kicked off to Dana to open the second half and Dana was forced to punt. From here Creston again made a game out of it by marching down the field for 60 yards and a touchdown. Their try for point was blocked.

Score: Dana 12; Creston 12.

Creston again kicked off to Dana. Here Dana's powerful running attack which had been rolling up yardage all evening was stopped by a ripping, charging line of Iowans. Being stopped here the Vikings took to the air and a long pass, M. Jensen to Hurd, scored. The try for point, a pass, was incomplete.

Score: Dana 18; Creston 12.

Dana kicked off 50 yards to Creston who immediately punted. Dana drove down the field to the Creston 1 yard line and it looked like another touchdown but a fumble gave the ball to Creston. They took the ball to the 40 yard line on a series of line plays but were finally held for downs. Dana was again driving down the field when the gun went off.

Dana had a total of 332 yards gained to Creston's 226. The work of W. Anderson, Harrison, L. Hancock, Bill Larsen, Thorngren, Vig, Carlson, and Thogersen in the line was outstanding. "To pick a star of the game would be an injustice to the rest of the team as they all blocked and tackled superbly," said Coach Olson after the game. Mert Jensen and Hurd were the offensive stars while Stan Jensen and N. Johnson played a bang-up defensive game, backing up the line at crucial moments. Doc Petersen replaced N. Johnson in the third quarter and gave a nice exhibition of broken-field running.

The terrific pace of the game spent its toll on the team, several of the members being bruised. However, Coach Olson expects the team to be in tip-top shape for Dana's next game, which will be played against Central at Central City October 28.

Summary of game:

	1	2	3	4
Creston	6	0	6	0	12
Dana	6	6	6	0	18

First downs: Dana 19; Creston 10. Passes attempted: Dana 6; Creston 11. Passes completed: Dana 2; Creston 4. Passes intercepted: Dana 2; Creston 0. Fumbles: Dana 2; Creston 1. Penalties: Dana: 3 for 15 yards; Creston 1 for 5 yards. Yardage lost from scrimmage: Dana 13; Creston 10.

WHAT ABOUT FOOTBALL

The director of athletics and coaches are asked many times the same question, "What are the prospects for a winning football team?" The pigskin sport is again knocking at our front door. It is a healthy sign to have these questions asked at this time and it indicates that the loyal boosters are still boosting in spite of the fact that it takes several good sized pigs to pay for one pigskin ellipsoid.

Directors of athletics have learned not to predict too definitely, but to picture things ambiguously. When they look into the present football season of Dana College, they can say with great confidence that a successful one is in sight. Mr. Olson, head football coach, is working night and day preparing the team for its third encounter at home and as much can be said for the candidates, whose abilities and actual accomplishments will determine the worthiness of football in 1932 at Dana College.

Elizabeth Hansen and Marie Thompson, of Council Bluffs, spent Saturday and Sunday, October 8 and 9, with Barbara Hansen.

Rev. and Mrs. Hansen, and daughter, of Elk Horn, spent October 3 with friends.

At a student body meeting held Friday, October 7, Harold Hancock was elected athletic editor and Robert Larsen business manager of "Hermes." A pep committee consisting of Ervin Bondo, Marian Petersen, and Oreta George was elected. It was decided to publish "Hermes" twice a month as has been done in previous years.

Adolph Petersen had the misfortune of crashing into a moving train. He was badly cut and bruised. However, he is getting along as well as can be expected.

Luther Lincoln was badly injured in the face while at football practice. Dean Thomssen's apartment has just been remodeled.

tive by Verner Carlsen, Dolliver Thorgesen, Harold Christensen, Marion Nelson, and Barbara Hansen.

The decision was left to the audience, and the affirmative won the debate by a 21 to 14 vote.

With more such scrimmage debates in view, the debaters will be rounded into good form for the debate season, which is not far off.

or four high school credits. Mr. Nelson pointed to the success of the winter semester, not only in terms of enrollment, but also in terms of scholastic grades earned by winter semester students, in terms of participation in general college activities and on the basis of the number of students who have continued the college or high school work begun during the winter semester.

Viggo Carlsen continued the program with two solos: "Oley Speaks" "Waters of Babylon," and "Hear Me, Ye Winds and Waves," by Handel.

"Now Thank We All Our God" and "Now the Day Is Over," sung by the girls' trio, concluded the girls' program. The next Dana radio program will be presented over WOW at 10:15 P. M., Oct. 25.

PROTECTING The Athletes

FOOTBALL PLAYERS are young and sturdy, yet the coach's first thought is for their protection—including headguard, shoulder pads and padded togs.

Another protection that students should have is Lutheran Brotherhood life insurance. Being young and healthy entitles you to low rates—which never increase (fixed by contract). And you can make your parents beneficiaries.

Write now, giving your age, and learn from us the low cost of student protection.

It seems that my last article about girls winning a "D" gave the coach a sudden inspiration. Friday he met with all the girls, and inquired how many were interested in such a program. We girls appointed an athletic committee, consisting of Oreta George, Ruth Peterson, and Barbara Hansen, to meet with him sometime this week to arrange a schedule, according to which the required one thousand points are to be earned. These points are earned through hikes, basketball, volley ball, indoor tennis, and other activities not yet determined.

"Did you ever feel as dumb as I did the other day in gym class?" I'm afraid Coach Olsen will give up the girls as hopeless cases after he saw what we did to the volley ball game. It seemed that very few of the girls had strength enough to put the ball over the net at first, but after a little more practice, our "shots" were not "half bad." Blue Monday seemed to be even more blue for the girls with the rumor of the coach's disappearance circulating around. But now, to our satisfaction, he is back again, and ready to meet with the girls' athletic committee.

There was a grand commotion around the place last Monday morning. Of course, with a girl's curiosity, I had to enquire at the breakfast table. I found out it had snowed during the night. The boys were the only ones who knew anything about it, as it had occurred about 12:30. Sounds as if the boys stay up rather late. They discussed the advisability of having their sleds imported, but the girls advised them to wait a while. I think it's a good thing, because, by the looks of the weather now, we'll have to have another sort of a party to take the place of the sleigh riding.

KAREN JØRGENSEN

Dear Ma:
The time for writing home comes too soon, almost. I can't think of anything to write, especially after studying so much. Why, ma, sometimes I set the alarm for five o'clock, but I never get up until seven.

You ought to have heard the big argument that took place in the chapel Friday night. Its scientific name is debate. The students who debated in the debate were called debaters. Did some of them ever wax hot and furious! It was beyond comprehension.

I'm behaving much better than I did at home, ma. All the girls say that of themselves, too. It's queer, but the boys are all complaining about our behavior. I think we are models. Of course, the poor fellows have to have something to talk about. It isn't what the boys think we are, it's what we really are.

The girls are going to have a chance to earn their "D's. Won't that be swell? If I get one, ma, I'll have to have a new sweater. I can wait a couple of weeks, though.

Oh, say, the church is having a chicken dinner tonight. I think that it is only right that I go. That's the way I feel about it. I just wonder if chicken tastes like it did when I was home last.

A bunch of we girls had ice cream last night. Was it ever cold. Most ice cream is, though.

I'll close now, because I can hear Alma getting in, and it's pretty late.

With goblets of love,
Karen.

P. S. Tell Hans and Maren "hello."

Have You Ever Heard of "Invisible Goldfish"?

What a question! I suppose you think I'm "daffy", but let me tell you just what invisible goldfish are and how a man starting a restaurant used them to promote business.

Purchasing the largest fish bowl possible, he filled it with nothing but water. Then he added the sign: "Filled with invisible goldfish from Argentina" . . . It took seventeen policemen to handle the crowd.

That winning smile surely has met with the approval of a great many students. We have been informed that special classes will be conducted in the near future.

Mr. Truax: "Ole, what is delaying you in the store room?"

Carl Olsen: "Oh," came the reply, "I'm just putting a few things away."

Erv. Bondo, (very eloquently): "I learned to be a carpenter in two weeks this summer. One fellow I worked for was building a big machine shed. He put up the foundation. It wasn't even square but I didn't say anything."

Alice Nielsen: "I wish horseback riding were taught here; it would increase my social standing."

Wm. Larsen: "I don't know about the social part, but it would surely increase your standing."

Prof. Swanson: "Miss Jensen, what do you think of the five-year plan?"

Mary Jensen: "I don't know, I pay cash for everything."

Prof. Swanson: "Well then, what is meant by the expression 'seasoned troops'?"

Mary Jensen: (After a moment's hesitation), "I expect they were mustered by the officers and peppered by the enemy."

Rude Knudsen: "I heard something this morning that certainly opened my eyes!"

John Gebuhr: "Well? What was it?"

R. Knudsen: "My Big Ben."

Good enough is a lazy man's excuse for not doing better.

You Can't Keep a Good Man Down

Remember that the college doesn't care much about what you did in high school. It's what you do here that counts. So even if you had a job closing nominations at business meetings in high school, wait a while and get better acquainted before you take over the job here.—See you at our next student body meeting, John!
