

HERE and THERE

—Leonidas

"Italy declares united action against League sanctions." Slowly yet surely the great web spun by Mars the spider is entangling the struggling nations of Europe in its sticky fibers. Repeatedly, Mussolini has warned his neighbors of the dire results of such a program and his position doesn't allow him to recant. It is a time for careful consideration by every one, unconcerned or concerned.

Once in the history of Dana, the road to town was electrically lighted for the many students who found occasion to walk along it at night. Time came when vandalism extinguished this aid to night travel, and at present it is a dark and gloomy path to travel. At any rate, lights are needed at the road crossings, especially during inclement weather. Perhaps with a little cooperation, this convenience might again be made possible.

"Ohio State Sophomore Contributes to Carry on Custom." Upon the announcement from the administration that an endearing custom, the blowing of taps daily at 11:00 a.m., for the students who lost their lives overseas, had to be abolished because of financial stress, a young sophomore immediately offered to pay the cost—$48 a semester. That's school spirit!

What does a grade represent? Contrary to popular belief, it isn't an ironclad statement of the student's achievement in any particular course. It only represents the instructor's estimate of the work and it should not serve as a criterion for the student's own satisfaction or dissatisfaction. Fundamentally, each student is his own judge and better than any one else knows the value of his own work.

One finds himself at a loss to adequately praise the performance of "Lohengrin."

A magnificent performance combining acting and singing to the zenith of perfection. Goetha Ljungberg presented a remarkable portrayal of the changing moods of Elsa from the depths of sorrow to the highest ecstasies of joy. The San Carlo Opera company is presenting an invaluable service to the American people through these performances by bringing the highest type of musical entertainment directly to the public through convenient ticket prices, and as college students we should especially be grateful for the blessings of art.

The world grows steadily smaller. The new China clipper just making its first trip inaugurating the first ocean air mail route has helped in this respect. One recalls the feats of Lindbergh and similar intrepid pioneers. But now the whole works off smoothly as a vaudeville program. Aviation has become thoroughly organized and now awaits only the interest of the mass public opinion.

Hartwig to Talk on Bible at New York City Meet

PROFESSOR HARTWIG INVITED TO ADDRESS AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CHURCH HISTORY.

The American Society of Church History, as a tribute to the memory of Miles Coverdale, will present two papers relating to the English Bible, at its annual convention in New York, December 30 and 31. Professor James Moffatt of Union Theological Seminary will read a paper on Miles Coverdale; and Professor George H. Hartwig of Dana College has accepted an invitation to discuss a version based on Coverdale's Great Bible—the English Geneva Bible. The theme will be discussed with particular reference to the part of the Geneva Bible in the making of the Authorized version.

Crowd Attends San Carlo Opera

Traveling in the choir buses and private cars, seventy-two members of the student body and faculty attended the San Carlo Opera Company's performance of "Lohengrin" with Goetha Lundgren as guest soloist, at the Omaha city auditorium Friday evening, November 22. Four students attended "Il Trovatore" and on, "Faust."

Dana Students Aren't Starving

Food consumed by Dana students in one school year would require an army of 113,000 to consume it in one meal.

To feed this hungry horde daily Chef Truax is compelled to prepare 75 pounds of meat, 200 pounds of potatoes, ten gallons of coffee, 10 gallons of fruit, 25 head of lettuce or 50 pounds of cabbage.

A breakfast generally consists of 15 loaves of bread, two gallons of jelly and fifteen packages of dry cereal while a dinner requires only eight gallons of vegetables, five gallons of gravy and five gallons of dessert. Also included in a day's diet are 25 pounds of butter and 30 gallons of milk.

7200 pounds of lard, four tons of sugar and a ton of flour are used through the entire year, while 288 pounds of scouring powder and 2600 pounds of soap are necessary to wash the utensils in one year.

Forty students are hired by the college to assist in the work, thus enabling them to earn part of their tuition or board and room.

Chemical Analysis of Human Body

Sulphur—Enough to rid a fair-sized dog of one dose of fleas.

Lime—Enough for six bars of soap.

Iron—Enough to make a six-penny nail.

Phosphorous—Enough to make twenty boxes of matches.

Sugar—Enough for ten cups of coffee.

Potassium—Enough to explode a toy cannon.

Armistice Day is Observed at Dana College

An Armistice Day chapel service was sponsored by the Hesperian Literary Society on November 11. President Nelson conducted the devotional part of the program, reading from Revelation 21.

Mr. Einer Olsen, president of the society, announced the program which consisted of several patriotic songs by the group and a number, "American National Airs" by the orchestra. The Reverend Reese, Baptist minister in Blair, presented the address, basing his remarks on Daniel 1:8. "But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's dainties nor with the wine which he drank: therefore he requested of the prince of the eunuchs that he might not defile himself." The crying need of the world today calls for men and women who are strong in conviction, courage, and control. A true American is characterized by an unflinching love for his country, loyalty to its ideals, eagerness to defend it, allegiance to the flag and the desire to secure the blessings of liberty.

Shakespeare Lexicon Bought

Schmidt's Shakespeare-Lexicon, a complete dictionary of all the English words, phrases and constructions in the works of the poet Shakespeare, has been added to the college library. The two-volume set was purchased particularly for the use of the Shakespeare class. The lexicon is the work of Alexander Schmidt, LL.D.

Thankfulness is Topic at League

At the Luther League meeting of November 13, Carl Wildrick spoke briefly in commemoration of the four-hundredth anniversary of the first printed English Bible. Mr. Wildrick described the development of the English Bible from the Latin Vulgate to the Coverdale translation from German and Latin. Tribute was paid to John Wycliffe and William Tyndale for their valuable contributions. The work of Tyndale, the exile and martyr, was taken up and completed by Miles Coverdale.

Dana is Host at Debate Tourney

Competing in the first of what is hoped to be a series of annual college debate tournaments, Nebraska Wesleyan university of Lincoln, Nebraska, emerged victorious at Dana, Friday, November 22.

Debating the national question: "resolved that Congress should be permitted by a two-thirds majority to over-ride any decision of the Supreme Court declaring a law unconstitutional" against Coe College of Cedar-Rapids, Iowa; the victorious negative team composed of Messrs. Oliver DeGarmo and Darrel Randall which vigorously pounded out its case defeated an affirmative team aided by smooth delivery and sparkling eloquence.

The Dana debate squad, under the direction of Arthur Mehrens, coach, was represented by a negative team of Paul Mehrens and Eric Christensen.

Discuss Doll's House at Circle

The Nordic reading circle, whose purpose is to create an interest in Scandinavian culture, held its first meeting of the year at the home of Professor Fynboe, Friday evening, November 8. The discussion centered about A Doll's House by Ibsen.

Ibsen was an exponent for the rights of all people. A Doll's House brought him world fame and aroused enmity and opposition among the people. It was said that Ibsen was working for the emancipation of women's rights, but it is rather true that he was working for the rights of all the people.

Before and after the discussion several of the better-known Danish songs were sung. Following the meeting Mrs. Fynboe served a delicious lunch.

Ike's Sister Exposes the Girls' Viewpoint and Tells on Ikie

Dana, November 25, 1935.

Dear Mom:

It really isn't my turn to write, so I'm not going to write very much this time. Brother Ike said he wasn't going to write this week, so I thought I had better. He's busy making up work he's been sliding during the past week. That reminds me that we had a sleet storm the other night, and sliding was great until someone put cinders on the sidewalk. Did that ever make Earl Laursen mad! He'd rather have it slippery.

I've almost decided that I don't want a boy-friend, mom. After the reception a few of the kids got at the debate one night, I should think a girl would feel quite conspicuous with a boy-friend. I could give examples, but you probably know how it is. When a boy and a girl walk or even talk together, one would almost think they were married to hear the talk that goes around. I don't know what to do about it though, maybe you can help me.

Dr. Pannkoke Gives Talk on Education Here

STATES WE ARE ON ERA OF SPIRITUAL AWAKENING; CHALLENGES YOUTH

"Education grows out of its environment and must be continually revised," was the theme of a lecture delivered by Dr. O. H. Pannkoke at chapel Monday morning, November 18.

Three fundamental changes in the world today were enumerated by Dr. Pannkoke as directly affecting the problem of higher education: (1) the influx of democracy into the college, (2) the ultimate change of which we are not by any means clear today, and (3) the passing of materialism in a search for freedom.

Sparkling with numerous references to events in history illustrating his logic, the lecture literally teemed with challenges to the American college youth.

"More and more we are awakening to this categorical imperative," concluded Dr. Pannkoke, "—the desire of the soul for some means to evaluate life. We are in the dawn of a spiritual awakening."

Dr. Pannkoke spoke before the faculty in the women's reception room Monday afternoon and at a joint meeting with the Midland college faculty at Fremont Monday evening.

Mr. Goldbeck Convalescing

Mr. Marius Goldbeck, superintendent of buildings and custodian, fell ill suddenly November 16, and is now convalescing in his home on College Hill. Mr. Ivan Johansen is serving in his capacities temporarily.

We girls are having a contest here, mom, at least some of us. I'm not in it, I'm sorry to say. The object is to collect pictures for a rogue's gallery. Ellen Rasmussen was in the lead for quite a while, but a floormate, Elna Jensen, has actively entered the contest by acquiring a shiny, new photo. I won't mention who the picture is of, because I don't like to start gossip, but it's a good picture.

Boy, did we ever have a debate here a while ago. The speakers didn't all make themselves clear enough, though, because I heard Kate Sas inquiring as to where one of the debaters got all the information. Anyway, the topic had something to do with love, and the spring-time, and the harvest-moon, and,—oh, what's the use, I get all fluttery when I even think about it, so I won't say any more. If you want further information, tune in on Ruth Johnson. She's Dana's greatest and best loud-speaker and broadcaster.

WINTER STUDENTS WELCOME

Winter Semester students, we bid you welcome in our community. We hope that your presence will add to the spirit of the student body and that you will find what you seek. Intellectual development will be the goal of some of you, spiritual growth ranks first in others, training of your social natures may interest still others. Whatever may be your aim, we hope you will become one of us and prosper during the coming term.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Tradition has prescribed for us a day to be set aside for retrospection of the blessing of the past year. The fruits of the field are to be enjoyed and thanks given for the harvest. The last year has been characterized by a turn of things, some for better, and some for worse. Considered from the individual's point of view opportunities seem to be appearing again. Some of the things that darken the outlook are war and threatenings of upheavals in foreign governments. Other factors for better or worse concerning a whole nation can, at best, be only a basis for conjecture. The question as President Roosevelt asked "Are you better off today than you were a year ago?" calls forth a truer evaluation of the past year than an expert's estimation. Thanksgiving Day is set aside for your expression of thanks and for evaluation of your condition since last Thanksgiving.

In its tradition, Thanksgiving Day is not only for the expression of the individual's thanks but also for the group. The Pilgrims who felt impelled to thank God for his providence as a group were certainly also thankful as individuals. The purpose of the day is to assemble and give special thanks for those blessings readily perceptible and obvious.

Let us thank Him that He has preserved us from war for one year, —estimate all the progress and construction that can be accomplished in one whole year of peace. Let us thank Him that He has chastened us with a spirit of pessimism, better known as depression so that we better sense the value of things and are now ready to strive for better ideals. Let us thank Him that He has blest us in a material way also.

OUR ADVERTISERS

Did you ever look over the list of advertisers in the Hermes? Did you notice anything of special significance? Do you know that to a great extent, that list represents the business institutions and their proprietors who are interested in seeing Dana continue its work of educating our young people?

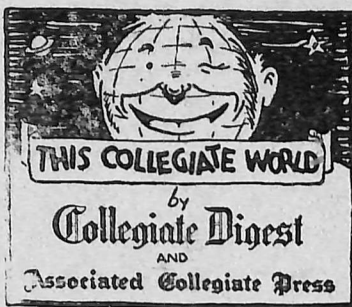

Do you know that a wide field of business activity is represented in the pages of the Hermes, and that these firms can supply you with almost anything that a college student might need? Are you aware of the fact that patronizing these advertisers is boosting Dana? Will you not also boost Dana, and at the same time, boost the firms which support our college?

WHY EDITORS GET GRAY

Getting out this paper is no picnic. If we print jokes, people say we are too silly.

If we do 't, they say we are too serious.

If we clip things from other papers, we are too lazy to write them ourselves.

If we don't, we are stuck on our own stuff.

If we stick close to the office, all day, we ought to be out hunting news.

If we get out and try to hustle, we ought to be on the job in the office.

If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate true genius; and if we print them, the paper is filled with junk.

If we make a change in the other fellow's write-up, we are too critical.

If we don't, we are asleep.

Now, like as not, some guy will say that we swiped this from some other paper or magazine.—

What Difference Does it Make—Who Jesus Was?

SELECTIONS FROM A SERMON OVER NBC JUNE 17, 1934 BY DR. PAUL SCHERER

The first thing that Christianity did when it came into the world—and still does,—was to give life meaning. It didn't have much before,—a thing that had to be got through with somehow, honorably if possibly, pleasantly if you could,—otherwise there was always suicide. What significance it had if it really had significance, was anybody's guess. That was just about the situation when Jesus began trudging up and down the roads of Palestine. He had a radiant sort of faith that God was interested in the destiny and daily conduct of that malodorous crowd, and of every living soul in it. But then—what did that faith matter if this Carpenter of Nazareth were only another of Joseph's sons? Men had been visionaries before, with beautiful but silly fancies about a Father in heaven and children whose names He knew!

Who was this Man that trod the earth so confidently and spoke so surely, so boldly, of the infinite God and feathered, futile sparrow that lay dead in the grass,—but not unknown? Was He a fool, or was He a prophet? It mattered—who Jesus was! One day at the long last they got up from their knees and said it out loud: "The Son of the Living God!" Get up from your knees and let your soul pour from out of your lips in a shout like that—then tell me it makes no difference! The trouble with us is that we look Him in the eyes and ask if what He said is true; we stare Him in the face and go on speculating about the very existence of God—wondering if in all this universe there really is a love that cares a snap of its little finger about you and me. And all the while we claim to be His disciples! Sometime ago one distinguished preacher in our city told his congregation it was crass superstition to suppose that the Monarch of the stars had either time or inclination to care much about the Lindbergh baby—and he was speaking in the high name of that God of Jesus! Who is the only God we know? Jesus wouldn't recognize him! We've made Him so great that He can't be bothered with anything that concerns human life, except perhaps in a general sort of way with the genus homo! There's not a bit of use trying to hold on to the Nazarene with one hand while you scrap with the other in any such fashion as that, the God He thought He was revealing—a God big enough to know when sparrows fall! That's no sign of littleness! You're little when details get by you! "Too great to care much." Great indeed! I wouldn't worship such a pigmy god, an ignorant pigmy as that, who 'couldn't be bothered!" "We believe and are sure that Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." It means that there's no such thing under the stars as an unimportant trifle that can be allowed to take care of itself; either that, or we've got to get rid of Jesus.

Thankfulness Is League Topic

a very thought-provoking address entitled "What Think Ye of Christ?"

The Luther League meeting of November 20 centered around the theme of Thanksgiving. The opening hymns were "O Worship the King" and "Young Peoples Savior." Elmer Rasmussen read for devotion from Romans 10:1-15 and offered prayer. Edward Hansen played a piano solo, Shumann's "Traumerei." The group then sang a hymn of Thanksgiving, "Now Thank We all Our God."

Dolliver Thogerson delivered a message on "the spirit of thankfulness." An exhortation to give thanks unto the Lord was read from Deuteronomy 8:11-18. Mr. Thogerson raised the question, "What are the blessings that God has given to me for which I may be thankful this Thanksgiving Day?" In the materialistic age in which we are all now living, there is a marked tendency to try to "get by" in a self-sufficing way, unmindful of God. The spirit of thankfulness is characterized by humility. The true spirit of thankfulness comes from the heart and is manifested daily in our lives. On Thanksgiving Day we are reminded of the many blessings which God has given us. It should be the sincere desire to develop a life of thanksgiving in which the spirit of "thanks-living" is manifested. Mr. Thogerson concluded his discussion with the words of the Psalmist, "Give thanks unto the Lord for He is good and His mercy endured forever."

Forum Follows 'Love' Debate

Packed with an inspired audience, the chapel was filled to overflowing Thursday evening, November 14, for the first public meeting of the year of the Alpha Sigma Phi which sponsored a humorous debate, resolved: "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love."

Brimming with good-natured humor, the lively debate furnished much discussion on the campus both before and after the contest.

Immediately following the fracas, an open forum was held giving everyone an opportunity to voice his opinion and to quiz the participants: Margaret Johnson and Mildred Easterbrook valiantly attempted to prove that it not only took place in spring but could just as well happen any other time of the year; and Jack Maher and Neil Sutton staunchly affirmed in every sentence that the proposition was undoubtedly true, especially in that it was a biological fact.

After a heated discussion with Professor Fynboe bravely speaking in favor of the affirmative, the audience awarded their decision to the gentlemen of that team.

Paging the Man Behind the Lights

MR. GOLDBECK'S DUTIES AT DANA ALMOST 'TOO NUMEROUS TO MENTION'

"Has anybody seen Mr. Goldbeck?"

"Where is Mr. Goldbeck?"

"I wish I could find Mr. Goldbeck."

Anybody spending even a small part of the day in the shop will easily recognize these queries; for the demand for Mr. Goldbeck is so great that there is always someone on his trail. He is perhaps the most sought-for man on the campus. (Better learn his technique, fellows—the girls chase him too).

When this important man finally does return from one of his thousand-and-one errands, the scene becomes exceedingly more complicated. He is immediately made the prey of innumerable students, professors, and others, all of whom have a problem which demands immediate solution. Only a man of Mr. Goldbeck's self-composure and ability for self-sacrifice could stand these daily assaults; for, believe it or not, he never tires, but is always on the job.

Perhaps, at this juncture of the story it is fitting that we try to explain the duties of this super-man. Mr. Goldbeck, under the title of caretaker, must see that everything apart from the intellectual side of the college is run properly. Has anyone ever stopped to think what this means? I mean that he must see that there is enough steam to heat every room in every building on the campus every hour of the day; he must see that there is always ample hot water to satisfy the needs of the students; he must see that all the buildings and grounds are kept in proper shape; he must see that the stock on the college farm is properly fed and cared for; he must be able to repair immediately the breaks, (whether mechanical, electrical, or otherwise), which occur daily in the equipment of the college; he must see that there is always sufficient work for the N & A workers and other students working for the college; in fact, there is no job imaginable which is too uncommon for Mr. Goldbeck to be called upon to perform in the course of a day's work.

One of Mr. Goldbeck's greatest worries is to keep his crew of workers busy accomplishing something more than drawing their pay checks. To help him plan the work for the coming day Mr. Goldbeck has a time slip for the students to sign. On this slip they write down the number of hours they plan to work the following day. Needless to say, there are many infringements of even this

Ike's Sister Writes to 'Ma'

If Dick Lincoln isn't the most popular boy on the campus, it's his own fault. He's got a brand new, 1936 Plymouth coupe, all for himself. Boy, I'd sure like to take a ride in that car, and I know lots of other girls feel the same way about it as I do, but it seems that he just doesn't have the time.

The ice is beginning to break up, mom, but it isn't spring either. There's another reason, though. That opera that played in Omaha during the past week thawed out some cold shoulders around here. I wish someone had asked me to go too, but I guess I'm not popular with the boys, yet.

Well, mom, I really must study. Lots of the girls don't have much time for it anymore, but I do. Won't you write a letter to Icha-bod and me in the near future?

Love,

From your daughter, Isabel.

Society of 'Old Maids' Waning

Gentlemen, were you ever informed of the fact that there is an Old Maid's Society in the women's dormitory? Well, there is an it is a mighty interesting institution, too. The source of information on this subject made it plain that the presence of such a noble organization was not to be known, but even the deepest of secrets often take wings and escape.

Despite my limited knowledge of the subject, I have discovered one feature of the society which is exceedingly interesting and which I will attempt to describe. At the time of its establishment, the organization consisted of three supposedly sincere members. It rigidly prohibited the members from participation in social engagements with handsome young men. An honorary member recently told me that the society had suffered the loss of one member due to her failure to comply with the requirements.

But the outstanding calamity of the society was brought about when the honorary member referred to above became guilty of treason in allowing herself to be in the company of a prominent young gentleman at one of the outstanding occasions of the year. Following the process of elimination, we discover to our utter dismay that the society has now become a one-member affair. It is indeed a sad experience to observe the deterioration of such a noble institution. We hope, however, that the founders possessed enough foresight to provide a deserving penalty against the traitress.

Vikings Lose to Hebron in Last Game on Breaks

DANA GAINED GROUND CONSISTENTLY BUT WHISTLE SAVES HEBRON

Although the Dana Vikings were defeated in their last game at Hebron, Monday night, November 11, they played what was undoubtedly their best game of the season. The score, 13-0, does not indicate the true status of the game, because Dana piled up a total of twenty-two first downs to Hebron's thirteen.

The first three quarters, especially, saw a determined Viking team drive down the field time after time, using a combination of line plunges, spinner plays, and lateral passes, only to lose the ball on a fumble or on downs just within striking distance of the enemy's goal. The passing attack with Hurd, Mortensen and Beard on the receiving end also gained a considerable number of yards. During the first half Hebron received no helpful breaks, when they recovered a Dana fumble on their own yard line in the first quarter, and later when the gun sounded the end of the first half with Dana in possession of the ball on the Hebron one-yard stripe, second down and goal to go.

The first Hebron score climaxed a seventy-eight yard drive down the field. C. Ellermeier plunging over the one-yard line and then passing to his brother for the extra point. Bailey cinched the game for the Knights, when in the closing minutes of play, he circled his own left end for seventy yards and a touchdown.

The Vikings' bid for victory was hampered by an injury to Hurd, who had to be removed in the first quarter, and, although he returned to the lineup during part of the last quarter, he did not have the elusive stride which has made him a marked man throughout the season.

Except for "Chink" Gollehon, who turned in his best game of the year, it is difficult to comment on the work of any one player, because all of them played well, including George, Neve, Langley, Wildrick, Johansen, Svendsen, Olsen, and Larsen in the line, and Hurd, Gollehon, Bruse, Mortensen, and Beard in the backfield. All of those who made the trip saw some action in the last quarter.

The starting lineup:

Dana	Pos.	Hebron
Olsen	LE	L. Ellermeier
Svendsen	LT	Wenske
Langley	LG	Langholz
George	C	Wagner
Neve	RG	Cramer
Johansen	RT	Stuteit
Larsen	RE	Lindekugel
Mortensen	QB	C. Ellermeier
Hurd	LH	Graves
Bruse	RH	Luchow
Gollehon	FB	Bailey

New Regulations For Basketball

The following changes in the basketball rules for 1935-36 have been made:

1. Each free throw arc is to be extended, describing a complete circle, the new arc to be denoted by a broken line. The free throw circle is to be a restraining line when jump ball occurs at the free throw line.

2. The definition of a dribble is revised. A fumble or attempt to gain control of the ball is not a dribble; that is, after muffing, or fumbling, or tapping the ball from a group of players, a player may then recover the ball and start a dribble. A player is to be given reasonable opportunity to gain control of the ball; but if, having had an opportunity to gain control, he makes an obvious attempt to advance the ball, he should be considered a dribbler.

3. The intermission in games played in twenty-minute halves is to be fifteen minutes, but this may be reduced to ten minutes by mutual agreement.

4. On jump balls at the free throw line all players except the jumpers must remain outside the free throw circle until the ball is tapped.

5. If the free throw resulting from a personal foul is successful, the ball is to be put into play from out of bounds.

6. A player may not remain in free throw area, with or without the ball, for more than three seconds while the ball is in play and in possession or control of his team.

7. It is provided that when a foul is committed against a player who is not in the act of throwing for goal, the official may award an extra free throw for unsportsmanlike conduct. This penalty would apply in the case of an unusually rough foul.

Olson Announces Intra-mural Sports

Dana's intra-mural basketball league will play an extensive schedule during the coming basketball season. Each of the six or eight teams will play a series of fourteen games. Coach Olson urges all physically-able students, who do not make the varsity squad, to take part.

simple rule. One day a student-worker came out to the shop immediately after dinner seeking work for the afternoon. When asked if he had written his name on the slip, he quickly answered affirmatively. However, it was soon revealed that he had not signed the slip until on his way to dinner. But Mr. Goldbeck did not "blow up" as might have been expected; instead, he patiently hunted up a job for the worker. This is only one of the many anger-provoking experiences which he must daily go through.

Trouble is his dish; and if it is, he gets plenty to eat. The endless round of irritating duties demands an even temper,—and Mr. Goldbeck.

Seminary Has Volleyball Team

The Seminary Volleyball team has challenged the Freshmen Sophomores, Junior and Seniors to a volleyball tournament to be played soon.

The Dana Dignitaries have been in training for some time and feel capable of successfully defending such a challenge. In four collegiate teams there should be some opposition.
