

HERE and THERE

—Leonidas

Philippine independence is virtually complete. Only time will tell what the success of the venture will be. With due insight into the imperialistic tendencies of Japan in China, it appears to me that a grave danger exists in the presence of the yellow menace to the West. It is rather unfortunate that the granting of autonomy should come at this period of world unrest and chaos, but hope can be found in the excellent qualities of Quezon, the Islands' new executive.

—oOo—

Notable among present national appeals for private donations are found the Red Cross and Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Fund. To what extent do these affect the college student? St. James gives as one of the requisites for a Christian the quality of personal charity. It is true that perhaps the majority of students are not able to contribute to such enterprises, but on the other hand, there does exist a group of young persons on the camp of America sufficiently blessed to be able to sacrifice a small sum to further such humanitarian work.

—oOo—

Again the Dana student with a high aesthetic sense was offered a golden opportunity to partake of classical entertainment in Omaha. Katherine Cornell, recognized as perhaps one of the greatest actresses of the stage today appeared in a portrayal of Juliet in Shakespeare's immortal work, "Romeo and Juliet" in the Technical High school auditorium on Tuesday, December 10. It was a superb performance in every detail.

—oOo—

As yet no items of student comment have been placed on my desk. This is the wide-awake student's opportunity to express his opinion in this column. Articles should be turned in to the editor.

The lecture on conditions prevailing in penitentiaries and prisons in the United States could hardly have avoided making a profound impression on everyone that attended. Yours Truly has had especial occasion to review the facts presented because of the sentence imposed last week on one of his friends to the state "pen" for a period of from one to three years. Now that we have had a glimpse into prison life, I can't help but feel that now we can realize the opportunities offered to us to brighten the daily routine by Christian visits to our brothers in distress. At my first opportunity, I shall visit my friend, and especially so because of the knowledge gained so recently by such a vivid and matter-of-fact presentation of the conditions.

Dana Faculty to St. Olaf's College for School Meet

LOCAL COLLEGE REPRESENTED BY LARGE DELEGATION AT CONFERENCE

Represented with the largest delegation from nineteen colleges excluding Minnesota, almost the entire Dana faculty attended the North Central Lutheran Educational Conference at Northfield, Minnesota, November 29 and 30.

Miss Anna Wind, Dean of Women, served as head of the Home and Family Group which met Saturday morning while President Erland Nelson delivered an address Friday on "The Nature of Christian General Education."

Recommending a course of general education for the first two years with specialization following, President Nelson presented a novel college program which will be published in the Journal of Christian Education the first of the coming year. The plan embodies, briefly, complete freedom for the student, no examinations except at the completion of the two year course, no compulsory attendance of classes, the stress on individual research rather than class recitation, only one lecture a week with the remainder of the time devoted to conferences, and more personal study and research.

Another seminar will be held next summer to continue the work on the curriculum. Plans are being formed for an annual four week seminar at St. Olaf composed of Lutheran college faculty members in their specialized fields.

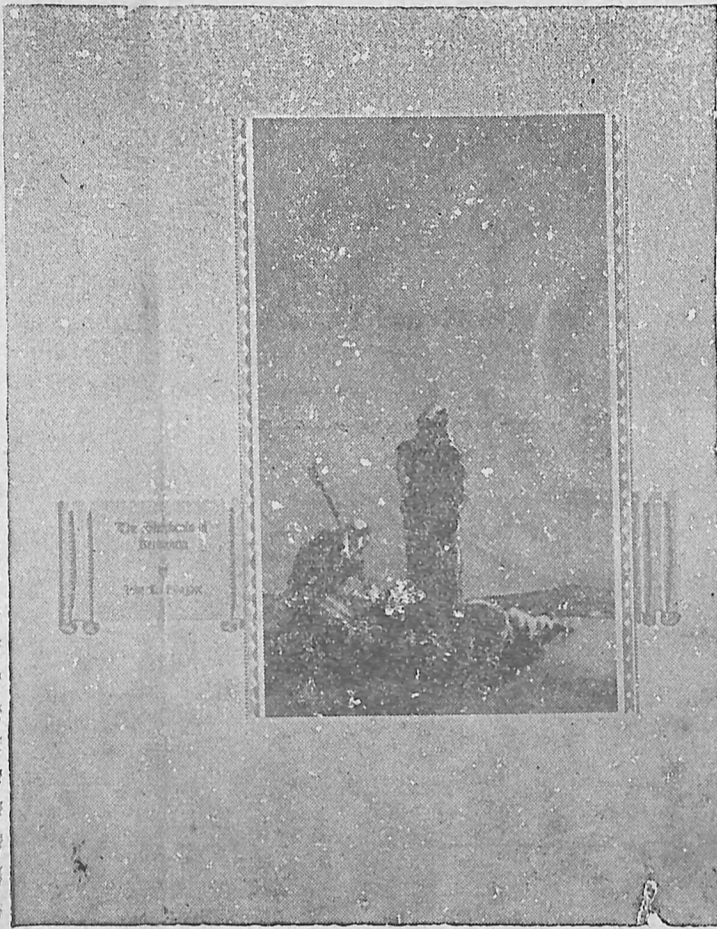

Students Attend at Omaha Play

Nineteen Dana students attended the presentation of the tragic love story of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet in the Technical High School Auditorium of Omaha Tuesday night, December 10. The superb acting of Catherine Cornell in an atmosphere created still more impressive by the beautiful costumes and rich draperies brought forth the declamatory speeches and poetical reminiscences of classical mythology in its highest sense. With Romeo ardent and passionate, Juliet tender, eloquent and seductive, little wonder that the story of their ill starred love has endeared itself to generations.

Grid Banquet is Held at College

The annual football banquet was well attended by many distinguished guests in the Dana College Banquet Hall on Monday evening, December 2. Coach Olson acted as toastmaster and several short talks were delivered by both outside guests and football players. Fifteen letters were presented to letter-men and seven numerals were also awarded to those who were unable to earn a letter, but who practiced regularly and hard.

100 Singers in Sunday Concert

A chorus of about 100 voices presented a program in the gymnasium Sunday evening, December 15. The group composed of the Dana College Choir, the choir of the First Lutheran Church of Blair and other students of the college, were directed by Professor G. J. Malmin in presenting a program. Rodney Juhl accompanied the chorus at the organ and Miss Rhoda Carlsen of the church choir at the piano.

Italian Harpist Will Play Here

The greatest musical entertainment ever presented at Dana college will be heard immediately after chapel on Monday, January 13, 1936, by Alberto Salvi, the world's greatest harpist. An instrumental quartet will also appear before the audience.

Alberto Salvi was born in Venice, Italy. He received his first lesson on a harp made for him by his father who was a noted harp maker in Venice.

As winner of the Royal Scholarship Prize, Salvi received most of his higher training at the expense of the Italian Government.

At present he is attempting to modernize the harp and his great success is revealed by the enthusiastic audiences which greet him all over the world.

Ike's Mamma Writes That He Should Stop College Gossiping

December 16, 1935

My dear Izzy and Ikey:

Well, children, I hope you are both getting along alright yet, and I hope you appreciate the chance you have of getting a real good schooling which neither your pa nor me got. In them days we couldn't go to college cause we had to work, and now we have to work some more so you children can go. It don't seem quite fair, but dad and me are willing to sacrifice a lot so as you, Isabel, and you, Ichabod, can get a good fetching up, and we'll do the same for your little brother, Jamie, too, when he gets some older. He says as how he's going to write you a letter sometime, but I ain't got no time to fool with him tonight, so I says next time.

Now, Isabel, you asked for some advice as to what to do about all the talk what going around in college when a boy and a girl go out together, and I don't know if I can help you, cause I guess it's just natural for folks to talk about the

CLASS WILL ALSO SPONSOR AN IBSEN PLAY AT COLLEGE THIS WINTER

As long as senior meetings have been held at Room 304, seven o'clock sharp, these meetings have been announced as "very important." Well, some of them have been, others not. The one held Tuesday evening, Dec. 2, happened to be important. Within an hour and a half, the thirty seniors decided to publish a 128 page annual, to present one of Ibsen's plays, to buy announcement cards, and to sell candy at the basketball games and make everybody like it.

As editorial chief of the 1936 Danian, the class elected Ervin Bondo, Trinity Seminary senior, and as business manager, Arne Voetmann, Dana Senior. Both men have had previous experience in this work at Dana. A business committee consisting of Margaret Johnson, Alvin Petersen and Arne Voetmann has already done the preliminary work of soliciting bids, etc., and the work on the annual is expected to proceed rapidly and smoothly.

This year being Dana and Trinity's golden anniversary, it was decided to devote probably about half of the space to a historical sketch, studded with pictures of students of former years. In order to appeal to everybody's vanity, it was decided to include individual pictures of all students and faculty members this year.

Till now, there has been much talk about presenting a play of universal interest here, but intentions were never realized. The '36 seniors have decided to make the dreams come true by hook or rest of the folks when they ain't around, but, and I want that you should both take this to heart, it might improve things a lot if you yourselves didn't have so much to say. I ain't spending good money to learn my children how to gossip, and so you two better stop it. If you say half the gossip as you write, you've already said too much now.

You just go right ahead and collect pitchers if you want to, Izzy, cause you know how I like to have lots of pitchers around, and if you do get some that ain't so hot, we can always start the fire with them, as some of the other kids will probably do before long.

Well, Christmas is almost here, and I'm waiting to have you kids come home again. Now listen, I don't want that you should lug everything home when you come, but be sure to bring your dirty clothes so I can wash them. And Ikey, you bring home all your socks, cause I bet you ain't got

STUDENT OPINION

At the beginning of the school year, there was given an opportunity for the expression of student opinion, and it was further agreed that any opinion, however rash, would be given an airing. Now, what's the matter? There is much muttering in the corners, but no clear cut and definite kick.

The HERMES has received the criticism (sounded out by diligently applying the ear to the ground) that it is an administration brochure, Everything respectably in order like furniture in a room that is seldom used. It will remain so until the students wake up and make it a student publication.

Student opinion has value as long as it is constructive and positive. The chronic knocker ends up by knocking himself, but the one who can knock and be constructive at the same time is valuable. —A. S.

THERE IS BORN A KING

Somehow, we are again involved in the spirit of Christmas. Could we locate ourselves high up in the sky in a stratosphere gondola, perhaps we should notice the celestial music and bustle below. As we walk through Blair's streets the chimney smoke in the frosty air says Christmas is coming. So do the decorations in the stores and in the windows of the homes. Everything seems enveloped in the Christmas spirit.

Giving and receiving delight some of us. Getting home holds the thoughts of many of us prisoner. We are caught up in the spirit of Christmas and it is good to be so. Christmas can be really merry if that one idea above all the commercialized forms of today's celebration can be predominant in us—the realization of the birth of a personal King.

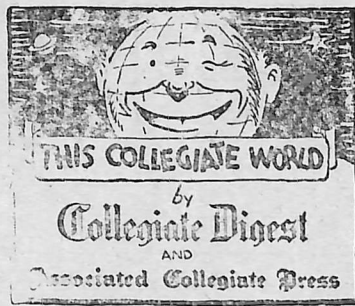

Perhaps for some of us there is no occasion for celebrating Christmas, perhaps the King hasn't been born yet. Are the priests still computing the time and are the shepherds still tending their sheep? God grant that the Prince of Peace may be born anew in 1935.

PESSIMISM

A condemned man was led to the guillotine. With a smile upon his face he turned to his executioners saying, "Fools! Do you expect me to die here? I have other plans."—yet the ax descended. Another man had a fortune placed in his hand, and he muttered to himself, "I know that I shall starve tomorrow." On the morrow his treasure was as great as before. The first, an extreme optimist, in the face of oppressive reality chose a more hopeful view—but he did not change the course of events by his thinking. The other, an extreme pessimist, persisted in taking an unfavorable view in spite of favorable reality—he, too, did not change the course of events by his thinking. In fact, the impending events became true realities in spite of attitudes of helpless men. Men become optimists and pessimists; events continue their development.

In college circles today there is a pernicious tendency to stamp individuals as being either pessimists or optimists, without a recognition of modifications in these categories, and without fully analyzing the attitudes of the individuals. True it is that many "intellectual lights" are unwittingly facing the guillotine, and yet by assuming attitudes in the name of optimism contrive means of escape; but the course of events continue to develop about their heads, spelling disaster. The realities of life, contrary and repulsive though they may be, will not be overcome by empty talk and "pet" theories. Reality must be met by reality, not by attitudes of optimism and pessimism.

Pernicious, too, is the tendency to place the black stamp of pessimism on individuals that face reality with reality. How often it happens that individuals, who in humility, with deep insight and open minds, courageously face the course of events in life and call them by their name, are besmeared with the name of pessimism. Is the ideal of educational training today an optimistic prodigy who can miraculously meet the stark realities of life with a smug smile and a "salesman's" style of procedure? Must one who senses the fine undercurrent of destruction in modern life and presents them for serious consideration, be forced to remain under the false cloak of pessimism? If to face reality with reality is pessimism, the hope of our nation lies in the development of this kind of pessimism. Supercilious optimism cannot hope to avert the blow of the ax. —E. A. N.

Christmas Chimes and Christmas are two beautiful annual publications of the Christmas season which would serve as excellent gifts or means of personal enjoyment.

Rev. Edwin Petrusson of Kankakee, Illinois, edited the 1935 Christmas Chimes for the Young People's League of our Church. The cover is done in substantial material in tan and blue colors. Stories, devotions, pictures and poems cover 128 pages. The book may be had at the Danish Lutheran Publishing House, Blair.

Christmas, an American annual of Christmas literature and art, is edited by Randolph E. Haugen and published by Augsburg Publishing House, Minneapolis. The edition is an excellent piece of work indicative of what can be done with literature and art among our churches. It is enriched by the colorful manger scene on its cover and by its many photographs and reproductions of masterpieces of art. There are stories for old and young, Christmas carols, poems and devotions. The high grade paper and the quality of the printing adds to the value of the book.

LITERARY CORNER

Night is the Time for Dreams!
All is calm.

Gracefully and steadily sails the moon

Across the sky; the Milky Way is streaming.

Nothing disturbs the exquisite tranquility.

Out there in the stillness of night Is peaceful rest for a weary soul.

From the fleecy clouds descend sweet dreams

Which seem realities of innumerable varieties.

Precious, lofty, and noble thoughts are born

And earth does then a heaven seem.

Ah! night is a time to dream!
—Marion Peterson.

'Tis Dawn

The sun paints pictures on the distant hills

Lively shadows dance on lakes and rills

Darkness, the bat, is gone
'Tis Dawn.

Birds are chirping blithely in the nest

Gay and merry from their long night's rest

Mother bird bursts into song
'Tis love, the dawn.

Every flower shyly lifts her dainty head

As though gently ascending from the dead

Almost celestial throng

'Tis beauty, the dawn.

Now all the world begins to wake
From sea to sea, from lake to lake

Life is a beautiful song
At dawn.

—Marion Peterson.

Guglielmus Rex

The folk who lived in Shakespear's day

And saw that gentle figure pass
By London Bridge, his frequent way—

They little knew what man he was.

The pointed beard, the courteous mien,

The equal port to high and low,
All this they saw or might have seen—

But not the light behind the brow!

The doublet's modest gray or brown,

The slender sword-hilt's plain device,

What sign had these for prince or clown?

Few turned, or none, to scan him twice.

Yet 'twas the king of England's kings!

The rest with all their pomps and trains

Are muffled, half-remembered things—

It is he alone that lives and reigns!
—Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

THE ALUMNI

DR. MAGNUS PETERSEN IS PROMOTED

Dr. Magnus Petersen, a former Dana student, who for several years past has been serving as assistant superintendent of the state hospital at St. Peter, Minn., has been appointed superintendent of a similar institution at Wilmar, Minn., where he will have charge of some fifteen or sixteen hundred patients.

Dr. Petersen has had a brilliant career, and his rise has been remarkably rapid. Coming to America in 1913 at the age of twenty, he frequented Dana College a couple of years until our country became involved in the World War and he volunteered for service in the ambulance corps. He saw service in France and later with the army of occupation in Luxemburg and Germany. In 1925 he graduated from the medical school of the University of Nebraska. He now devotes his attention to the study of neurology and psychiatry in several different hospitals. He came to St. Peter in 1927 and was appointed assistant superintendent the following year.—From the Ansgar Lutheran.

STUDENT AT N. U. SPEAKS

Mr. Ray Morten, former Dana student, delivered the message before the chapel on Monday morning, Dec. 9. Mr. Morten first sang a hymn and then delivered a short message. His message was based on his own personal life and he pointed out that peace and rest with God may be obtained through the Cross, the Embroidered Coat, or New Life—the Roll, or Bible, and the vision of the Heavenly Home.

Ibsen Lecture Given at Dana

Sponsored jointly by the Dannebreg Literary Society and the Nordic Reading Circle, Professor Paul Grumman, director of the Society of Liberal Arts at the Joslyn Memorial in Omaha and former head of the department of Fine Arts at the University of Nebraska, lectured in the chapel Thursday evening, December 12. Before the lecture, Miss Kathryn Sas sang a solo, "Solveigs' Sang" from "Peer Gynt" by Grieg.

Dr. Grumman's lecture on Ibsen's "Doll House" and "Ghosts" was received with interest. Coupled with a brief resume of each of the works, he discussed the ethical principles of the characters as they acted on the basis of economic difficulties. The "Doll's House" has been said by some to be an argument for women suffrage, but this is not the case. True it was Ibsen was interested in women suffrage but this was not the case in the "Doll's House." Mr. Grumman stated that Ibsen lamented the fact that he was misinterpreted and that he desired once and for all to write a play that should not be misunderstood and that is the reason he wrote "Ghosts." In his synopsis of "Ghosts" he pointed out the danger on the overemphasis on duty as presented by Mrs. Alving. Joy is the real basis of moral existence, and debauchery is what people do when they are unable to create joy in the proper manner.

Throughout the lecture, Dr. Grumman kept his audience alive with his witty observations. He stated that Ibsen has suffered much from shoddy presentations, and wished "that we could get some intelligent actors." Ibsen had determined in middle life to write strictly prose but in his later plays he again verged on the poetic.

crook. They have the optimistic support of several faculty members, including Mr. Brown, head of the commercial department, who has promised to coach the play. Mr. Fynboe, head of the Danish department, has also offered his assistance by suggesting and criticizing the work. Eight members of the senior class have promised to give their time and talent to the actual stage presentation, and a number of others have pledged themselves to help with the mechanical work. The college administration adds its benediction having pledged its support and cooperation.

Show Movies of Holy Land

The Mission Society sponsored on Dec. 4, a lecture and motion pictures by the Rev. Anders Hansen of Elk Horn, Iowa, of his visit to the Holy Land.

Rev. Anders Hansen, who spent the past summer in the Holy Land, gave a lecture illustrated with motion pictures from his travels. Rev. Hansen spent most of the summer traveling in Palestine and visiting relatives in Denmark.

Describing his journey in chronological order, Rev. Hansen dwelt at length on his stay in Jerusalem and described the city as he saw it. The city is built on four hills and is divided into two parts, an ancient and a modern. The site of the ancient temple is now occupied by the Moslem mosque of Iraq, and occupies one sixth of the area of the ancient city which is surrounded by a wall. In the center of the city, the church of the Holy Sepulchre is located. The Jews claim that within this church the tomb of Christ is located. Many noted theologians do not hold this view, but contend that it was in the garden of Calvary. Rev. Hansen gave a detailed explanation of the reasons for believing that this was true.

The motion pictures showed several colloquial scenes of donkeys and street cars side by side to show that Palestine is the meeting place of three civilizations and religions.

Robertson Talks at League Meet

George Robertson delivered the message at the December meeting of the Luther League. His topic "He Is Here" was delivered as a strong appeal to enter into a personal relationship with God. Stressing the importance of such a relationship, Mr. Robertson pointed out that Jesus is just as really present among the students of Dana college as he was among the disciples who trod the hills of Judea. The personality of Jesus is compelling and one is forced to take an attitude toward him. The speaker urged that the attitude of personal friendship to be taken and he also pointed out that this should prove a source of joy.

Mr. Rudolph Knudsen sang a solo "Teach Me to Live" and Emery Petersen read scripture and led in opening prayer. A business meeting was announced for the first meeting in the new year.

Prison Lecture Given at Dana

"Life Behind Prison Walls," a demonstrated lecture, was presented before the student body Tuesday, November 26 at 11:00 a. m. in the college chapel by George D. Ranney, ex-warden and investigator.

"I have only one purpose," stated Mr. Ranney, "and that is to present the actual facts and truth of those who actually live their lives behind prison walls."

A complete study of the prisoner's life was given, from his entrance into the prison until his release. Graphically and vividly, realistic pictures of the punishments of the prisoner were portrayed through the aid of an electric chair, ankle picks, hobbles, and whips.

Mr. Ranney is a graduate of the University of Michigan and has spent the last seven years as an investigator, personally visiting more than seventy penitentiaries, in addition to numerous prison camps and chain gangs.

Alaskan Speaks to Student Body

Presented as a lyceum number, Edgar C. Raine, who has traveled extensively through Alaska, lectured before the student body in the chapel Wednesday evening, December 11.

The lecture was profusely illustrated with pictures of the actual life of the Alaskan fishermen and miners and of the beautiful pictures created by the aurora borealis and the midnight sun.

Mr. Raine is an authority on Alaska, having been connected with the United States Treasury department for many years. His acquaintance with Alaska sketches from the time of the Klondike gold rush through pioneer establishments of civilization to the present development of Alaska as an agricultural country.

During the illumined era of scientific progress, records are also established in the physiological realm. Mr. Anker Jensen has been accredited with the establishment of one of them when he imbibed the enormous sum of five whole malted milks, each containing two large glasses the content of which made him, the consumer, seven and one pounds heavier.

This achievement was motivated by a bet which was made between Mr. Jensen and Mr. Aage Nielsen. Mr. Jensen was allowed an hour to perform the feat. Failure to perform the feat would require Mr. Jensen's paying for what he had consumed.

the latter contains some interesting and enlightening facts. Concerning the peculiar accomplishment, Mr. Jensen contends that (although he is not willing to try it) vanilla rather than chocolate flavored would make the battle a little easier. Being a person of short stature and ordinary girth, we marvel at Mr. Jensen's success in consuming such a sizeable quantity of the rich delicacy. However, our hero says that his ability to accomplish such a feat was partly acquired and rather fully developed while he, as a member of the Dana College Choir, made the trip to Denmark last summer.

Dana Quint Wins First Two Court Engagements

VIKINGS OPEN SEASON AUSPICIOUSLY WITH OVERWHELMING SCORES

Before a small turnout of fifty people, Dana's Vikings opened what promises to be a successful season by defeating American Business College at Omaha by a score of 53-26.

The home quintet showed cooperative playing in that the greater share of their score was made by close inshots while the Omaha boys added to their score by longer shots from the open court. As evidenced by the number of personal fouls and other incidents, the game was comparatively rough.

Captain Hurd led the scoring with an aggregate of 20 points while Patrick followed in a close second with 17 points.

The most skillful playing of the game came at the last of the second quarter, the half ending 25-15. Another scoring spurt occurred in the third quarter; the game ending 53-26. Jewell and Morrow made account of themselves by playing a good defensive game.

Beats Concordia

Dana somewhat avenged the defeat of the past football season by chalking up a victory against Concordia Teachers of Seward last week. The game, played at Seward, ended at the half with a score of 23-7; the final score being 40-17. The bench recorded 14 points for the Dana team before Concordia was able to pierce the hoop.

Patrick, Ray Olsen, Jewell, Morrow and Bixler deserve credit for their playing: Ray Olsen as high-point man with 24 points from 11 field goals and 2 free throws; Patrick, for his 6 field goals; Bixler, Jewell, and Morrow for outstanding defensive work.

Leiner led the Concordia attack with a total of six points.

Judging from the results of the first two games, Dana can well anticipate an interesting season.

Finals on Game Judging Contest

Coach Olsen's football contest was rounded up with the Thanksgiving Day games. In the first two places are Hurd and W. Andersen, each the winner of a "Senior Yearbook." Both have been at the head of the list for most of the season.

A delicious malted milk has been the coveted prize for the score on one game per week—the game chosen by Mr. R. Olson. The winners for the nine weeks of contest are: Dyhrberg, S. Larsen, Tange and Langley (tied), Hurd, Reese, Patrick, Bixler and Eldridge Petersen.

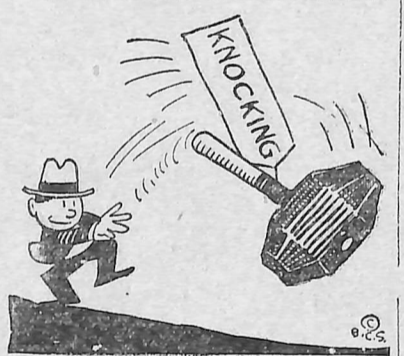

Following are the eight highest scores at the close of the contest:

FROM the SIDELINES

Flash—Girls busy raising funds to send faculty to Northfield every week-end.

Where's Bruce been? "Just rollin' along (?)"

How the girls on 4th do look down on the boys between 7 and 8 p. m.!

Bill Langley sits all around the table by himself.

Carl C. knows what he'd like to give Gollehon for Xmas, but he isn't big enough.

If Jorgensen ever stands still, when there's a girl around, send it to "Ripley's Believe It or Not."

See where Dagny R. got her "Juhl."

Why doesn't "Fausset" stop running?

Why doesn't "Nev" try "Whaling"?

Why doesn't "Lincoln" get a "Hoover"?

Why doesn't "Hammock" try a swing?

Why doesn't "Kloth" see a "Taylor"?

Why do you take "Sides"?

Why not change Aster to castor and add oil?

Did you know that Leland Hansen was "overseer" of girls dorm? "Yea, over to see who?"

Ever hear "Shadow" tell of his "Drake"?

Wanted—some girl's picture for my room—Brill. (Editor's note—What happened to the one you had, George?)

BASKETBALL

Vikings Third Cage Victory

The Junior College of Clarinda, Iowa, became the third victim of Dana's commendable quintet. The Vikings enjoyed their third successive victory with a score of 43 to 16 on the Clarinda court last Tuesday night.

The teams appeared to be very evenly matched in the first half, the local cagers holding a 14 to 12 advantage at the end of the period. But using strategy adapted to their opponents, the Red and Whites started out fast in the second half, and held a 28 to 13 lead at the end of the third quarter. Defensive play was so well executed that Clarinda was without a basket for the first 18 minutes of play in the second half, when a field goal was made from mid-court. The opposing five scored but 4 points in the last two periods.

Hurd, Olsen, and Ballain led the offensive attack, while Jewell and Morrow again performed their duty well. Jewell created some astonishment when on more than one occasion he snatched the ball from the air when it was but inches from the basket.

While the first three games do credit to the Dana Squad, we look forward with interest to the conflict with Midland on Tuesday of
