

HERE and THERE

—Leonidas

And now Italy is relegated to the back page in the papers. Little wonder, though considering the import of the decisions handed down by the supreme court. "When a man bites a dog, that's news," but when the high tribunal in the country passes on the constitutionality of a law, that's history. Undoubtedly, the constitution will be a major issue in the 1936 campaign. I still use a lantern vainly endeavoring to find the man with vision, and his retinue, to lead America through the present chaos of change.

The cheering section has found new life. Now we need new and better yells, and how about an original Dana pep song? You poets, bring one around. You musicians, arrange a snappy tune. We'll publish it. Let's go, bigger and better pep at our games!

oOo

Lindbergh has again flown the ocean. This time no ticker tape reception will greet him on his return. America has proved faithless to her one outstanding hero. Perhaps he may return, but the country has now seen its disgrace. Do we have an adequate police force? Surely in numbers we are not lacking, but there is a definite need for greater coordination between federal operatives and local order. If this has not proved feasible, let us strive for a more powerful federal organization. We are the law-makers of the future, let's do our duty as we see fit.

I see that Ike in his last unexpurgated letter home told his Ma about the cats that inhabit the campus. Nor did he mean the four-footed felines commonly referred to by that name, these have two legs and are the most long-winded on the campus. Anything and everything is discussed by them, from the best-looking of the opposites to somebody's latest date. We're all guilty, men and women alike. We can't sit down to a meal in the dining hall without rehearsing the latest scandal or "raking" somebody up and down. Purge our ranks of the cats. Begin with ourselves, for if that is first done, nothing else need be. I hereby declare an anti-cat campaign on the Dana campus. Let all who support the campaign observe the unwritten law of the society.

(If you don't know what I mean by this, come around and I'll tell you point blank!)

The changing of the pipe organ grill from the stage to the auditorium has our whole-hearted support. What is the possibility, we ask, of having Sunday afternoon vesper concerts? Surely it would prove a profitable method of spend-

Innovations in 1936 Annual

Anker Jensen, editor-in-chief of the 1936 Viking, replacing Irvin Bondo, announces a discount on the price of the annual for students submitting snapshots. Every two accepted snapshots will reduce the student's price by fifteen cents.

The annual this year will be something out of the ordinary. Mr. Jensen states that a new type of arrangement will be used patterned after modernistic style according to preliminary arrangements. No old cuts or prints will be used in this publication. According to present plans which are to be sanctioned by the senior class, the annual will sell at probably one dollar and a half and contain one hundred twenty pages. Mr. William Thomsen has promised to cooperate in the preparation of the art work.

Engraving for the Viking will be done by the Lincoln State Journal, and the Danish Lutheran Publishing House will print and bind the book.

Omaha to Hear Kagawa Lecture

Toyohiko Kagawa, well-known Christian worker in Japan, will speak before the Nebraska Farmers Union in Omaha Thursday, February 13, at 10 o'clock. He will speak on the subject of Economic Christianity which has been his field of activity in Japan.

Kagawa has become a world figure through his efforts to place the economic structure of Japan and eventually the world on a truly Christian basis. An article in the current Forum magazine carries an account of his Christian church activities in the field of economics. Kagawa's contention is that the church has had no interest in economics because it believed that it was not in the sphere of the church's activity. Kagawa's activity in Japan has resulted in such a large measure of success that publishers could not supply the demand for his writings.

Kagawa came to the United States to attend the convention of the Student Volunteer Movement held in Indianapolis during the Christmas holidays. Other notable persons attending this convention were William Temple, Archbishop of York; Basil Mathews, well known author, and many others.

It has been this columnist's purpose to stimulate thought both internationally and locally among the students. The first point, I believe, hasn't received the proper reaction. How can we, as professing students of coeval as well as of past knowledge, do our part without daily contact with the world through the press? It is a prime essential.

Einer Olsen is Elected Head of League Here

WALTER RASMUSSEN AND KATHERINE NELDEBERG OTHER OFFICERS

Einer Olsen was elected president of the Luther League at the meeting of January 8. He replaces Andrew Staby. Other officers chosen at this meeting were Walter Rasmussen, vice-president, and Katherine Neldeberg, secretary.

The program of the evening opened with the singing of two hymns, "Love Divine, All Love Excelling" and "I Was a Wandering Sheep." Einer Olsen read the Twenty-third Psalm and offered prayer.

A thought provoking discussion of the Twenty-third Psalm was led by Clarence Jensen. Jehovah, the good shepherd, guides his sheep through tribulations and sorrow. The fulfillment of the responsibilities of God as the perfect guide is manifest in His word, the sacraments, the means of prayer and the blessedness of Christian fellowship. The good shepherd guides distressed souls to the full restoration of both body and soul. Our great dependency upon God is fully realized when we find ourselves lost in the valley of despair after descending from the hilltops. If we are willing to be led, Jehovah will perform great and marvelous things to the honor and glory of His name. Let us accept God as our Host and be able to confess our faith in Him through the words of David, "the Lord is my shepherd."

In keeping with the topic of discussion the closing hymn was "How Blessed is the Little Flock."

Two are Chosen to 'Who's Who'

Inga Schultz, Winnipeg, Canada and Verner Carlsen, Blair, Nebraska, have been chosen to represent Dana in the 1936 Who's Who of students in American universities and colleges.

The editor, H. Pettus Randall, requested the names of the one per cent of the student body ranking highest in character, scholarship, leadership in extra-curricular activities; and in possibility of future usefulness to business and society be sent him. The first edition of the publication appeared in May, 1935. Ruth Petersen, Racine, Wisconsin, and Victor Magnusson, Audubon, Iowa, were listed in that edition.

As a result of the interest aroused by the first annual essay contest sponsored by the Panhellenic House Association, announcement is made by the essay committee that plans for the second competition on "Why I Should See New York" are completed, and

Men Go West, Pullman Style

There is no place like California for Christmas. This must have been the opinion upheld by Dick Lincoln, Eldridge Petersen, Norman Dyhrberg, and Adolph Kloth, who spent the holidays there. But how did they get there? Well, the Union Pacific railroad with its swell new streamlined zephyrs couldn't have the privilege of carrying them. But Dick's new 1936 Plymouth coupe was delegated to do the trick. However, there's still a frown on our faces for 1800 miles is a long stretch to cover with four young men in a coupe. Well, those lumbermen seem to possess a knack for putting their products to special use. As a result, the new Plymouth was equipped with a special wooden compartment that fit into the luggage compartment at the rear of the car. This special arrangement provided room for a bed which made it possible for two of the occupants to rest while the other two served as pilots. Thirty-eight hours were required to make the homeward journey. Evidently the boys did not cherish the thought of getting back to the "old grind" since it took them four hours longer to make the return trip.

Cheer Leaders Chosen Dec. 19

"Fifteen Raahs for So-and-So!" With gyrating motions punctuated by staccato bursts of cheering and applause, tryouts were held for cheerleaders before the student body at noon in the chapel, Thursday, December 19. The applications having been approved by the Norsemen, the following were selected:

Florence Neve, Dagny Rosenberg, and Carl Gebuhr, with the latter selected as captain of the team.

Their initial performance followed a pep meeting in the chapel the evening of the same day at the Hebron game.

Isabel Writes 'Ma' and Picks Out Bright Spots in New Year's Events

January 13, 1936.

Dear Ma:

It certainly does seem good to get back to the old college again, even if it does mean I have to get to work. College life offers so many things that any other life can not offer, at least in some ways. If you don't believe that, you might try asking some of the girls here in the dorm, Elna Jensen from Audubon, for instance. She says she really would have enjoyed staying home for a while longer, although I don't know why she should feel that way about it. I know that some of the girls like Evelyn Petersen, Burdette Erickson, and a few others, were very happy to get back.

You know, ma, Ikey and I have

Committeemen Plan Open House At Homecoming

COMMITTEES MAKING PLANS FOR AN ENJOYABLE DAY FEBRUARY 22

Saturday, February 22, Dana college will be the scene of busy Homecoming activities. Committeemen have been working on plans that differ from those of former years. Saturday has been chosen to facilitate the making of plans for attendance by many alumni throughout the country.

The festivities will open in the afternoon with a surprise program, which will be followed later in the evening at 5:30 with a banquet.

Grand View College, Des Moines, the only sister school of Dana in America, and a traditional rival in basketball will send its quintet to give the Vikings an exciting evening following the banquet. To date, neither team concedes victory to the other.

Plans are also being made for an "Open House" in the Dormitories. Alumni and friends of the college together with the students are urged to utilize the occasion to make and renew acquaintances during the evening following the game.

Many inquiries and plans for attendance have already been received.

College Editors For Roosevelt

(A.C.P.)—Give the college editors of America their way, and President Roosevelt will be re-elected without turning a wheel.

Or so it appears from a recent magazine study of political attitudes of collegiate scribes.

Four hundred and eight editors were for Roosevelt, 52 for Borah and 26 for the publisher, Frank Knox.

The vote by the same editors for political parties was 386 for the Democrats, 183 for the Republicans, 45 for the Socialists and 10 for the Communist party.

been talking about some of the things that happened here during the first semester, picking out the bright spots, so to speak, and we have come to the conclusion that President Nelson is responsible for the brightest. No, it isn't that he's bald-headed, or that he got a new derby, but it's that nurse he got. I don't know whether it's her light hair, her eyes, or her smile, but something seems to brighten the place when she's here. Oh, I realize that she has a hard time to cure the boys, and that their pulse jumps to one hundred and fifty every time she touches them, but they have to get used to that. She hasn't been able to cure heart trouble yet, either.

FROM PLATO TO A HEIFER

Once again we have returned to our desks. Christmas holidays lie behind us; semester tests loom up before us and here we sit with pleasant memories popping up before us now and then while we try to study. Our vacation has not been a discontinuance of our education; it has been an opportunity to make readjustments, to apply some of what we have learned and to find inspiration in the personalities of old and new acquaintances.

Breaking the routine of studies was a revealing experiment in which we found how little we do accomplish without a program of work. And now we know how good it is to get back to the old swing of regular eating, sleeping, playing, and working.

Very likely our parents and friends watched closely to see if our education were going to affect us in any way so that we would become 'too good' for them, or that we were forgetting how to attack everyday problems.

After all, of what value is all our learning and adding of knowledge if we don't know how to live properly? It is said of Emerson that once he and his son were trying to move a balky heifer from one stall to another. Emerson had just come out of the house from reading Plato and others of his favorites, but while he was pushing and boosting the heifer he thought how useless were the words of a philosopher in such a situation. As far as he could see there was nothing to do but wait the heifer's good pleasure. But then an Irish maid came along and, finding out the trouble, went up to the heifer and put a finger in its mouth and led it off to its proper stall. Emerson straightened up, wiped off his wet brow and said words to this effect: I like people who know how to do things.

KNOW THE RULES

A man sits down to play a game of chess. A man steps into an automobile to drive away. A diplomat attends a conference that is to decide whether or not he can keep a nation out of war, and he steers the affairs of the nation with all the skill and knowledge of human nature that he has acquired to a peaceful objective. In all three cases the man in order to be successful must have a knowledge of the rules of the game. Knowing the ropes is important. There is nothing so fallacious as to prepare a person for life without a knowledge of the rules of the game.

The world is beginning to look upon another theater of war, and the question begins to circulate around about keeping out of war, and the statesmen and diplomats begin to move for the preservation of neutrality, and the great mass of people peep about for their own selfish preservation and perchance a miserable grave. The last war was a failure for democracy but a glorious one for the propaganda makers. It behooves college students to take hold of the facts of the case as they see it and form definite ideas for the preservation of peace. In that and only that can there be hope for a true democracy. When the people of a nation can regard the result of their deliberation and consider the folly or wisdom of their actions and know that it is their own doing, then will the democratic ideal be realized.

The recent developments are not cause for immediate alarm, but steps must be taken now in an effort to secure an opinion that will be the guide for statesmen. How much Dana can do is not the important thing, but we must learn now so that when things begin to go round and round, we do not take hold of the poker at the hot end.

A New York paper carries several advertisements offering chaperones for young tot: wishing to see Santa Claus. $2 for an experienced guide, and $3 for an inexperienced companion. From our own experience with cousin Claire, age three, for whom we offered to do the job for nothing before we acquired the experience, the job ought to be worth at least $10.

Cooperate! Consider the banana. Every time it leaves the bunch, it gets skinned.

The Golden Stairs

From dark to dark down a winding staircase of golden years come the days of our life in unending procession. The stairs are gilded by the days that tread them. The days themselves can be seen only in the light of the present, for they come from a dark room above and they pass away into the dark —We know not whence nor whither. All the days are strangely alike and yet they differ. Though today and yesterday be both twenty-four hours long, though the sun shines on both these days, yesterday delighted itself in beautiful things, and now today looks back with longing. The attitude of tomorrow may be challenging or questioning or hesitant or merciful. Perhaps it will be fearful or moody. Perhaps several days will unite in an earnest quest. And will the last days be a looking back or will they be days of joyful anticipation?

But regardless of what the future will bring, today commands our concern. We must nourish the day with our thoughts and deeds, which both must be neither cake nor stones but wholesome bread. We must adopt the day and become one spirit with it. We who are so concerned about eating and drinking, about what to put on and where to rest owe it to God and to ourselves to guard the day like a loved one and to live with it "to the spirit."

The stairs of 1936 will be golden only if we adorn them with golden days.

'I thoroughly believe in university education for both men and women but I believe a knowledge of the Bible without a college course is more valuable than a college course without the Bible. Western civilization is founded upon the Bible; our ideals, our wisdom, our philosophy, our literature, our art, our ideas come more from the Bible than from all other books put together.'—Professor William Lyon Phelps.

DAY DREAMS ARE LIABLE TO CAUSE NIGHTMARES

LITERARY CORNER

They say that thou art dead; no more to see
 Thy merry smile or hear thy valient vow;
 No more to touch thy hand or feverish brow
 When thou hast sworn a sacred love to me.

To know that thou in some gray hill entomb'd
 Must lie, though raptured birds sing low above
 Those sweet songs, crystal-touched, of endless love,
 Which filled the air when last the lilacs bloomed.

And yet, in every branch that's softly tossed,
 I hear a voice so gentle, 'tis thy tone.
 In wooded paths thy hand doth touch my own
 To show the love of one they say I've lost.

They say that thou are dead. How can that be?
 I see thee wand'ring o'er the wind-swept lea. —Sarah Beales.

I was a poet once, and from my lips
 Melody flowed, and songs, low, crystal clear,
 More joyous than the wild thrush that you hear,
 Sweeter than honey dripping from gold-petal tips,
 Wer poured forth gaily to the wistful wind.
 Heedlessly I sang till all the birds
 Joined in, thinking, though I sang with words
 The melody must surely be their kin.
 But now, alas, for you I mourn

and weep,
 My lyre unstrung and broken, my flute
 Lost on some primrose hill. My voice is mute,
 Sobbing has made it harsh. I can not sleep
 For thought of you Raednor. If you but knew,
 Oh wand'ring one, my loyalty to you. — Sarah Beales.

We know of a professor in a small town college who travelled 50 miles away to another campus to observe a basketball game. As the game broke up, a man from his home town offered the professor a ride home. He accepted, with gratitude. No sooner did he set foot on his front porch than he realized he had driven his own car to the other city.

Since he had to teach the next morning, he sent his wife on the train to get the car and drive it home.

So he stopped in at the depot and bought his wife a round trip ticket!

but it is a trifle cold outside in the evenings, according to some of the girls, my roommate for instance. She says it's terribly cold, and that she would like to see a stray fellow with a car, and a heater in the car, at least until spring. I guess she would turn over a new leaf in the spring.

Then of course, the good old match-maker, the choir, will soon begin wandering here and there on Sundays. For some people, this has been the brightest of spots, especially the night trips, but I guess I was born under the wrong star. Maybe this year will be better.

Well, ma, now is the time for all good students to start cramming. Semester exams are just around the corner. I'm afraid that it will be a slippery corner, and it won't help much to practice walking on the icy roads at nights either. If I don't write to you for a while, you will know I am busy, or that something else has happened, if only Mr. Malmin will let me go on the choir trips. Greetings from Ikey.

Your loving daughter,
Isabel.

'Drive Sanely' Campaign On

In college and daily newspaper editorial offices from Atlantic to Pacific campaigns are being carried on to have readers sign pledges for safer and saner automobile driving. The first drive is accredited to Harvard university which took action about one year ago.

Other papers have circulated pledges in which promises are made to observe "a moderate rate of speed" and other general traffic rules and common sense habits in driving. The Midland college paper recently received hearty support in such a campaign on its campus, and the action on the parts of the editors won the approval of Fremont journalists in a long editorial.

Texas Student In War Zone

Greenville, Tex.—(ACP)—J. C. Arnold, 19, University of Texas journalism sophomore, decided he wanted to be a war correspondent, in spite of having little experience, money or connections. So he got aboard the first freighter offering him a chance to work his way to Djibouti, French Somaliland, and several Texas papers are now using his feature stories, air-mailed from Addis Ababa.

According to the last word received by his agent, Boyd Sinclair, editor of the Wesley College Pilot, Arnold is staying in Addis Ababa with Count Hilliare du Berrier, French adventurer, an English airplane pilot, and a newspaperman from Lahore, India.

Arnold sailed from Marseilles, France to Djibouti with Taklo Hawariate, Ethiopian delegate to the League of Nations, interviewing him on the journey.

According to Arnold, whose school paper, The Texan, boasts of being the only college daily having a special correspondent in the war zone, Addis Ababa is law abiding, justice is swift and sure, and the main danger to life and limb lies not in war complications but in the native-driven taxis.

New Books Put Into Circulation

Garnett and Gosse's Illustrated English Literature is a recent valuable addition to the library. In two large volumes containing more than 1200 illustrations, these two eminent critics discuss English literature from the beginning to 1922.

The Advance of Science by Watson Davis should be read by all who wish to keep abreast of the times. We quote from the jacket review: 'A citizen of the modern world must know whether he is being swept. This book tells him.'

In the A B C of Atoms, Bertrand Russell tells in non-technical language what is known about the structure of atoms and also discusses simply and clearly relativity, the wave theory of light, etc.

Treadwell's Analytical Quantitative and Qualitative Chemistry, Follet's German-English dictionary, Wessely's Junior Classic German dictionary and Der Sprach-Brochhaus are useful additions to the chemistry and German shelves.

Midland Hands Vikings First Defeat of the Season

FAST FREMONT QUINT HALTS EARLY WINNING STREAK OF DANA TEAM

Dana suffered the first defeat of the season on the Tuesday before the holidays at the hands of the superior quintet of Midland. Many loyal Viking fans made the trip to Fremont to supplement the efforts of their team.

The Warriors evidenced superiority by their swift, accurate, and deceptive passing; their speedy recuperation at the beginning of the first half; their consistent scoring through Dana's well executed defense.

Following the initial tipoff Dana quickly gained a conservative lead. Hope ran high among the Dana representatives when in those first few minutes the Midlanders were unable to change the zero to a significant figure. A foul by a Viking, entitling a warrior to a gift shot started the stone rolling, but contrary to the old adage, the stone gathered moss. The opponents followed the first point with a scoring spree that blasted the Dana lead and ended the half with an 18-9 count.

Encouragement and advice received during the intermission spurred the Red and Whites to new efforts. The final figures might be considered as a good criterion of the relative strength of the two teams since each five approximately doubled their score in the second period. But this fact also added laurels to the Vikings. Dana need have no regrets over this first defeat.

H. 'Uppie' Olsen Gets Coach Job

News comes from Racine, Wisconsin, that a former Dana student H. Albert "Uppie" Olsen, has been selected as the "B" squad basketball coach at Washington Park High school. Olsen, a major athlete at Park during his high school days, also participated in sports at Dana and was exceptional on the cage court.

Coach H. Olsen states in The Park Beacon, "Dana goes very strongly into intramural sports. The students work in groups and participate in both minor and major sports."

"Ray" and Ingvard "Inky" Olsen, students at Dana, are brothers of Coach Olsen.

Vikings Lose To 'Knights'

The fifth game of the season and the last of the pre-holiday schedule ended in an irritating defeat for Dana, the Hebron Knights carrying home a 26-23 victory. A large crowd congregated at the gym to see the first home game of the year.

This second loss was much harder to digest than the Midland game. The tie score at the half, 14-14, typified the evenly matched skill of the teams throughout the entire game. And particularly in the first half was this true. The score vacillated somewhat in this fashion: (Dana's score is given first)—2-0, 2-1, 2-3, 6-7, 10-9, 13-11, 13-14, 14-14.

At the beginning of the game Hurd made the first bucket, and, incidentally, his was the initial attempt of the game.

The second period was also a hard, close battle; although the score was not as even. Proceedings gradually turned in Hebron's favor. Interesting and tense moments occurred just before the final gun when the Red and Whites cut down the score difference at an exciting pace. Hostilities ended with the close score, 26-23.

FROM the SIDELINES

Dana's "big three," Olsen, Hurd and Patrick, have scored 149 points in the five games played. Olsen leads with 63 followed by Hurd with 45 and Patrick with 41.

Brill's hitting 1000 in free throws. 1 out of 1. Now he's hoping he isn't fouled again so his record will stand.

Langley predicts an undefeated season for his intra-mural team. Ever hear him tell about it?

Wildrick's team set a record against Davis' team. They made one free throw in eleven attempts. Davis has been fouled 26 times in three games and has made 16 of the free throws.

Mehrens is the leading scorer in intramural basketball with 40 points in three games. Sides has scored 30 points in two games.

Lyndrup's team beat Svendsen's team, 34 to 23. The "Baldies," Wes and Coach, had a field day with 14 and 18 points, respectively.

New sweaters show up very good. "Santa" payed a number of calls to football players. Those new sweaters look very bright.

Who got a new pair of socks for Xmas and when he wears them, wears an old pair on the outside?

The two-way traffic at 9:45 a.m. might indicate that Dana has two chapel services.

How did the light fixtures in the chapel become so immaculate. (pig irony).

Fortunate is that young man who has the opportunity to hold the west door to the Ad building open while cohorts of young ladies file in.

Stan Larsen is terribly worried. It is Einer's week to clean up the room during homecomings, and what with open house coming on—he is afraid that Einer will forget.
