

Cattle of College Farm Rank High In Dairy Circles

HERD MAKES GOOD RECORD IN TRI-COUNTY IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

The newly-purchased dairy herd at the college farm has already begun to make a name for itself in Eastern Nebraska dairy circles. During the month of November the herd placed third in butterfat production in the Tri-County Dairy Herd Improvement Association. This association is composed of thirty herds in Washington, Burt and Dodge counties. The average butterfat production for the month was 26.9 pounds.

"At the present rate of production," stated farm manager, L. K. Johansen, "the December average should be much higher, perhaps around 43 pounds. One of our cows, a first calf heifer, is now producing milk with a 4.7 per cent butterfat content, and should produce over 70 pounds of butterfat in December. It is entirely possible that this animal may become the highest producing individual in the state."

Egg production at the farm is now approaching 250 per day. The flock of 500 White Leghorns is being fed on balanced rations, and has the benefit of a lengthened day through the aid of artificial lighting. This aid, in addition to increasing egg production, has also added to the weight of the fowl.

News Briefs

The students who stayed at school over Thanksgiving enjoyed themselves. Miss Wind sponsored a party in the girls' reception room on November 28, and about 20 students were entertained at the Nyholm residence on November 29.

The Rev. F. C. M. Hansen of Council Bluffs was the chapel speaker on December 2.

The Maine boys certainly shine as painters—witness the gloss paint in the halls of the Ad building.

The heavy snow on Saturday, December 5, provided a week-end of outdoor sports for many of the Hilltoppers. Some of the Vikings belied their name when they attempted to negotiate the hill on skis.

The Lutheran College Faculty meeting at Augustana (Rock Island) was attended by 150. Next year's meeting will be held at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa.

Dr. N. C. Carlsen spoke at the chapel service on December 9.

Dr. Carlsen also spoke at the meeting of the Foreign Mission Society on December 9. He lectured on the Home Mission and the early history of our church.

Road to College To Be Surfaced

Surveyors have been recently working on the College Hill road, preparatory to the grading operations which are planned for the near future. From information which we now have it is expected that the road will be covered with a black-top surface some time next spring.

Such an improvement would indeed be welcomed by the college and its residents. The road which, in its present condition, tends to become almost impassable during periods of rain or snow, has long been an object of complaint among the inhabitants of College Hill.

Yearbook Plans Occupy Seniors

Stanley Bach, editor-in-chief of the 1936-37 annual, already has his staff hard at work on the many articles which are to appear in the book. In addition to a colorful history of every phase of the year's activity, present plans call for individual photos of the students, as well as group pictures and snap-shots.

At present Harold Qualsett, business manager of the project, is working out an estimate of the cost of production. It is planned to produce the book at a cost of one dollar or less. Cover material and paper will be of the best quality possible under this selling price.

It is likely that the staff will call for advance orders on or before the start of the second semester in order to determine the potential financial aid at their disposal.

The entire project is to be handled by the senior class which, though small in numbers, gives every indication of being great in ability and enthusiasm.

Election Should Provoke Thought

Within six months the convention of our church will name a man to head this school. While few of us will have an active voice in the actual election, there are many ways in which we can bring this question to the attention of our people, so that it will not be a surprising issue to so many when it is brought up on the convention floor.

It is tragically true that many of the most momentous decisions made by our people are considered by very few prior to the actual moment of formal passage. The election of a president for Dana College will be a momentous issue. A bad decision in this respect could work untold damage; an intelligent choice might spell unprecedented progress.

It is our duty to place this matter before the attention of our friends and relatives, and there is no better time to do that than during the Christmas holidays. Sound out the folks and get everybody to give some thought to this subject. It is one of vital importance.

Texiere, Leading Andersen Actor, To Appear Here

NOTED INTERPRETER WILL PRESENT PROGRAM AT DANA IN JANUARY

In the previous issue of the Hermes it was announced that efforts were being put forth for an appearance at Dana College of Jacob Texiere, noted interpreter of Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tales. With this issue we are privileged to announce definitely that Jacob Texiere will present a program at Dana College the latter part of January.

Mr. Texiere is a member of the Royal Theatre in Copenhagen, Denmark. He interprets many of the fairy tales of Hans Christian Andersen. Two of these are given in English and he has memorized many of them in German. Mr. Texiere has done this type of work for over thirty years and we may be assured that he has done it exceptionally well. When he arrived recently in New York on his first trip to America, the statement was made to the effect that he bore many resemblances to Hans Christian Andersen himself. Jacob Texiere makes use of these resemblances in his interpretations when he dresses and acts as much as possible as one would suppose the author Andersen did in his interpretations. A review of his performance in Brooklyn states that he impersonates wonderfully anything from hens to teapots; that his facial expressions are almost able to tell the story without words. The audience weeps at the sorry plight of The Ugly Duckling and laughs heartily at the antics of the well-known Klods Hans.

Jacob Texiere appears at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium in Omaha, December 20 and will appear here at Dana in the latter part of January. The appearance should be of great interest to everyone, especially to those of Scandinavian descent.

Nordics Discuss Andersen's Tales

Hans Christian Andersen and his works were the subjects for discussion at the meeting of the Nordic Reading Circle at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Swansen on December 4.

Mrs. Malmin gave an interesting account of her visit to the H. C. Andersen museum in Denmark, after which Professor Nyholm led the group in a discussion of some of the works of the great Danish writer of fairy tales.

The reading of "The Bell" by Edward Hansen and the singing of Danish folk songs by the entire group rounded out the program.

Absence of Cuts Brings Comment

The absence of photographs in the past several issues of the Hermes has given rise to some inquiry.

Pictures do lend color to the printed page and they help to enliven the news. However, we have, for two reasons, found it expedient to economize on their use. First, there is the lack of money. In an endeavor to clear up a deficit which has hung over this publication for a number of years, we have decided to use cuts sparingly; the use of cuts in every issue becomes a sizeable expenditure over a year's time.

Further, our subject matter is quite limited. We do not believe that we should use up space in printing cuts which have been run in the past. On the other hand, new pictures such as those of the athletic teams, classes, activity groups, etc., although suitable for publication, rightfully belong to the yearbook.

Thurs, the subject field becomes quite narrow. There will undoubtedly be several cuts in the Hermes during the remainder of the school year, but we cannot promise them as a regular feature. Circumstances will govern their appearance.

Pre-Sems Elect; Hear Sem Senior

Eric Christensen, a Blair sophomore, was elected to the presidency of the Pre-Seminary Students' Club at that organization's first meeting of the year, Thursday evening, Dec. 10. Clarence Jensen, senior in the seminary addressed the group on the topic "What is expected of a pre-seminary student?"

The speaker discussed particularly the call to service and the recognition of it, the many qualifications of a pastor, and the spiritual life of the individual student, recommending that there be more evidence of "a deep living, fervent piety."

Officers of the club holding their positions of last year are Earl Laurser, vice-president, and Edward Hansen, secretary.

Lovers have decided to postpone that activity until the second semester in the hope that everyone will have made up his mind by then, and that class conflicts which now exist will have been dissipated.

In consequence of the late start no intercollegiate debates are being scheduled. The activity of the class will be confined to the development of speaking qualities. Verner Carlsen has been named as coach and instructor.

Varied Program is Given By Monte Carlo Ensemble

ARTISTS OF OPERA DELIGHTED LARGE CROWD AT COLLEGE DECEMBER 4

In a program sparkling with variety the Monte Carlo Opera Ensemble delighted a large audience in the auditorium on Friday afternoon, December 4. The Ensemble is under the direction of Madame Lorraine, and includes a pianist, a violinist, a soprano, a tenor, and a baritone.

The program, a balanced bill of solos, duets and trios, was composed of various classical selections, folk songs, and excerpts from famous operas. There was something in the program to appeal to the musical taste of each listener.

The artists in the group are now appearing with the San Carlo Opera Company, although they appear as a unit on the nation-wide Radio Civic Series which includes such stars as Nelson Eddy and Fritz Kriesler. The Ensemble artists are all former members of the LaScala Opera Company of Milan, Italy.

Cherry-Burrell Gives Equipment

Word has just been received that the Cherry-Burrell Corporation of Chicago has appropriated a donation to the Dana farm in the form of an electric churn.

The Cherry-Burrell Corporation manufactures a complete line of milk-handling equipment and supplies, and it goes without saying that their products are considered to be among the very best in that field.

The churn will be a very welcome addition to the farm equipment which is being gradually rounded out with the most modern appliances available. Our sincere thanks to the Cherry-Burrell people for this most excellent and appreciated gift.

Leaguers Discuss Christian Living

The Luther League meeting of December 2 was given over to a discussion of the question: "Can the teachings of Christ be practiced today?" Eric Christensen led the discussion, and brought out the two-fold teaching which emanates from Christ—the Word and His life. He also outlined the laws of His teachings, which are found in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule, and the great commissions. The teachings of Christ's life were exemplified in the Sermon on the Mount.

Professor J. P. Nielsen and several of the seminary and college students contributed thought-provoking comment to the discussion of the topic.

The devotional part of the meeting was led by Elizabeth Christensen, and Irene Andersen contributed a piano solo.

ON GROWING UP

One of the strongest desires of small boys and girls is to be grown-up, to be like "Daddy" or like "Mamma." It colors play so that a little boy will wear his fathers hat and shoes and feel quite grownup, and a little girl will play at tea for the feeling of being grown-up that it gives. Then as they grow older they see that there are greater differences between a child and an adult, and they begin to strive to do the things they see their elders doing—then we hear "I can do it just like Daddy does"—and they help their parents for the feeling of equality it gives them, although they still know that they are dependent. And later comes the knowledge that they are making their own decisions and earning their own living in this world, having established themselves in the business world and perhaps are taking part in politics and other grown-up affairs.

The pity is that so many seem to consider themselves adults on this basis only. Waht a mistake! Being an adult means much more than wearing larger shoes, doing more work, of associating with older people. These are only the signs of physical development. Psychology recognizes the fact that there are hundreds of children—babies even—who are physically classed as adults. Mentally, they are children—nay, less than children, for children have the saving power of being able to wonder about the things around them and to seek answers through questions, while the so-called adults have no time or interest for "such foolishness", for they must earn their living. Of what use is life, pray, if all one's time must be spent merely in maintaining it? Of what use is a boat if all its buoyancy is needed to keep itself afloat? Curiosity may be childishness to some; but lack of curiosity does not indicate complete development, it is a sign of death.

Spiritually also we have thousands of infants in adult form. It is true that very few of us have the courage to face ourselves. We do not like to dig into our soul for motives; we are afraid of what we will find there. Our friends are kind and many times impute spiritually grown-up motives to our deeds when we know in our heart that they are deceived and that our motives were babyish. Just as the bodies of children are frail, so their souls are selfish. A babe can not consider anything except in relation to its own needs and pleasures. Bodies are visible and first our parents and later we ourselves see to it that they grow and develop as they should. Souls are visible to but a few, so they are easily overlooked, both by our parents and ourselves. Most of us who are reading this are old enough to recognize signs of spiritual defects. We do things through jealousy that should have been prompted by love; then we turn around and plume ourselves that no one else could see it, when we should have faced our motive squarely. We "forget" those little actions of courtesy and consideration and excuse ourselves by saying that it isn't expected or that no one else does it, instead of facing the fact that we did not want to exert ourselves for an acquaintance. We let our feelings get hurt and dislike the person who was instrumental instead of seeing that it was our own inflated ego that was punctured, usually without his knowledge or intention. We take more than our share of sauce or the best toast (is not the other piece just as nourishing?) and excuse ourselves by saying that others do it or that it doesn't mean anything, when everyone knows in his heart that it is pure selfishness—infancy of soul. And so on, ad infinitum—

We have seen these things. Can we grow? Do we want to grow? —E.M.R.

SHALL WE FORSAKE THE MUSES?

Certain alumni have complained about the lack of sparkling news in the Hermes, and have included in their complaint a denunciation of the literary efforts which appear on its pages.

The editorial policy of the Hermes must, to be fair, always include a constant desire and effort to make this organ interesting and informative to its readers. Owing to the instability of news values, and of inspiration, together with the wide range of tastes represented among the readers, it is quite impossible to please a majority, not to speak of pleasing the entire group.

Students and alumni, this is your paper. We do not feel that we are obliged to change the complexion of the publication merely upon the suggestion of one or two readers, much as we value their views. But we should appreciate nothing more than wide comment, representative of the entire subscribing group. More news? Sensational or conservative? Removal of literary contributions? New departments? These are the questions which stand before the editor at the present time, and he requests their consideration by all the readers. The column for student comment will be your medium for expression, should you have anything to say on the matter.

We of the staff are not mind readers. Improvements are impossible without your open suggestions and criticisms. In all fairness it is only reasonable that we should have an opportunity to hear and consider your opinions. —B.J.L.

Until recently it seemed that the novel idea of a half-blind, tottering gentleman who died in the Ozarks of Arkansas last spring would pass along with him.

He suggested that someone erect a 130-foot-high pyramid, fill it with modern products, and seal it heremetically.

"This civilization is going to the dogs," he said, "and when the year 8113 rolls around, the people can open the pyramid up and see just what was wrong with the people back in 1936."

Now Oglethorpe University has adopted the idea. With the cooperation of Scientific American it plans to build the pyramid and stock it with everything from a sound film record of greetings from the president of the United States to the citizens of 8113 to samples of present day brands of chewing gum.

Dr. Alfred M. Nielson, professor of economic geography at New York University, has an aversion for chewers of gum. Here is how he classifies them:

"There are five types of gum chewers. First, the type which chews with a gentle, oscillating motion, like a contented cow. Next, the type which chews to the rhythm of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. Thirdly, the kind known as the 'railroad chewer'. They produce noises like the 'clickety-click' of a train.

"Then come two types of synchronizers. First, those who synchronize their mouths with their pencils, and, secondly, those who time the movements of their jaws with the speed of the lecturer."

W. A. Mann, University of Texas law student, is sick of hearing his own voice.

He wagered his roommates that he could better the late Huey P. Long's filibuster record of 16 hours. When they took him up on his boast, he launched into a non-stop monologue time and again as lengthy as any that Cornelia Otis Skinner has ever given.

Talking on astronomy, religion, politics, economics, his life history and many other things, Mann lasted 16 hours and 10 minutes—10 minutes longer than Long.

Every Egyptian was commanded by law annually to declare by what means he maintained himself; and if he omitted to do it, or gave no satisfactory account of his way of living, he was punishable with death. This law Solon brought from Egypt to Athens, where it was inviolably observed as a most equitable regulation. —Herodotus.

Atheism is a disease of the soul, before it becomes an error of the understanding. —Plato.

After all, it is the divinity within that makes the divinity without; and I have been more fascinated by a woman of talent and intelligence though deficient in personal charms, than I have been by the most regular beauty. —Washington Irving.

ALUMNI NOTES

Carl Olsen is working at Monroe, Wisconsin.

Elmer Olsen reports that he is kept busy at the University of Montana. He has an N.Y.A. position which consists of the editing of historical records sent in from the various counties in the state.

Basketball has again lured Uppie and Ray Olsen; they are now members of the Oregon team in the Madison Suburban League.

It is also said that Ray a heart interest in Ripon, Wisconsin.

And that Uppie is developing into an outstanding choir leader in the Oregon church.

The Rev. C. Clifford Madsen drove up from Omaha on December 7, to visit with friends on the Hill and to see the Vikings play the American Business College five. Pastor Madsen also spoke at chapel on Tuesday morning.

Gladys Wayne is in the employ of the Interstate Power Company at Albert Lea, Minnesota.

Francis Mortensen is teaching at Emmons, Minnesota, this year.

Several of the alumni are living and working in Iowa. Irene Jensen is working for the Iowa Public Service Company at Audubon, and Eddie Haals is working in the bank in the same town. Dale Ballain is operating a filling station at Emerson, Iowa.

Ernestine McCain spent a few days on the campus recently. She is attending Centenary College at Shreveport, Louisiana. Incidentally, Bob Mortensen spent the same days on the campus. He is engaged in the ice cream business with his father at Albert Lea, Minnesota.

Another of our Albert Lea alumni, Lawrence Nelson, has a position with the Wilson Packing Company of that city.

June Smith was a campus visitor on December 1. She is giving private music lessons at her home.

Miriam Rosenblatt is taking nurses training at the Mayo Brothers hospital in Rochester, Minnesota.

Harold Thayer is an embryo apothecary in his father's drug store at Potter, Nebraska.

This is late, but still interesting news. Aage Nommensen was married last summer and is now managing his father's hotel in Copenhagen, Denmark.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Knudsen on December 4. Congratulations from all of the tiny lad's Dana "aunts" and "uncles."

Alumni: This is the first time this school year that the alumni column has approached anything which we might term fullness. You have perhaps been very much interested in some of these items. Others will be interested in your doings. Let's have your news.

STUDENT COMMENT

These fourteen little friends of the printer's type box might well be utilized to greater advantage in resurrecting Dana student thought from the doldrums of complacency and sheep-like mimicry. Intelligent use of student comment would develop into a "be-alive" attitude, and constitute a dynamic force that might easily serve to start the ball rolling toward greater interest in Dana among our church people and others. A perfect organization might possibly arouse some somnolent minds to efforts of commendation, but certainly a college which is far from attaining a virtual Utopia should call forth suggestions and constructive criticism for improvement. Therefore, look about you, and if anything which happens or already exists measures up to or exceeds your standard of what is right, give vent to your approval. If, on the other hand, the case under consideration is in such a plight that it is obnoxious to your sense of ethical smell, open the window of your literary ability and let a little of it into this column. If powers of discernment are wanting, might I suggest a collection of topics gleaned from various sources; a collection of trivialities compared to more profound subjects which we might ventilate later on. However, these will serve well for a first assignment.

There is a reception room in the men's dormitory, too. Let us call it a recreation room and invite the ladies over for an evening's wholesome entertainment. Moreover, there is a piano there, and that would make unnecessary any comment on the duo-monopoly of the music room in the ladies hall. What do YOU think?

Surely the entire student body is not as much of a half-wit as that writer who, in a previous issue, criticized the 10:30 lights out rule. A little individual thinking might soon stir up enough argument to convince him that he is all wrong. What do YOU think?

Issue might be taken to the moral of compulsory attendance at weekly devotions in half of the dormitories. Also, is a verbal redress for wrongs committed a conducive introduction to a quiet half hour of worship and prayer? On that question we have much opportunity for argument, both pro and con. What do YOU think?

We have a sleepy-headed student body president who should see that something is done about the recreation problem around here. Might he not deserve a little prodding? What do YOU think?

Maybe you like the food and the service in the dining hall. Intensely interesting it would be to commend by means of comparison with other schools. What do YOU think?

Some one might courteously suggest that the proper high authorities issue the necessary decree to place that big, wasteful bulb from the airplane beacon on the dorm roof in one of the dark places on the hill road. The first stranger who comes to the campus asks, "What's that thing on the roof for?" We can't say that it is the latest type of shower nozzle, or maybe a new contraption for watering the grass in the next "dry spell" (loudly as appearances might suggest such an explanation,) and so we have to admit that it is an attempt to eradicate some of the evils by placing them in the limelight. Maybe some visitor might be bold enough to express his thoughts in the words of a recent Hermes editorial, that it would be far more efficient to turn a hundred watt lamp on our souls. Now, what do YOU think?

Maybe someone has been disturbed in his studying-by uproarious outbursts of just plain racket. Can anything be done? What do YOU think?

Who is responsible for the fine hospitality of the ladies' dormitory. To anyone who knows her, a fine little compliment would be in order.

Or verbal appreciation might be forthcoming of the improved appearance of the halls in the administration building.

Maybe you don't like this sheet which you are reading, "the messenger of the gods." It has been viciously criticized as a "yellow sheet," vehemently condemned as dull, trivial, and wholly unjournalistic, and reviled because it allows itself to be governed by the influence of former or present authorities. Maybe they're right and maybe not. What do YOU think?

A wholesale invitation is extended to all to awaken from your intellectual and literary lethargy, build a fire under the balky mule of thought, turn your back on the bandwagon of the majority, who in a mimic-like way, follow the crowd, invent, consider and judge ways and means of improving this little place on the hill. And by the very act of commenting on these relatively unimportant matters, you will be developing in yourself and in others an interest in Dana that is so vital if aggressive action is to be taken to make the college a better place.

Don't be afraid of personal criticism. The non-aggressive will say, "If you don't like this place, why don't you go somewhere else." You just answer, "Yes, but Daddy spans his little boy, not because he hates him, but because he loves him very much and would like to make a better boy of him."

—E.A.T.S.

How About a Break, Boys?

There is a rule in the W.A.A. book which prevents the girls from earning points in gym sports if the men are occupying the building at the same time.

The interruption of the girls' practice periods by the boys has been quite common so far this season. How about letting us have the floor, unmolested, during our allotted time, boys?

DANAMANIA

Did you notice that it was "Marjoria" and "Rix" who had poems in the last issue? They must be romantic; it's very inspiring—

In spring a young man's fancy So the old laws go,
At Dana it's quite different
It's all year round, you know!
Those rings are ringing all the time

4 - 2 and 4 - 2 - 1,
Of course, the reason given is
We've such a lot of fun!

Lee and Bill gave Vee and Ruth a nice, cold evening, didn't they?.....In Methods class someone put in a vote for Patton Whaley—Siamese twins?.....

Quietly remarked the sage of Dana Hill: "Life is just one fool thing after another; love is just two fool things after each other.".....Well, the Trotters certainly gave the Danes the "run around".....

The man with the kitchen complex; tomatoes, carrots, and what have you, run into his color scheme; did you see the cook on the gym floor the other night with his red hair, orange sweat shirt and blue trunks?.....Clara Jo had a letter from her Daddy, and he said that he was shifting 50 head of cattle. Clara P. is now trying to find out how many cattle make a head—Awa, awa!.....

Some of the girls had contemplated attending the American Business College before they came here, put they permanently changed their minds when they saw the A.B.C. cage squad.....

Add cute couples: Pat and Ione, Ed Mann and Anita Nielsen, Ben Miller and Marjorie Smith, Jack Pedersen and Inga Nielsen.....

The other day Jesse was taken down a couple of notches. He was boasting what a hard-boiled egg he was. Then some nasty person up and said: "Jesse. I've never yet seen a hard-boiled egg that wasn't yellow inside.".....

Maxine is considering getting a pair of snowshoes to keep her feet warm.

Let's all get in on this. A box will be placed just inside the grill at the office window. If you have anything for this column, please deposit it there. Just making easy for you to cut your associates' throats in a nice, clean literary manner.

Science Speakers To Appear Here

On the strength of incomplete information we are able to announce the appearance of two prominent speakers who are scheduled to speak here some time after the holidays.

During the early part of January there is to be a talk by an expert in biology whose subject is entitled "Ants to Elephants." Later, a prominent archaeologist will be brought here under the auspices of the History Club. The next issue of the Hermes will carry full details on the speakers and subjects.

Blair All-Stars Trip C.C.C., 37-13

In a preliminary game to the Dana-American Business College cage battle, the Blair All-Stars, composed of Coach Olsen, Professor Lyndrup, Cook Merrill, and former Vikings Merton Jensen, Clarence Vig and Harold Hurd, defeated the local C.C.C. five by a count of 37-13.

At no time during the contest did the army boys threaten. Mert Jensen led the scoring for the All-Stars with 15 points, Coach Olsen was second with nine. For the Civilians, Combs led with five points. The C.C.C. squad included four Indian boys.

Vikings Nose Out York Panthers In Close Game, 35-32

In the first game abroad, the Dana basketeers tooted the horn of victory and brought home the bacon with 35-32 advantage over York College last Thursday night. Most of the squad saw action in one of the tightest games of the season thus far.

After the first eight minutes of play, the report stood in Dana's favor, 8-5, all the points scored from gift shots. The gap closed somewhat until the half score gave the Vikings a one-point lead only, 15-14. York turned the tables once in the second period with a two-point margin, but Dana soon regained control which they maintained until the final score, 35-32.

Dana's defense was as impenetrable as the federal mint; with the exception of a few follow-in shots, not a single close-in threat was allowed during the entire evening. Most of the York scoring was long range from the territory back of the free throw line.

Sport Chips

The editor was around and treated us to coffee and pie, so we return to you again this week with our comments.

Kermit P. believes in comfort. He wears socks, tennis shoes, trousers, and overcoat to bed. Latest reports tell that he has moved down to second floor. It's warmer there.

Bach and Johansen held a two-hour conference on the mezzanine at Brandeis, trying to figure out what they should give the girl friends. They were seen later at Woolworths.

Fries says he doesn't like the idea of Pat waving to his friend during the basketball game.

We noticed the "about face" you did at 9:45 last Wednesday morning, George.

Boe says Olaf Hansen eats like a bird, a peck at a time.

A certain young freshman coed was afraid the Vikings would get their new white suits dirty in the opening game; that is, if they brushed against the opponents.

Rhode was seen in the dining hall Thursday, December 3, at 10:00 p.m. Ask him about it.

Globe Trotters Defeat Vikings

The black whirlwinds from Harlem invaded the campus on December 3, and played 40 minutes of the most thrilling and fascinating basketball ever witnessed in "these here parts." The final score of 32-26 does not indicate the ease with which the dusky lads handled the Vikings.

A new feature of the Globe Trotter squad is a full-blooded Indian guard who, from his uncanny ability at getting the ball through the hoop, might well have been named Chief Make 'Em All.

Led by "Killer" and "Dan," the Harlemites scored at will, occasionally permitting the Danes to tighten up the score in order to make the game more interesting. In solos, duos, trios and five-man set-ups the Negroes juggled the ball around almost faster than the eye could follow.

During the second half the easterners reverted to football tactics. Attempted field goals, end runs and flying tackles were featured in the play.

Capacity crowd awaited the twice-tardy Trotters, but left the gym satisfied that they had had an evening of value in the way of entertainment.

Dana Opens Cage Season With Win Over A.B.C., 27-23

Before a crowd with record-breaking enthusiasm, a slickly uniformed squad of Vikings eeked out a victory over the American Business College of Omaha. The new orange and black suits of the Americans did not offset the Dana advantage, for the final score was 27-23.

Like an unleashed animal the game opened fast and furiously. Petersen sunk the first two fielders for the Danes, and Ketchum scored the first point for the Business men with a gift shot. The first-half score vacillated from one extreme to the other. The half ended to the advantage of the Omaha team, 12-8.

Dana resumed scoring in the second half with Bixler's free-throw, and two field goals, and Mann changed the score from 13-14 to 15-14 by adding another ringer. Dana maintained her lead for the remainder of the game. Both teams appeared to be over-eager both in their shooting and in their passing. This forced, tense play, possibly due to greenness of material and the early-ness of the season, at least made it an exciting game to watch.

Cage Sport Has Girls' Interest

At present the W.A.A. is giving the greatest part of its attention to basketball. As a result of practice thus far some of the girls are beginning to evidence remarkable ability in ball-handling. A free throw contest recently held resulted in a grand average of eight out of a possible 20 baskets. This average is good considering the fact that some of the highest scorers in the elimination rounds were not present for the finals.

Games played thus far have been fast and close, all of the four teams in the feminine league showing championship ability.

Concordia Falls Before Danes In Defensive Battle

Wreaking vengeance over their adversaries of last fall's homecoming football conflict, the Scarlet and White rolled out an easier victory over Concordia of Seward than the score might indicate. Dana maintained their lead of the earlier moments until the final whistle. The game, played at Seward last Friday, was the last of a two-game trip.

Many opportunities to shoot revealed Dana's lack of basket accuracy, but their defense was not to be criticized. As in previous games most of the opponent's hits were from long-range ground.

While it was a rough and tumble engagement, the good sportsmanship, which is always evident in the Dana-Concordia conflicts, made it a clean game. An enthusiastic Concordia band added to the high spirits of those present.
