

Alpha Sigma Phi Contest Entries Set New Record

SPEAKING CONTEST SPON-SORED BY SOCIETY

Two weeks ago the Alpha Sigma Phi somewhat timidly announced a prize speech contest. The society made bold enough, among the conditions of the contest, to request the entry of four speakers in each of the three divisions: oratorical, dramatic and humorous. Great was the surprise and jubilation when the entry deadline date, February 24, found 36 entrants signed up for the competition, 12 in each division.

Those who have signified their intention of speaking in the oratorical division are: Earl Fries, Inger Jensen, Tom Larsen, Sherwood Laustsen, Aster Neve, Howard Nielsen, Marvin Nygaard, James Olsen, George Pedersen, Martha Rasmussen, Edwin Svendsen and Ethan Svendsen.

Entered in the dramatic division are: Esther Carlsen, Elizabeth Christensen, Edward Hansen, Harold Hughes, Esther Jackson, Astrid Jensen, Leona Johansen, Vita Kildebeck, Agnes Nielsen, Tom Ninegar, Margaret Pascoe and Louise Thorslev.

New Building Is Question Subject

Question: In the event a building program should be authorized at Dana, what building do you believe should be erected first?

Answers:

Clarice Jensen: A library.

Henning Olsen: A science building. I do not mean to say that this should be a separate building.

Helen Olsen: We need a new administration building. I should like to see the Old Main stand, though.

Marie Mikkelsen: I think a large administration building should be erected. A college of this size does not need a large number of buildings.

Arthur Norgaard: I think we need a new administration building. The ideal location for such a building is where the present one stands. This would mean that the old structure would have to be torn down.

Marjorie Boyer: How about a new chapel and music conservatory combined?

Eric Christensen: What the college needs first is a new administration building.

Louise Thorslev: We need a new administration building. For sentimental reasons I should like to see Old Main stand. Why not add new wings to Old Main?

Agnes Nielsen: I should like to see a new chapel, with the organ removed from the gym and placed in it.

N. Y. A. Assists Many Students

Thirty-seven Dana College students would not be students if it were not for the National Youth Administration that is aiding them to get an education. The N.Y.A. contributes over $500 per month to the college income here.

Student workers each average 50 hours work a month, in total approximately 1,720 hours a year. The work falls into four classes: janitorial, clerical, interior decorating, and faculty assisting. Those students who are trained for any one of the groups are placed there if possible. However, the majority of those receiving aid are freshmen and have been assigned to janitorial duty.

Thus far in the school year the administration building has been redecorated and improved in many ways. Rooms have been repaired and walls have been painted. N. Y. A. is responsible for the girl's infirmary which has been recently erected. To Henning Olsen, Coach Olson and M. Goldbeck goes the credit for most of the work.

Although the assistance causes additional bookwork for office employees, work will be continued the rest of the year, and it is hoped more students will be able to benefit next year.

Fremont Pastor Speaks to League

Luther Leaguers listened, on February 24, to a fine message from the Rev. F. G. Rasmussen of Fremont on the advantages of being a Christian. He pointed out the advantages of spiritual life as contrasted to the obvious advantages of money and health. He defined a Christian as one who has been born again, who has received Jesus in his heart, who delights and meditates in the Word of God and who has taken up the cross to follow Christ. Such a Christian, Pastor Rasmussen declared, has the advantage of spiritual prosperity, a "light in the dark," a vision of the unseen and the best equipment for conquering the ills and problems of the world.

Vocal duets were given by Leona Johansen and Elizabeth Christensen, and by Mrs. Paul Nyholm and Rev. Rasmussen. Rev. Steensen, president of the Nebraska district, spoke briefly on the topic "Following Jesus." Rev. Ludvigsen took charge of the devotional portion of the meeting.

Both Candidates Withdraw; Body Fails To Elect

ISSUE STILL DEADLOCKED
AFTER THREE MEETINGS;
NO FURTHER PLANS

Following one of the snappiest political week ends in school history, the student body still finds itself without a president, and even without candidates for the office. Two ballots cast at a special election meeting Friday evening in the chapel failed to give either nominee the election. Immediately following the second ballot, Ethan Svendsen announced his withdrawal from the race, and Candidate Harold Qualsett took like action soon afterward.

The first ballot in the election for the presidency took place on February 12, at which time Qualsett gained a simple majority of 75 to 59. One week later another ballot found Mr. Qualsett still in the lead, this time by a 66 to 53 count.

Because neither candidate had been able to muster the two-thirds vote requisite for election, the student body met in their first sanctioned monthly, morning meeting on February 25, presumably to settle this issue. However, the members of the group

Hilltop Bits

Comes spring—with the usual sea of mud on the college road. Let's hope that the surfacing project is not too far in the offing.

A record number of Blair townspeople turned out for Mr. K. V. Hansen's lecture on February 18. This coupled with the fine crowd at Hr. Texiere's performance and the overflow audiences at the basketball games, seems to indicate a gratifying growth of interest in the college by our city neighbors.

Either many of our students are desperately short of cash or we have a large number of embryonic public speakers in our midst—one conclusion or the other must be drawn from the number of entries in the Alpha Sig oratorical contest.

Last Thursday marked the first of the monthly student body meetings. According to a recent decree from the administration the students are to be given the period immediately after chapel on the last Thursday in each month. This arrangement should banish the troubles which have long hampered the student body in finding a suitable time for its gatherings.

The School Board and Church Council meets here tomorrow to consider the matter of nominees for the presidency of the school.

The town boys' room has been repaired and re-opened following a lock-out which resulted from the actions of certain lads who didn't believe the rules.

Students Present Special Program

In commemoration of Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays, several members of the student body presented a special patriotic program in the chapel Monday morning, February 22.

After a short devotional service, Aster Neve introduced the various musicians and speakers who appeared in the special numbers. The music was furnished by Inga Nielsen who offered a violin solo accompanied by Ingrid Nielsen, and by the male quartet, composed of Edward Hansen, Earl Laursen, James Olsen and Jesse Smith.

Brief addresses on Washington and Lincoln were given by Inger Jensen and Stanley Larsen, respectively. The student body joined in singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Malmin Attends Hymnal Meeting

For the purpose of revising the "Hymnal for Church and Home" the committee detailed to that work met in Minneapolis, February 16-19. Professor G. J. Malmin is among those serving on that committee. Other members from our church are Rev. P. C. Paulsen, Rev. I. M. Andersen, Rev. F. C. M. Hansen, and Rev. C. Justesen. From the Danish Lutheran Church Rev. J. C. Aaberg, Dr. Dorf, Rev. H. Jorgensen and Rev. Moller are representatives.

The work of the committee at this meeting included the removal of about 150 songs from the "Hymnal." Most of these were Sunday School songs, no longer needed in view of the publication of the "Junior Hymnal" a few years ago. In addition about 200 new hymns were proposed for inclusion in the book, and several translations were revised.

A list of the hymns tentatively accepted will be mailed to all pastors of both synods, and a final meeting of the committee will be held in Minneapolis immediately following the conventions of the two church bodies.

Alpha Sigma Phi Holds Initiation

Last Monday, February 22, the Alpha Sigma Phi initiated four associate members into the society. Those admitted were Inger Jensen, Howard Nielsen, Clarence Paulsen, and Andrew Pechacek.

Preceding the initiation ceremonies, three members of the organization spoke briefly on the aims of the Alpha Sigma Phi as set forth in the symbols of its insignia. Eric Christensen spoke on "Truth;" David Simonsen on "Wisdom;" and Marvin Nygaard on "Eloquence."

Dr. C. X. Hansen completed the program with a short talk concerning the history and development of the Alpha Sigma Phi.

K. V. Hansen of Denmark Talks; Shows Pictures

LARGE AUDIENCE ENJOYS
COLORED MOVIES SHOWN
BY DANISH EDITOR

On Thursday evening, February 18, a large crowd of students and townspeople gathered in the Dana gymnasium to see the first pictures in color ever shown of Denmark. They were brought to us and shown, with an explanation of the various scenes, by Mr. K. V. Hansen of Denmark. Many of the members of the Dana choir that made the trip to Denmark a year ago last summer were present and sang some of their Danish songs in honor of Mr. Hansen, who had been their host in Denmark.

President C. X. Hansen introduced our guest, who then proceeded to tell us a little about Denmark, as well as his impressions of our choir's visit. Then the lights were turned out and the pictures began, two reels of the most beautiful films imaginable. There were pictures of the seas, of the cities, of the countryside, farms, and homes with red tile roofs, children, streets crowded with people on bicycles, monuments, churches, and public buildings, of storks and their nests, of flowers of the most beautiful colors, of heather and of sunsets, everything that goes to make the country, and all shown in their natural colors.

Love Of God Is Theme Studied

In a series of Bible meetings, extending from Wednesday, February 17, through Sunday, February 21, the Rev. Ethan Mengers of Denver, Colorado, presented an enlightening picture of the various phases of the love of God.

During the chapel periods on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and at an informal meeting in the chapel on Sunday afternoon, Pastor Mengers spoke on four phases of God's love: its holiness, its incomprehensibility, its suffering and its constraint. The methods and illustrations used by the speaker were exceptionally original and illuminating.

On Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evenings in the chapel the speaker dealt with subjects directly related to student life such as "Life" and "Courtship." He also spoke Sunday morning and evening in the local church.

In addition to the formal meetings Pastor Mengers was available during his stay here for personal conferences. On Friday evening following the regular meeting, he met with the residents of the men's dormitory in an informal discussion of problems connected with the subjects of love and courtship.

The general opinion of those who attended this series of meetings seems to be one of appreciation and acknowledgement of benefit.

LET'S APPRECIATE IT AND USE IT

For years the student body organization has had difficulty in taking a strong part in student affairs because of its inability to find sufficient and suitable time for its meetings.

This difficulty has now been erased through recent permission from the administration and the executive committee to devote one morning period a month to a meeting of that group. The benefits which are made possible to the student body through that decision should cause us to be deeply grateful.

But that one-hour period will accomplish nothing if we attend merely out of passive curiosity. There are tasks to be done, decisions to be made, ideas to be discussed. This can be an important development in student life here, but it cannot be that as long as we expect the student body president and a faithful few to do all the talking and planning.

SOLILOQUY IN INK

The wee hours of the morning were slowly creeping upon us. The radios had long since terrified us with the last screams of Lights Out, and all was silent in the dormitory, as silent as the night before Christmas. As yet no editorial had been written and nothing was in the brew.

Then, upsetting the peace of the night, came the voice of our aged, green Parker duofold in soliloquy. "Why, oh why doesn't he ever get down to work! He sits for hours stroking my back as if to induce me to write an editorial. I'll give him a piece of my rubber mind if he doesn't soon learn to concentrate. He says there is nothing to write about, but he lies!

"True enough, he has learned not to throw mud and he is not given to passing out roses. But there are hundreds of other subjects. He might consider what a recent Luther League speaker said about members of our church body praying for the students on the hill. Or he could discuss the benefits of studying the classics. He could point out some of the desirable influences which Dana-prepared teachers could effect. He might even discuss, pro and con, the student body constitution. Or he might dwell on the relationship between roommates. He could at least write a paragraph or so on the advisability of having a hobby.

"But, no, he rather seems to enjoy worrying over having nothing about which to write. He'd rather tear at his hair and chew his lips bloody than write something which nobody would read, such as—"

SUBSCRIBING TO LIFE versus LIVING

Numerous philosophies, codes, systems or what you will have been set up by the human race to aid in attaining the ideal life. The works of the poets of all ages and races, the unwritten moral laws, treaties between individuals and institutions, state legislation and the various religious systems either present or complement some other presentation of the ideal life. All of these and more are bequeathed to us and we subscribe to certain of them as we choose or as we are compelled.

But, because we apparently subscribe to some of these, that is no sign that we live accordingly. We agree with the poetry of others and even write our own but we do not live it. We know that to steal is opposed to all morals; yet, how we do steal from the time and health of our neighbors! And so we could go on through the list. We realize that it is expedient and we experience that it is difficult to really subscribe whole-heartedly to our own laws, treaties and suggestions.

We recognize our failure; and because we have the desire to do better and cannot, our failure becomes more oppressive. If we dwell on the subject long enough, we become crushed in spirit. And like the saints of the old covenant, we turn to God and beg His aid which He gives.

—G. A. P.

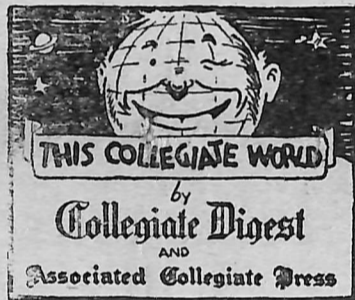

Talk of Current Literature Club

In lieu of the late Hesperian Literary Society it has been proposed that a club be organized for the discussion of current literature. Although the Nordic Reading Circle is doing a splendid and successful work in the field of Scandinavian literature, we have not organization which provides for the joint study of new books in the English language. Needless to say, such a venture, if taken up with purpose and interest, could be one of considerable profit to student and teacher alike.

It has been suggested that the programs of such a group be centered around the review and discussion of outstanding books, fiction and non-fiction, as they appear. The inclusion of socials and programs of a slightly varied nature could be left to the discretion of the members.

It has been further recommended that membership in such an organization be restricted to upperclassmen, with the proviso that freshmen might be admitted into the group through the recommendation of faculty members.

Beyond these suggestions there has been no action in this matter. The next move must come from those whose interest may have been stirred by this proposal. The columns of the Hermes will be open for further discussion concerning such an organization. What is your pleasure?

Flu can't even stop University of Minnesota students from wooing. Men in the isolation ward sent the girls across the hall ice cream cones in appreciative acknowledgement of a set of paper dolls.

Harvard, Yale and the University of Chicago have the largest endowment funds of any of the educational institutions of the country. Harvard's fund totals $131,099,000.

A quick-witted student in the bacteriology laboratory at the University of Minnesota found a swift solution for an unexpected fire. When another student's hair caught fire, he put out the flame by slamming a book on the fellow's head.

"WHATSOEVER HE SAITH UNTO YOU, DO IT." John 2:5

What a stir there must have been in the home of the bride-to-be as they prepared for the wedding. Invitations given, the house decorated, clothes made, food prepared and many other necessary duties performed that the day might long be remembered with joy. But in the hustle a mistake must have been made in the estimation of the wine needed, for now in the middle of the feast a most embarrassing moment had arisen. The supply had not been sufficient. Soon the guests would be waiting for "refills," and there would be no wine to offer them. The host would be mortified before the gathering and the family would become the reproach of the people for the poor hospitality.

But wait. Someone is going from the kitchen to the Teacher of Nazareth for He and His disciples are also among the guests at this occasion. It is the mother of Jesus. She knew her son could do something in this crisis; for He had solved so many difficult problems in their humble home, especially since the death of His step-father. He would surely do the same now, for He loved to help those in trouble.

"They have no wine," she says to Him under her breath.

"My hour is not yet come," is His reply.

The mother is confident that He will serve at this most trying moment and in this confidence speaks the words of our text to the servants: "whatsoever He saith unto you do it."

The faith of his mother was not misplaced. The servants filled waterpots at His command, and a miracle rewarded their obedience.

The words spoken by the mother of Jesus should mean much to every person who is interested in Christ. For it was she to whom the angel had pronounced: "Thou art highly favored, the Lord is with thee. . . . The Holy Spirit shall come upon thee, and the power of the Most High shall overshadow thee: therefore that which is begotten of thee shall be called the Son of God." From the day of His humble birth until the opening of His ministry she had watched Him at play, at work in the carpenter shop, and in the family circle. She had heard him speak words of wisdom, although simple, yet more profound than those of able teachers. Perhaps, we could consult no better witness than Mary, who had learned to trust so implicitly in the Christ of God, her son, that she could testify: "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it."

To many, the 'whatsoever' of which Mary spoke, seems too much to expect anyone to do. Such an inclusive term, they say, would infringe on their 'fun', life would be cramped and unhappy. However, observation, personal experience, and scripture proves that the happy person is he who lives a life conformed to the will of God.

Let us also observe that the disobedient of our day are the most unhappy. Study the faces of those who remain aloof from God's invitation to come and find rest. Ask them about their experiences, and learn the truth of the Word of God which reads: "The wicked are like the troubled sea; for it cannot rest, and its waters cast up dirt and mire. There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked."

Let us also realize that obedience to the will of God is the essential factor for salvation. No verbal acknowledgment, no religious performances can be substituted, for not every one saying Lord, Lord—shall enter the kingdom, but he that doeth the will of the Father. How dare we then be so inconsistent by singing of Christ while we harbor the sin that crucified him? How often do we not glibly repeat: "Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done;" when we still continue to trample and curse the Name, and maliciously revolt against the perfect will of God?

Is not the darkness upon our path, the lack of power and joy, the consequence of our disobedience? Let us admit the true nature of our case that the Doctor of our souls may treat the disease.

Lord Jesus, who in perfect obedience accepted the holy wrath of the Father, that we might live unto righteousness; forgive us for having minimized and slighted the gifts you offer. Give us an appreciation of the love that moved you to accept the curse of sin for us. "Here Lord, I give myself away; 'Tis all that I can do."

Prof. Lyndrup Is Youngest Teacher

To Professor Lyndrup, our physics and mathematics instructor, belongs the distinction of being the youngest member of the faculty.

Luther Lyndrup was born on a farm near Greenville, Michigan, in March, 1910. His childhood and youth were spent in that vicinity, where he attended rural school and the Greenville High School. He graduated from that institution in 1927 with the highest honors in his class.

In the fall of that year Mr. Lyndrup enrolled at Michigan State College, from which school he received his Bachelor of Science degree in 1931. He returned to the same college in September, 1931 and remained there until October, 1932, taking graduate work in preparation for his Master's degree. This was conferred upon him in 1933. While taking advanced work at Michigan State, Mr. Lyndrup was connected with the department of mathematics in the capacity of instructor for those who had deficient mathematical preparation.

Professor Lyndrup spent the school year of 1933-34 teaching public school in Montcalm County, Michigan. In the fall of 1934 he came to Dana College and has been with us since that time.

The great outdoors holds a great attraction for Mr. Lyndrup; most of his spare time and vacations are taken up with hunting, farming and the like.

When asked his views concerning the future of Dana, Mr. Lyndrup expressed the belief that more stress should be placed upon the further development of our various departments before we attempt to increase the enrollment.

were apparently unable to accustom themselves to their newly-granted privilege, for the bulk of the hour was consumed in quibbling over quorums, amendments, by-laws and other parliamentary knick-knacks while the main issue was relegated to an insufficient 10 minutes at the close of the period.

A group of five students, immediately after the adjournment of this meeting, petitioned Acting President Edward Hansen for a special meeting on Friday evening, February 26 for the express purpose of considering the election of a student body president. The first hour of this meeting, beginning at 7 p. m., was characterized by a continuation of the tactics of the previous gathering. Finally the matter of the election came to a ballot, and Ethan Svendsen gained a 46 to 40 lead in the first tally. It was then decided that the activity for the evening be limited to two ballots. On the second ballot Svendsen again led, 48 to 39. Then came the withdrawals of both candidates.

When the meeting adjourned at 8:30 p. m. another group of five students petitioned Acting President Hansen for an additional special meeting at 9:00 p. m. in the reception room of the men's dormitory. This was announced, and the group again came to order after some delay, during which time the necessary quorum of 83 members was being sought in all parts of the campus. At this meeting the resignations of both candidates were accepted, and a motion was made to install Edward Hansen as permanent president. This failed, however, when it was discovered that such action, according to the constitution, could not be carried out at a special meeting.

Thus, after an evening of strenuous vocal activity, the student body finds itself back in its position of a month ago, with respect to the election of a student body president. As we go to press no further announcement of plans has been made by the election committee.

WINTER SCENE

Bare trees leave shimmering shadows on the snow—
Snow melted by the glare of mid-day sun
That makes eaves drip and black, soaked roofs appear,
And all the world into one vast mass of gray—
Brown penciled outlines on the shining white.
Out there I know the air is stinging cold,
Yet here I sit all snug and fast and warm,
All cuddled in a corner with a book;
And so forget the bleakness of the world
In stories of adventure rare and old.

And Mr. Hansen told us the various things of interest about them while they were on the screen.

One certainly could not help feeling that one would like to visit such a country as soon as possible; and to one who had lived there or who had heard much about it before, it must have been a happy adventure to see the scenes with which he was familiar pass before his eyes. Our appreciation of the pictures was expressed by President Hansen, and we left with a new regard for the land of our fathers.

Prior to the program a banquet in honor of Mr. Hansen was held in the dining hall. Faculty, students and prominent townspeople were invited to this function.

Prominent Danes Lecturing in U.S.

At present there are several outstanding Danes lecturing in America. Among them are Niels Bohr, Nobel prize winner and professor at the University of Copenhagen; Professor Ohlin of the University of Copenhagen, who is now lecturing in economics at the University of California; Dr. Th. Madsen, director of the Serum Institute of Copenhagen and president of the Health Commission of the League of Nations; and Peter Freuchen, explorer of Greenland.

Added to this group will be Peter Manniche who has not arrived as yet. Mr. Manniche is president of the International People's College of Denmark. Whether any of these world-famous men will appear here has not been learned.

Questions That Occur To Us—

- 1. Is the senior class planning a play?
- 2. Has the "D" Club given up the ghost?
- 3. How large will the annual be?
- 4. What are the alumni doing?
- 5. Will there be a Varsity Nite this spring?
- 6. What has become of Dannebrog?
- 7. When do we get lights on the lower campus?

Vikings Nose Out Grand View, 31-29

On the short end of the score up to the tie point of 29-29 with only a few seconds left, the Vikings gallantly staged a final rush to cinch a victory over Grand View of Des Moines, 31-29, on February 20. The Vikings were the favored team but a lack of warmth in shooting contributed much to make a very even game. However, the Vikings displayed their true worth in the last second comeback.

Christensen lead the Grand View boys in scoring with 15 points. Patrick of Dana staged some of his finest offensive work of the season and took high point honors with seven fielders and two gift shots.

Dana Drops Game To Luther 45-36

Handicapped by a small and strange court, the Dana basketballers suffered revenge for their earlier victory at the hands of the Luther Vikings of Wahoo last Tuesday, 45-36. A capacity crowd of Luther fans was on hand to witness the Wahoo boys lead the Danians a merry chase in a defenseless battle.

The first period was comparatively close, ending at 20-21 against the Danians. Typical of Dana basketball engagements this year, the score was tied with only a few minutes left, during which short period the Swedish Vikings unerringly hit the hoop and the Danes did not. F. Larsen lead the offense for Luther with 18 points.

Patrick totaled one-third of the Dana tally with 12 points. The size of the score indicates that there was some lack of organized defense on both teams.

Nebr. 'B' Repeats Over Dana, 37-33

Forced to play superior basketball in order to retain their reputation of the first game, the Nebraska "B" cagers shaded Dana College 37-33, on February 17, at Lincoln. The skill and speed of the Danians was hardly enough to tip the balance against the ruggedness and dexterity of the Nebraska veterans.

The game was characterized by a vacillating score with eleven ties during the course of the game. Even scores occurred at these points: eight, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 24, 26, 28, 30. With three minutes left, Dana was ahead 33-30, but Elliot and Kovanda scored to end the game, 37-33.

This was the second game lost to Nebraska "B" this season. However the style of performance and the evenness of scores in both games rate the Vikings high among small college quintets.

Plan Volleyball Tournament Soon

Since time does not permit another round of intramural basketball, Coach Olsen has laid plans for a short volleyball tournament to conclude the season's schedule of college indoor sports. Potential participants were invited to turn in their teams names and players before the end of last week.

The list of entrants are not available at this writing, but full details will follow in the next issue.

Intramural Teams Gird For Finale

Closing an interesting and instructive season of intramural basketball, Captain Kloth's Bachelors and Captains Lyndrup's Oliver Plows, the two superior teams, will play for the college championship in a preliminary game to the Dana-Central game of tomorrow night. The Bachelors have been among the highest teams all season, but the Oliver Plows, by much hard work, have climbed from the middle of the list up to championship standing.

Each year throughout the season, Coach Olsen has arranged a plan of intramural basketball and the sport has always received enthusiastic support. This season's plan has been especially well endorsed—the plan whereby any aggregation of basketballers could make a bid for the championship. With the close of the basketball season we have only to wait a short time for spring weather and intramural kittenball.

Sport Chips

Celebrities of Nebraska sports were on the Dana campus last week to play Mert Jensen's Dana Alumni basketballers. Lloyd Cardwell, N.U. football star, and Harry Johnson, KFAB sports announcer, graced the gym with their presence.

Upon Coach Olsen's introduction of Cardwell to Lyndrup, that worthy professor inquired with feigned innocence, "Where's he from, Coach?"

Mickey showed Cardwell just how they shoot baskets in Minnesota. Cardwell, representing Nebraska style and shooting from the middle of the floor, missed the hoop by a yard. Mickey, from the same place, but using Minnesota tactics, struck a bull's eye.

Let's turn out 100% strong for the final basketball engagement of the season tomorrow night. Remember that preliminary intramural championship game, too.

Watch the next issue for a complete summary of the Dana basketball season.

The Dana Oldcats, Coaches Evans and Wiberg of Blair, Coach Kroger of Herman, Coach Olsen of Dana and last but not least, Professor Lyndrup of the college, effectively tamed the Dorm Wildcats last Monday night, 24-16. Disregarding slight improprieties of the last half of the game, when the coaches took the rules into their own hands, the game was strictly orthodox.

Uehling Cops 'C' Tourney Here

First place honors were taken by Uehling high school in the Class C high school basketball tournament of this district, which was concluded Friday night at the Dana College gym. They defeated Nebraska School for the Deaf by five points, 31-36. Craig which had taken a one-point defeat from Uehling in a previous bracket, won an easy third over Calhoun, 25-11. Bennington took consolation honors by tripping Kennard, 18-15.

The first evening results were: Herman 19, N.S.D. 17; Bennington 16, Uehling 29; Kennard 24, Craig 37. The second evening: Bennington 13, Herman 6; Uehling 24, Craig 27; N.S.D. 27, Calhoun 16.

The gym was packed each night by a large and enthusiastic crowds of high school fans.
