

Ensemble to Provide Music For Handel's 'Messiah'

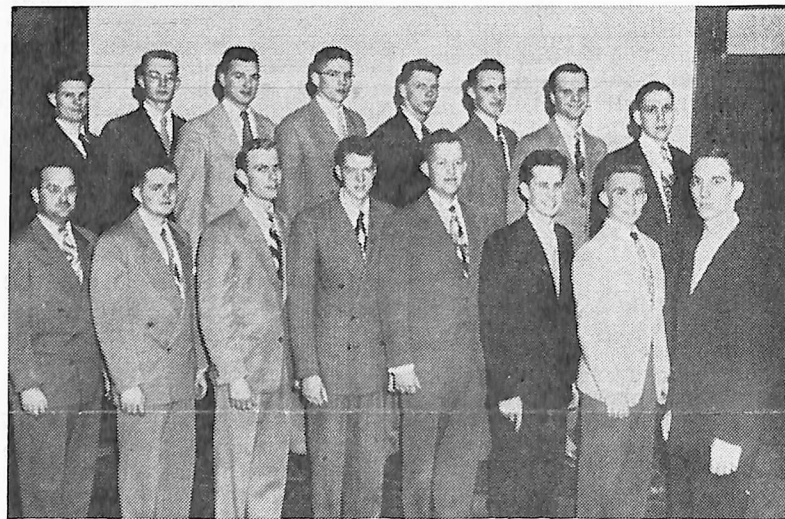

For the first time in many years Dana students will accompany the "Messiah" chorus and soloists in the Easter rendition of this great oratorio by George Frederick Handel. Prof. Paul E. Neve will direct the performance which will be given April 6 in the Dana auditorium at 8 p.m.

Members of the ensemble include Juri Taht, cello; Sylvia Siersbeck, viola; Paul Jersild, violin; Prof. C. Art Christiansen, violin; Ann Harms, clarinet; Bette Miller, oboe; Lois Petersen, flute; and Marilyn Steffensen, piano.

The string quartet composed of Juri Taht, Paul Jersild, Sylvia Siersbeck and Prof. C. Art Christiansen will perform the delicate and beautiful "Pastoral Symphony" from the oratorio.

Prof. Neve stressed that the use of student accompanist and soloists this year is a new step in providing opportunities for students "to tackle something big in the way of great music." He added further that in the past professional singers and accompanist from the Omaha Symphony have performed with the Dana "Messiah" chorus, but this year students have accepted the challenge to perform the work exclusive of outside professional talent.

The ensemble is presently engaged in rehearsal with the chorus and soloists.

The Men's Glee club and its director, Don Olsen, pose during rehearsal.

Glee Club Evolves To Concert Stage

Under the direction of Don Olsen, the Men's Glee club has been revived and is on its way to becoming a prominent musical organization on the campus. Dana has been without a male glee club since 1949 when Don Poh, student leader at that time, graduated.

Comprised of sixteen voices, the group is planning on a limited number of concerts this year with hopes of expanding their program next year. Thus far only two concerts besides the home concert in May are planned. They are at Blair high school and Valley high school.

First tenors in the chorus are John Lassen, Dale Christensen, Glen Christoffersen and Bent Damkar; second tenors: Paul Brostrom, Stan Petersen, Gerald Borglum, and Carl Pedersen; first basses: Pete Mathiasen, Arne Jensen, Dale Larsen and Jim Iversen; and second basses: Paul Jersild, Paul Jorgensen, Carl Nelson and P. V. Hansen.

Students Publish Memorial Booklet

Four Dana students passed from this life during this school year. In memory to them a booklet has been prepared under the chairmanship of Ann Harms.

Published by the student body the eight page booklet contains commentaries by fellow students who knew Jean States, Peggy Kinion, Hal Cole and Bonnie Dealy intimately.

Included in its pages are poems written by Hal Cole before his death and also one by Elva Jensen. A summary of the memorial service held in January as well as a devotional message by Rev. R. E. Morton and a message from Bill Hansen are printed in the booklet.

Those who contributed commentaries are Ruth Pedersen, Ann Harms, P. V. Hansen and Elva Jensen.

The booklet which will be published this week end will be distributed to all students and faculty members. Copies will also be mailed to the friends and families of the four students and to each congregation in the UELC synod.

Others who cooperated in the preparation were Dick Andersen, Al Svendsen, and Frank Jespersen who drew the cover design.

Council Members, Danian Editor to Be Elected

Ballots will be cast Tuesday to elect a religious director, social director, fine arts director, literary director, athletic director and Danian editor.

Three proposed amendments will also be voted on at that time. One amendment would combine the literary and fine arts under the title of fine arts director. Another amendment would create the office of vice president of the student body. The third amendment would add a publicity chairman to the homecoming committee.

Changes Announced In Dana Curriculum

Curriculum changes were announced this week in the departments of Christianity and science by the administration in an attempt to improve these departments and their course offerings.

The Christianity department has been completely reorganized in order to provide students with a better balance of Biblical, doctrinal and practical Christianity study with certain fundamental courses required.

Freshman students will now be required to take a one year course in Life and Literature of the New Testament. The first semester will deal with Christ's life and the last semester, "Acts" and the letters of the apostles.

Sophomores will have the choice of either History of the Christian Church or Survey of the Lutheran Church. Juniors will continue their Christianity studies in Life and Literature of the Old Testament or Christian Devotional Classics.

As a closing phase all seniors will take Christianity in the Modern World, a course intended to bring Christian living to a practical level.

Under this set-up students will then be required to take ten hours instead of eight of Christianity for (Continued on page 4)

History Club to Sponsor Film on Washington, D.C.

A movie, "Seeing Washington with Senator Butler," will be shown at the History club program Friday night at 8 p.m. in the women's lounge. Also on the program will be a number by the Men's Glee club, a trombone solo by Paul Jahnke, and a piano solo by Marian Andersen. Lunch will be served following the program. The entire student body is invited to attend.

If the second amendment is passed by the student body Tuesday, another election will be held later to elect a vice-president. If the literary and fine arts are abolished, a decision will be made later as to how the election will be held for the office of fine arts director.

Norman Freund, Dave Nuland and Peter Mathiasen are the candidates for religious director. The candidates for social director are Joyce Hayek, Mervin Nelson and Jocelyn Thomas. Frank Jespersen, Gerald Borglum and Kathy Nielsen are candidates for fine arts director. Fred Reinke and Marion Nielsen are the candidates for literary director. Neil Moore and Jack Allen are running for athletic director and Linwood Fredericksen is the only candidate for Danian editor.

Play Presentation For Lent Planned

Written for the furtherance of world peace, "The Terrible Meek" by Charles Rann Kennedy, is a revelation in dramatic form of the effect of the Crucifixion on a captain, a soldier and a peasant woman.

The Viking Players will present this one-act play during the Lenten season with Elva Jensen as the peasant, Phil Kaldahl as the captain and Frank Jespersen as the soldier. The setting of the play is a windswept hill in a time of darkness. Only the three voices are heard.

Kennedy wrote "The Terrible Meek" during the Passion week. It has become a classic Lenten and Advent offering in churches of all denominations.

Who Should Come to Dana?

The present emphasis on student recruitment with the idea that a larger enrollment would make possible additions to the physical plant and the general enlarging and strengthening of the institution gives rise to certain thoughts which I'd like to toss out for your consideration—perhaps thoughts which have been in the minds of a number of other students, too.

I believe that we should first of all ask the question, "Who should come to Dana?" This question presupposes that not just any student should come to Dana, and this is very true. Dana appeals to a certain type of students, namely, those who are in agreement with her philosophy of life and recognize her value as an educational institution emphasizing the Christian perspective? In an effort to get students, the college must not forget this fact, but rather should gear her whole program according to it.

Students who are not sympathetic toward her ideals should not be "dragged in" just for the purpose of enlarging the student body. The important thing is not so much the number of students, but rather the general spirit and quality of the students.

One might ask how the college could be selective in this respect.

I believe that basically the most important change would be the adoption of a forthright policy on the part of the public relations department, letting it be known that the college is first of all looking for those students whose character and convictions are in harmony with the institution. It would be a positive, not a negative approach. It would not be a process of exclusion, but rather an emphasis on the selected potential students deciding for themselves, in the light of our approach, whether they wish to attend or not.

In the final analysis, Dana college has two areas of obligation—her church and her community. These are the two sources to which she must turn in an effort

This Is Your Hermes

Every Thursday you reach into your dust-collecting mailbox and pull out your faithful Hermes. Very few, however, realize that there has been a great deal of preparation preceding this incident.

The chain of events leading up to the long awaited Thursday begins a week and a half before. On the Tuesday before the Thursday before the deadline Thursday, Sylvia Siersbeck, the news editor, and Bob Hemmingson, the editor-in-chief, meet and make assignments to the leg men. Now by leg men, we refer not to people who look like Daddy Longlegs, but the plain, half-way ordinary people—like Paul Jersild. Paul runs around on Tuesday and checks all the details concerning the tentative articles.

At the same time Gay Nygaard reports any hot leads in the way of seminary news. The leg men contact committees, organizations and the administration, following up the leads that have been relayed to them. After our singing leg man scurries all about, he enters the Hermes office with a mighty flourish and presents his pertinent facts on Wednesday morning.

Promptly at two-thirty that same day Sylvia and Bob confer and line up all the stories. Then when the clock strikes three, Jim Nielsen, the managing editor, appears on the scene which makes it a three-some—about all the Hermes office can hold. Beata Hauge, the feature editor, prepares herself at this time to pounce on unsuspecting writers for some witty little article.

The preparation has begun and now Jim assumes the role of a man of action. He makes a dummy copy to give a general lay-out of the next Hermes. Sylvia also springs into action by giving out the assignments to the reporters. The usual deadline for these assignments is Saturday noon. (Thanks, for letting me have until Monday noon.)

Traditional of Dana students the Hermes also dispenses with its work during the weekend, and at one o'clock on Monday Claire Ann Heise, staff typist, types up all the articles. At four o'clock Marion Nielsen and Bette Miller scrutinizingly look over Claire Ann's

Disappointments For One Success

"A thousand disappointments for one success." How often this situation has faced all of us as the youth of this fast moving atomic age. Every day in some task we undergo we are faced with at least one sheer disappointment; but in this end are we not also rewarded with at least one success? It may not be in the same feat in which we had the disappointment but in another just as important.

Youth today, too, must have an outlook like the men of old. Everything we do today is moving at least twice as fast as it did when Lincoln and others were striving toward their goal in life. Therefore, we cannot afford to sit back and say, "I cannot do this task; I have failed in another."

A real challenge to everyone of us is not to give up when some action goes wrong or "Get's fouled up." Don't let it go down in the books as a black mark. Make the most of all you do. Put a little more effort on those things which are a little harder in which to succeed.

Views on Compulsory Class Attendance

"... This rule of compulsory class attendance has been attacked in schools all over the country, but in most cases it remains adamant and immutable. But here at Wartburg the trend seems to be in an entirely opposite direction. Recently we were presented with a new set of rules governing class attendance.

"One of the clauses states that a student who misses a class without feasible excuse must pay $2 to the treasurer before the work can be made up. Another clause states that the credit a student receives for a course shall be reduced by one hour for each overcut, until he reaches zero credits...

"The first clause fringes on the ridiculous... the second clause... seems to lay all the stress on the student's bodily presence in the classroom.

"All this boils down to a primary question which is troubling most colleges today. That is, how much individual responsibility can be laid on the student during his quest for education?"

Coeds Are That Way

Fred Reinke

Now that the great election is over, we may turn our attention to other more pressing, and perhaps more interesting problems. For instance, I have noticed that a few of our coeds are beginning to look like fugitives from the University of Tampa, — Florida, that is. I'm referring to this sudden craze for baking one's skin to the color of a ripe berry. Have you ever seen a red shiny beet? Well, I saw one walking around the campus the other day with glasses perched on it.

Ernest Thoughts

Apologies are definitely due from the Hermes staff and editors for the numerous errors of fact which were found in last week's issue. Several should be noted: the choir will sing on May 4 at Atlantic and Exira, Iowa rather than April 4; the score in the intramural consolation should have been 40-34; and several dates and track records were wrong. No excuses are made for these errors which should not happen, and staff members were informed by the editor of the matter.

In the election held a week ago there were a number of ballots which were illegally marked and had to be thrown away. Although these ballots would have made no difference in the vote, they were still wasted time on the part of the voter. Be sure to mark before the name of each candidate for an office either 1, 2 or 3 in the order of your choice.

Next week Tuesday will be G-day if plans now underway are completed. This will be the day when student subscription solicitors will attempt to raise funds from students for the new gymnasium. If we want that new gym, money must be pledged by students to convince the convention that we really are 100 per cent behind it. B. H.

So I ask you of the east? west? south? north? Dorm, why do you punish yourselves and us with this torturing device of the Inquisition, namely the sun lamp? May I make a suggestion that would solve the problem and perhaps take the heat off the situation (Pun, Reg. U.S. Patent Office). Heave the thing off the Blair bridge and good riddance. And may we leave you with this parting thought, the sun will shine again some day, and when it does, the tan loving coed will put white powder on her face to counteract the effect of those awful sun rays.

Letters to Editor

Dear Editor:

As a recent graduate of Dana with many happy memories of college days still fresh in my mind, I would like to express my pleasure in reading the Hermes this year. The new size of the paper and improved layout speaks well of this year's issues. My congratulations! May all the activities of Dana college continue to show the improvement and quality workmanship that the Hermes has shown this year.

News Flashes..

The movie version of "Jane Eyre" starring Joan Fontaine and Orson Welles will be shown to-night under the auspices of the Literary club in PM chapel at 7 p.m.

Six new students have already enrolled at Dana for the 1952-53 school year. They are Dorine Scofield, Portland, Oregon; Dorothy Jensen, Westbrook, Maine; William Petersen, Jr., Westbrook, Maine; Derol Hafar, Cedar Falls, Iowa; Lee Weismann, Omaha, Nebr. and Ann Jessen, Washington Island, Wis.

Prof. Paul Neve will be a judge at a music contest to be held March 21 at Tarkio college. High school students are participating in the contest with Prof. Neve acting as the judge of instrumental numbers.

Neil Moore will appear on WOW-TV on the Jack Paine sportscast, Tuesday, March 25. The broadcast will be part of the promotion of the boxing show on March 27.

Club to Visit Lead Refinery

Lead refining and the techniques in metallurgy will be the subject of a tour by the Science club on March 21. The American Smelting and Refining company, Omaha, will be the host of the group and will conduct the tour through its plant.

Those planning to make the trip are: P. V. Hansen, Dale Christensen, Alice Schultz, Jerry Borglum, LeMoyné Nelsen, Bob Yager, Melius Bollesen, Carl Pedersen and Al Hansen.

Dr. Madsen Mourns Death of Parents

Last Saturday Dr. C. C. Madsen attended the funeral of his mother at Minneapolis. Tuesday he received word that his father had passed away also.

Students and faculty members expressed their sentiments alike to Dr. Madsen and his family at the loss of both parents in so short a space of time.

Dr. Madsen will attend his father's funeral Friday at Luck, Wis.

G-day Campaign to Raise Funds for Remodeling Gym

Tuesday, March 25 is set as G-day for the campus. G-day is the title given to this day since an all-out subscription campaign will be carried on among students to raise funds for the remodeling of the gymnasium-auditorium. Students contacted will be asked to pledge a sum of money to be paid over a four year period collectible each August.

Also being planned is an auction to be held early next week. Pres. R. E. Morton has consented to give the person making the highest pledge at the auction the right to throw a pie in his face. Also anyone wearing a tie to the auction will be asked to place it up for bidding.

Phil Kaldahl, chairman of the committee which is handling the project, stated that he hopes the money raised will provide an excellent beginning for the gym fund and a talking point at the UELC convention in June where the project must be approved.

Craig Nielsen is the other member of the committee.

Funds for Project Object of Party

Blue jeans and calico skirts will be the order Saturday night at the square dance sponsored by the girls' dorm. A band, led by Paul Jorgensen will provide music and Elmer Dixon of Blair will call.

The party, which has been planned by the girls' dorm council, will begin at 8 p.m. in the gym. Admission will be 30 cents per couple or 20 cents per person. A lunch will be served. The money will go toward the support of a girl in Colombia, South America.

Shop Crew Begins Work On Private Dining Room

Dining in a peaceful atmosphere will be a reality for special groups when the private dining room to be created is completed.

To be located in the southeast wing of the main dining hall the room will be used for meetings of the board of trustees, church council and other groups which desire to hold table discussions while they eat.

The room will be completely re-decorated with venetian blinds, "Modernfold" doors and new drapes.

Estes Park to Be LSA Ashram Site

Estes Park, Colo., will be the site of the 1952 National Ashram, announced Floyd Jorgensen, president of the local Lutheran Student association. Each year the National LSA holds an Ashram which consists of worship, Bible study, addresses, discussion, interest groups and recreation at some large summer camp. The theme will be "Summoned to Serve", and the dates of the camp are Aug. 30 to Sept. 5. Last year Paul Jersild and Lyle Kohler attended the National Ashram held at Interlochen, Mich.

The Lutheran World federation will meet at Hanover, Germany, this summer. Along with this conference there will be a Hanover Youth convention. Anyone who might be traveling to Europe may obtain information from Floyd Jorgensen about the convention.

to gain more students. In doing so she must emphasize the need of Christian character and convictions.

There is always the danger that she lowers her standards in an effort to get students, too easily assuming the position of a struggling institution "on her knees" in an effort to keep herself going. This kind of atmosphere engenders cynicism in the student's attitude toward the college. He demands satisfaction on all sorts of trivia which would be overlooked if he were one with the principles and aims of the college. There are improvements needed and goals yet to be attained, but it is a student body working hand in hand with the administration which will ultimately achieve them.

Insurance Firms To Hold Clinic

"Reckless Driver Smashes Into House; Has No Insurance." This is a typical headline in a daily newspaper. How sad is the plight of many drivers involved in accidents in today's age of speed demons. Sadder yet is the predicament which evolves when drivers do not have insurance coverage.

Automobile insurance will be the subject of discussion at a special insurance clinic to be held March 28 at 8 p.m. in PM chapel. Blair insurance firms will hold a round table discussion with students and faculty in order to provide them with a better understanding of what constitutes adequate insurance coverage. Provisions of various policies will also be examined and explained. Every driver or would-be-driver might benefit from the discussion.

hard work checking for errors. Phil Kaldahl, the advertising manager, slips his advertising in sometime between Monday and Tuesday.

Tuesday morning ten minutes after the first class has begun, a short trip is made to the Lutheran Publishing house. Here they do the type setting and make what is called galley proof. Later on the same day our little scrutinizers, Marion and Bette, proceed to examine the galley proofs.

Our future editor-in-chief, Jim, makes up the head lines. Bob, Sylvia and Jim lay out the entire paper—the beloved final copy. On Wednesday morning at eight the dummy and galley proofs make their merry way down to the LPH again. Your Hermes is then set up in its finished form, Jim and Bob check the page proofs on Thursday morning in their finished form. Thursday your Hermes is printed and picked up at four o'clock by two able gentlemen, namely, Dave Lindholm and Charles Kaldahl. They tuck each news-packed paper into the mailboxes while the editors give a sigh of relief and commence to plan the next Hermes.

This Hermes of yours isn't a money-making venture although A. Craig Nielsen handles the business angle very ably. New ideas are constantly being sought by little numbers like Marilyn Steffensen, who checks the school papers of other colleges for things that would suit Dana. Above all the entire staff wants you to understand that this is your Hermes which will print only the news you want. Drop in on them in the Hermes office; they are a friendly sort.

Chris' Comments

Of all the weeks in the year probably the hardest on the nation's sports scribes are the next few. Most of the winter sports have about wound up. Hockey is about the only one still in progress, most basketball tournaments are over, the news from spring baseball camps is not too much to write about and the outdoor track season has not yet begun.

Since there is not too much to report during this season, it always provides a good excuse to look ahead just a little bit and look over the sports scene. This summer will probably be one of the most exciting in years. The biggest single event will, of course, be the Olympic games to be held in Helsinki, Finland this summer. New records are expected to be set in both attendance, participation and competition. The United States is favored to repeat as team champions, but the other international competition is expected to be quite a bit keener than that in the '48 games when the U.S. amassed a total of 662 points over second place Sweden with 353. It's kind of interesting to note, at least to those of us of Danish heritage, that Denmark finished ninth in the last session of the Olympics out of a field of 40 nations.

Coming a little closer to home it looks like the Viking sports scene will brighten in the near future with the expected enrollment next year, a new gym a possibility and an active athletic organization on the campus. This new organization has been the cause of much controversy around the campus, and your writer expects to present some information in this column next week that will possibly show this organization in a new light.

Phi Epsilon Delta Obtains Clubhouse

Plans have been laid and work has started on the building back of the girls' dorm which is to be the Phi Epsilon Delta clubhouse.

Proceeds from the coming boxing show of March 27 are to be used for its remodeling. The club is actively anticipating its renovation, and all organized clubs on the campus will have the opportunity to use it.

Boxing Card Featuring Moore Planned by Club

Under the sponsorship of Phi Epsilon Delta a boxing show will be presented at the college gym Thursday, March 27. Heading the card will be Neil Moore, sophomore and the Midwest Golden Gloves light-heavyweight champion. Three preliminary events, one featuring Neil Hansen, will start the show of stars which is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p. m.

Baseball Outlook Hinged on Pitching

"If our pitching comes through, we should be the strongest team in the league," said Coach "Pete" last Monday when questioned about the season's outlook in baseball. With at least two deep in every position and plenty of reserves the diamond crew is ready to serve notice to all league nines that it is out to capture the pennant. The other nines that comprise the league are Creighton, Nebraska Wesleyan, Midland and Concordia.

Letterwinners from last year will brighten the squad's chances as it swings into action against Creighton April 9.

Busily preparing for the season's opener, Dana is fast rounding into shape and should be strong in the pitching and fielding departments. "We have always had a good fielding team," remarked Coach "Pete," "and if it holds up and our pitching doesn't falter, we should be very strong."

The hitting is yet a question mark, but with Leonard Jackson and Kenny L. Christensen it is brightened considerably.

Baseball Schedule

April 9	Dana at Creighton
April 15	Midland at Dana
April 21	Dana at Wesleyan
April 24	Concordia at Dana
April 28	Creighton at Dana
May 1	Dana at Midland
May 8	Wesleyan at Dana
May 12	Dana at Concordia
May 15	This date to be held open for the play of postponed games.

A star-studded list of Golden Gloves champions and amateur standouts from Offutt Air Force base and Sioux City will slug it out in what promises to be an evening of fast and furious battling. Following the prelim bouts will be the feature attraction of the evening—five main events of three rounds each.

Moore's opponent in the light-heavy class is Billy Winston, Iowa light-heavy weight champion. Early in February Neil slugged his way through the Lincoln tourney winning all three fights by knockouts. Advancing to the Omaha tourney he drew a tough Grand Island foe in his first round but came through with another knockout. The following night saw him taking the crown with a tremendous right to his opponents jaw. In the first round at Chicago Neil met with his superior and lost by a slim margin.

Fighting in one of the preliminary bouts Neil Hansen, a senior here at Dana, will take on a boxer from Offutt Air Force base. Both fighters will weigh around 135 pounds.

Tickets are now on sale with the prices set at $1.00 for general admission, $1.25 for reserved seats and $1.50 for ringside seats.

The rest of the card will find: Owens going against Al Noble, the heavy weight division; Bobby Midwest Golden Gloves champ in McKee, another Golden Gloves champion fighting Rios in the 160 pound class; Carl Romanel, Midwest Golden Gloves welterweight champ, against Burns.

Students to Begin Spring Intramurals

Now that the intramural basketball season is over, many people are wondering what the intramural sport activities will be. Mark Thomsen has announced that there will be a coeducational volley ball league, tournaments in tennis and golf and the possibility of softball.

Those men who are interested will be placed on the various teams in the near future.

The WAA has already made up teams for the volley ball league.
