

Discussions at History Club

Next meeting of the History club, highlighted by discussion groups, is scheduled for Sunday evening. The meeting begins at 7:30.

Scheduled on the program is a talk by Prof. Prichard on the subject of socialism, to be followed by a period of general discussion among the members of the club. Bill King and Bette Miller will provide the musical talent, vocally and on the piano respectively. Tentative plans are to be made for the club-sponsored Thanksgiving and Christmas activities. Included among these is responsibility for the chapel service the day prior to Thanksgiving. Henry Rosenthal has been selected to give a talk.

The choice of a play from a selection of several has been cut down to two, these being: "Christmas Destiny" by Dorothy C. Hillan, and "Dust of the Road" by Kenneth L. Goodman. This play will be presented as part of the club's annual Christmas program on December 13.

News Notes

The choir will give two concerts preparatory to their West Coast tour. The first will be in Orum, Nebraska, on November 15 at the Immanuel Lutheran Church, and the second will take place at Lincoln on November 22. The Lincoln concert will highlight the opening of the annual meeting of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation.

Dr. Morton to Racine

Dr. Morton was in Racine November 12 to take part in a Career Day program held in the Washington Park and Horlick high schools.

NCA Representative Here

Dr. E. R. McCartney, dean of Fort Hays State College, Hays, Kansas, will meet with the administration soon in regard to accreditation in the North Central Association. Dr. McCartney represents the NCA in the capacity of coordinator of study for self-improvement.

A.L. Gives Information

All young men interested in gaining information concerning the Army Reserve program are invited to attend a meeting that is scheduled by the Blair American Legion for the purpose of providing such information to all eligible young men. The meeting will be in the Legion hall at 8:00 p.m. on Nov. 16, 1953.

Blair Mutual Assoc. Presents "The Miser"

Moliere's three-act play, "The Miser," will be presented in the Dana College auditorium at 8:15 p.m. on Saturday, November 21, by the Players, Incorporated Company of professional actors.

These actors are former members of the famed Speech and Drama department of Catholic University, Washington, D. C. Included in the cast is Pat Barnett as Frosine, Harpagon's matchmaker; Joan Delehaunty as Elise, Harpagon's daughter; J. Robert Dietz as Harpagon, the Miser; Edward Garzero as Valere, Elise's lover; Bob Waters as Cleante, Harpagon's son; Gene Picciano as Master Simon, Harpagon's agent; Ed Torrance as the Magistrate; and Tom Hitchell as Anselme. All of these cast members are seasoned actors, some of which are in their third or more tour with The Players. Many of these actors have had parts in such plays as "Love's Labour's Lost", "The Heiress", "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "The Skin of Our Teeth."

Dr. V. L. Strempe Speaks in Chapel

Former professor of sociology, Dr. Vernon L. Strempe will be on the campus next Monday, when he will conduct morning chapel services. Chapel period will be extended to provide for the longer service.

Dr. Strempe was at Dana during the 1946-47 school year, after which he did graduate work at Boston University. After World War Two, he was connected with the National Lutheran Council in Germany, doing rehabilitation work.

At the present time Dr. Strempe is executive secretary of the Board of Education of the National Lutheran Council, with offices in Washington, D. C.

LSA Approves Local Mission

L.S.A. members voted $100 for a local chapter mission project for this year along with a pledge of $400 to L.S. Action, the National L.S.A., at their last business meeting. The group will also sponsor a Greek student in his schooling for one month.

Other business was the selection of Mary Jacobsen as a delegate to the Fall Conference which was held in Lincoln last weekend.

A Christian Service Seminar sponsored by the Seminary students was the program for the L.S.A. Wednesday night. The speaker was Rev. George Palleen, from Ringsted, Iowa.

Fine Arts Film Tonight

Tonight the Fine Arts club is sponsoring the presentation of the movie Magnificent Obsession in Pioneer Memorial chapel at 7:30 p.m. In the movie poll taken at the beginning of the semester there was an expressed desire to have this picture shown on the campus during the year.

This Universal-International film co-starring Robert Taylor and Irene Dunn is based on the novel, Magnificent Obsession which was written by Lloyd C. Douglas, the renowned author of The Robe.

In this drama the title refers to a magic pattern of living which builds up to a climax. This takes place when Taylor, who had been a wealthy, irresponsible playboy, undertakes to perform a critical and delicate operation in the effort to restore the sight of the woman he loves.

Members of the Fine Arts club, hoping for a large turnout, are charging thirty-five cents admission fee in order to cut the expenses involved in the rental of this film.

Danians Selected For Who's Who

The five Danians selected by the faculty committee on scholarship for this year's Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges are Ann Harms, Neil Moore, Margie Poh, Arvin Quist, and Edith Skobo.

Selections for the national honorary publication are made on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character and participation in school activities.

Each college or university in the nation is allowed a certain number of students to be given this honor, according to the size of the institution. Dana's total allotment this year is five.

New TV Parties Held in Dorms

Something new in the way of entertainment was held Saturday night, November 7. An all-school T.V. party was held in both dorms and in the gym.

Opportunities to watch television and enjoy good music were presented in the dorms. An ample supply of popcorn was available for all, and pop and apples could be purchased for a small fee.

The gym was set up for volleyball and basketball which a large number of students participated in. Table tennis was the feature in the basement.

The heat's on, kids! Guess I'll just have to simonize my watch with the regulator on the furnace, or whatever it is that runs the steam through the pipes and into our registers. Take the other night, for instance. Sure, sure, I'd turned off the thing—I'd made sure of that because my bed is side by side with it. And so we turned over and were peacefully dreaming of sugar plums when Pow! We drowsily awoke, skidded to the south window, threw it open, and tried to cool the joint off. There we were, sweating it out, while the radiator gave a very creditable imitation of Dante's Inferno.

Snake Pit

So then we thought we'd be smart and turn it on part way and open the window just a crack. Now it sounds like a good deal, you say, but the hissing that went on in our room that night could have easily reminded one of a snake pit. We couldn't possibly sleep, so one of us hobbled down from her bed in the corner to the knob that controls such sounds. It wouldn't have been quite so bad if that one ankle hadn't been rather large, lumpy, and distorted; and in her haste and upset-ness, forgetting her delicate condition and sad plight, fell kerplunk on the floor. It would have caused even more commotion had she not fallen on one of our large, luxurious Oriental rugs, which absorbed most of the dull, sickening thud.

Little America

That meant there was only one thing left to do—turn that old radiator off completely. Now, you old goat . . . at last, sleep; calm, peaceful sleep. Ha. See how I'm coughing. Yeah—that was the night the thermometer hit a low 10 degrees F. We shiveringly awakened at 4:45 and it was much too cold to sleep. We couldn't keep warm in bed, so up we hopped, slid to the closet, grabbed our storm coats and rushed to the kitchenette. There we all sat, huddled in one small, pathetic, and freezing group, books and papers in our hands, with the hair dryer blowing hot air into the very center of us all. At first I thought it kinda extraordinary that one of us didn't care for a bed, but when that some one started the mangle up and ran her frozen feet back and forth through it—well, the going got rough. Of course, to look at it optimistically, that's one way of thawing out the lower joints.

What shall we do to conquer this unpredictable Grendel? Your guess is as good as mine.

Helen Christiansen

The late Harry Dexter White was exhumed by the Republicans following their embarrassment at the polls Nov. 3 with the charge that he now has a 'protege' in the International Monetary Fund. White was accused by the FBI of smuggling secret documents to Russian spies during the war.

Republicans are adept at finding skeletons in Harry's closet, but seem to forget that the closet now belongs to them. Cloak and daggering is profitable during a campaign, but where are the promises? Pending concrete legislation to carry out pledges made on the platform, we forsee the Democratic mule returning to his pasture on the White House lawn in 1956.

Trieste a Headache

The outcome of the Trieste conflict can easily affect the number of allies we might have in a major European war. A disgruntled Italy could be very uncooperative in her troop commitments if forced to fight with Yugoslavia against Russia. On the other hand, Tito might return to the Kremlin fold in spite of his profitable courtship with the U. S. At any rate, the UN is going to wish that it had never heard of the city of Trieste.

Israel Sullen

Neither Israel nor the surrounding Arabian states are showing the UN any cooperation in solving the problem of their border clashes. The Israeli government is sullen and defiant in the face of a U.S. threat to cancel a 50 million dollar loan. Washington, take note. You can't buy friends with money.

A Thought For the Week ...

"Pray Without Ceasing," For This Is the Life

So many of us stop praying and become hard toward God because we have only a sentimental interest in prayer. It sounds good and right to say that we pray; we read that prayer is beneficial, that our minds are quieted and our souls uplifted when we pray. But God is amazed at such thoughts of prayer. Prayer should be a form of worship and should lead us into a more intimate relationship with our God.

Jesus wants us to be as intimately acquainted with God as He was; He said, "That they may be one even as we are one." We must forget self-consideration and self-reliance and maintain complete reliance on Him. We must be so related to God that His almighty power will come through us. If we are sufficiently right with God, He will manifest His wonderful life in us.

Our Contributions As Off-Campusers

What a job, making these 7:50's on time. We're beginning to think that the 7:50 classes are subversive; designed to frustrate the poor students—especially the off-campus who need a four wheeled vehicle, loosely termed a car, to get there on time.

Split-second Schedule

It all starts at 7:15—or 7:14, depending on whether you're planning to put on your coat while still in the warm comforts of the house, or while running through the icy air to the waiting car. At any rate, it begins with the shrill alarm. When you dash out of that soft comfortable haven, throw some bread in the toaster and begin looking for some clothes warm enough to preserve you through chapel.

Daily Dash

Twenty minutes later a honk is heard outside; you grab your books and tear forth, then rush to pick up the other passengers.

If the radio is blaring the Rosen-Novak commercial when you are passing West School, you breathe a sigh of relief—you'll be on time. But if you have only reached the Main Street business district when those familiar strains come over the radio—oh, woe!

It's rush, rush, rush. You pull up on the wrong side of the street, waiting for the last passenger. Along comes another car with a friend behind the wheel. Always friendly, you wave, smile and cover your face in mock fear of

by Tom

And so . . .

Another Dana football campaign has gone into the record book. It has been a successful one for the Vikings who have consistently outplayed their opponents although outweighed and outnumbered. Statistics show Dana's yardage and scoring to be more than twice that of her collective opponents. Yet the record shows 4 wins, 3 losses, and 1 tie, nothing to be ashamed of, but still one can't help thinking that the slate could have read 8 wins and no losses. The statistics indicate that Dana could have won more games. The win-loss record says they didn't. Why? Was it bad breaks? Mistakes? Penalties? Yes, without a doubt all of these things played an important part in the games that Dana didn't win.

For instance . . .

In the Buena Vista game the Vikes missed a possible touchdown when time ran out in the first half with the ball in Dana's possession on the Buena Vista one yard line. Two Viking half-backs were stopped early in the game by injuries. Another score was lost when a sensational 98 yard run was called back on a clipping penalty. Still another tally slipped through the Vikings' fingers, this time in the closing minutes of the game, when Dana failed to score from the 5-yard line and a second down situation.

All this seems to indicate that when Dana lost, they were beaten more by circumstance than by the prowess of the opposition. Excuses? Alibis? Yes, but not complaints. The team had a swell season and played some fine football. Congratulations and thanks, champs.

And now . . .

The basketball season has arrived on the sports horizon. With 5 lettermen, plus some good frosh prospects, Dana could very well improve on last season's 10 win—10 loss record. However, the Vikes will face plenty of rugged competition; games have been scheduled with the idea in mind that it is better to lose to a good team than to win from a weak team. In playing bigger and supposedly stronger schools there is everything to gain and nothing to lose. So let's go after everything, cagers.

Incidentally, Coach Peterson has indicated that there is still time and opportunity for boys with basketball ability to make the squad. To date, the number of boys out for the sport has been disappointingly small. However, if enough interest and talent are shown, a "B" squad will be formed "for the purpose of developing basic skills and to provide needed experience."

Anyway, this corner sees a winning season for the Dana dribblers. Don't let us down, Vikings.

Wolves Add Tourney Title To Season Championship

Intramural football came to an end Thursday, November 5, with the completion of the 4-team tournament. The final game saw the Wolves taking both the season and tourney titles with a 7-6 win over the Blackhawks. Both teams had season records of 5 wins and 2 losses. The Grippers and the Wiscalnebs, 3rd and 4th respectively in season standings, lost in the first round contests.

Extra Point Decides

A hard-fought affair, the championship game was characterized by good defensive play on the part of both teams. The Wolves, captained by Dick Jensen, scored first on a 15-yard end sweep by Jensen midway in the first period. The game-winning extra point came on a pass from Jensen to Al Jessen. The Blackhawks struck back late in the same stanza, also on an end run, with John Hansen carrying. The try for the extra point was unsuccessful. Members of the champion Wolves in addition to Jensen and Jessen were Willbur Wakefield, Larry Stone, Tom Langenfeld, and Bob Christian-sen.

Danes Stop QT's In WAA Clincher

In a hair-raising battle, the Dandy Danes defeated the QT's last Tuesday, October 29, to win the WAA softball championship.

Both teams had been defeated once by each other, and this game was the deciding contest.

The QT's, with Bonnie Jacob as captain, scored only once in the game, in the first inning. They held the Dandy Danes scoreless the first three innings, but in the fourth inning the Danes rallied for three runs, and added two

Five Lettermen Lead Red and White Cagers

With regular practice barely underway, Dana's basketball squad already shows signs of blossoming into one of the finest in recent years. Coach Paul Peterson is basing his hopes on five returning lettermen, Stan Cole, Marion Hudson, Vordyn Nelson, Jim Thomsen and Fritz Youra. Youra, all-conference choice last season, along with Nelson and Hudson should provide a lot of strength under the basket. Thomsen and Cole are both capable backcourt men and saw plenty of action last year.

Depth Wanted

In summing up the season's prospects, Coach Petersen said, "If we can find one more dependable backcourt man plus some all-around depth, I believe we will worry some of the teams that beat us by 15 or 20 points last season." Some of that depth may be provided by John Williams, Lee Weismann, Norm Madsen, and Jon Schulke, up from last year's "B" squad. Freshmen Charley Colburn, Larry Stone, and Bob Jensen have been impressive in practice sessions thus far. Others who may bear watching include Al Jessen, Art Andersen, Dick Hibler, Carl Morigensen, Larry Pedersen, Charles Gottsch, and Bill Bennett.

Scrimmages Scheduled

To provide game experience for the squad, pre-season scrimmages have been tentatively scheduled with Wayne State Teachers, Omaha U., and Creighton U., The Wayne Teachers practice game will probably be held in the Dana gym on Nov. 16.

Dana this year will face unusually tough competition. This schedule will be broken by nearly a month's layoff over Christmas vacation. Before this break, however, the Vikings will face some of their roughest opposition. On December 1st, the hill-toppers will face Nebraska Wesleyan, and in succeeding games will tackle such traditional troublemakers as Midland, Sterling, and Tarkio.

Lucky Strikes Now Hold 2nd.

"The Lucky Strikes" bowled their way to another victory last Friday evening, shutting out the league leading "Danes" in a three-game series.

In other action that night the "Four Jokers" lost two of three games. They bowled against "The Aces," the second Blair team in the "Tom and Jerry League."

"The Danes" had won all of their games bowled previous to Friday evening. Having won seven of twelve of their games, the "Lucky Strikes" are in second place position in the league.

High bowlers for the evening were John Klug, a substitute for the "Lucky Strikes" and Al Hansen, captain of the same team. John totaled 455 followed by Al with 450.

Buena Vista Tops Vikes

A penalty-plagued Dana team was defeated by Buena Vista 12 to 6 last Friday, Nov. 6th, at Storm Lake. Even with this loss the Vikings came through with a winning season. Their record of 4 wins, 3 losses, and 1 tie improved upon last year's 3 win—4 loss campaign.

Penalties Hurt

Even though Dana racked up 473 yards in the game, it wasn't enough to offset the tenacious Beaver defense when the latter team was backed inside their own 10-yard line. Penalties took their toll, nullifying several good Dana gains. Conspicuous among these set-backs was the clipping penalty which cost the Vikings Marion Hudson's spectacular 98 yard sprint.

The Beavers chewed their way to their first score in the initial period when end Roger Parrott grabbed a 4-yard pass from quarterback Alvin Moliter. Again in the 2nd stanza the Buena Vista crew drove within the Dana 10 yard line. The Vikes stiffened and held for 3 downs, but Arland Sivage slipped through from the 1-yard stripe on a 4th down plunge.

Farrens Scores

After several scoring opportunities were spoiled for the Vikings by numerous penalties, Lynn Farrens finally tallied on a 3 yard jaunt in the 3rd quarter.

Neil Moore closed out his college football career with another standout performance. Jack Allen, also playing his last game for Dana, was forced out of the game by a first half injury. Ted Lind turned in a fine performance at half-back, filling in for Allen. The Dana line was again led by stalwarts Russ Moseman, Vordyn Nelson, and Jim Heiser.

Danian editor Arvin Quist announces that pictures of freshmen taken during registration will be used in the 1954 Danian. Those who have not had their pictures taken or whose pictures did not turn out well will have them taken some time in the near future here on campus.

Last year's pictures of upper-classmen and seminarians will be used at a cost of twenty cents per person. If new pictures are desired, Rabbass Studios will take them as a cost of one dollar. Editor Quist announces that all seniors should have new pictures taken for the yearbook. All pictures must be taken before Dec. 1.

D Club Shows Series of Films

Last Thursday night the D club sponsored a series of sports films in the gymnasium.

Five films were shown in all, including "Ride 'Em Cowboy," a rodeo epic, "Basketball Highlights of 1952-53," "Winter Sports," one on wise use of leisure time, and the highlights of Nebraska University's 1952 football season.

The movies were shown in order to raise money for the club's new award system. A twenty-five cent admission was charged.

According to D club president Neil Moore, several of these sports films will be shown in the future.

dean of men at the University of Maryland to confiscate several thousand copies of the Diamondback, student newspaper.

When Dean Geary Eppley objected to a picture of basement living quarters for 24 women students, he decided to make off with the papers so nobody else could see it.

It wasn't the first censorship attempt at Maryland. According to Elin Lake, Diamondback editor, the administration tried earlier this year to keep the public from knowing that the dean of women received a summons for failing to stop for a school bus that was loading and unloading passengers.

When a reporter from the Baltimore Sun was sent to the Maryland campus to cover the University's censorship activities, he was arrested by a campus policeman and momentarily kept from phoning the story to his paper.

Public approval of a college. . .

The American Institute of Management, a non-profit foundation devoted to the study and improvement of management practices and policies, is preparing a management audit of Whitman College, Walla Walla, Washington.

The report, the first public document of its kind ever issued about any institution of higher learning, will be released in the near future. It will cover in detail all aspects of the college administration.

According to one eminent jurist, Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court, a trustee of the college, this unique undertaking will touch "one of the most important aspects of the American way of life." Commenting on the audit, then in progress, Justice Douglas recently said, "It will herald a hard-headed approach to one of our most pressing problems—how to keep academic freedom alive; how to keep him who pays the piper from calling the educational tune; how to make sacred the precincts of the college campus so that men's minds will always be free."
