Volume XLV

Blair, Nebraska, November 12, 1963

Board of Regents Meets On Campus

Re-elected as president of the Dana Board of Regents at their meeting November 4-5 was L. E. Thorngren of Omaha. Other officers are James Hansen of Cedar Falls, Iowa, vice-president; B. E. Krantz, Blair, secretary; and A. J. Snowbeck, Blair, treasurer.

Dr. Madsen presented to the Board a letter on the request for a student congregation at Dana. The Board recommended that the student committee and administration make a careful study and report at the spring meeting of the Board.

Future plans for the campus include the building of some new roadways around campus. There is a special committee in charge to have a survey made. Work will be done as soon as the plans are complete and funds available.

The Board of Regents announced no immediate plans for new buildings on campus.

Rev. Ingward Olsen, of Golgotha Lutheran Church in Chicago, presented his resignation to the Board. Rev. Olsen is retiring from his parish and the Board because of ill health.

To replace Rev. Ingward Olsen, Mr. J. P. Nielsen of Chicago was elected to the Board.

Approved by the Board of Regents was the action of placing for sale the building formerly housing the Blair branch of Augsburg Publishing Company.

Student-Faculty Senate Elected

Elections for Student-Faculty Senate members were held Monday, November 4. Students elected to the Senate were Lynn Barnes, a senior from Mineola, Iowa; Lowell Larson, a junior from Northfield, Minnesota; and Barry Tuttle, a senior from Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

Faculty members of the Senate are Miss Luella Nielsen, Mr. Gilbert Ragan and Mr. Arvin Hernes.

Student-Faculty Senate was organized last year under Student Council leadership to hold hearings on campus disciplinary problems. They have held two hearings, one last year and one this year.

Danish Gymnasts Coming to Dana

Twenty-five gymnasts from the Ollerup Academy of Physical Education of Fyn, Denmark, are now touring the United States under the auspices of the Danish Ministry of Education. The group is directed by Arne Mortenson and managed by Niels B. Madsen.

The tour, which began the first part of October and which will conclude shortly before Christmas, is for the sole purpose of performance. They want to represent their school and to interest people in Danish gymnastics.

This group will be at Dana College on November 25. Tickets will be available at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Bansen Speaks To History Club

"Portrait of a Lovely Land," a lecture on Danish Literature illustrated by colored slides from all parts of the Northern nation, will be presented by Professor Norman C. Bansen, chairman of the English department, at the November 20th meeting of the Dana College History Club.

Mr. Bansen has visited Denmark on four different occasions and has spent almost a year in that country. During the spring semester he will be Visiting Associate Professor of Scandinavian Literature at the University of California at Berkeley.

The presentation is open to the public and begins at 7:00 p.m. in Pioneer Memorial 207.

Dinner-Meet Held To Promote Dana

Thursday, November 14, a dinner-meeting of representatives of the Omaha-Council Bluffs area will be held in the cafeteria at 7:15 p.m.

Purpose of the meeting is to establish, under the leadership of college people and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miller of Omaha, a committee of Omaha and Council Bluffs people to promote a greater awareness of Dana College and enlist greater support from those metropolitan areas.

Dana Players Present Lee, Lawrence 'Inherit the Wind'

'And How Did All These People Go About Getting Begat?'

Brady moves uncomfortably in his seat, "What do you mean?" There is a little twitter of laughter that floats through the court house.*

"I mean," explains Drummond in a more intimate tone, as he leans toward Brady "I mean, did people 'begat' in those days about the same way they get themselves 'begat' today?!"

A murmur of shock and disdain runs through the court house. Davenport, the Circuit District Attorney, bristles in his chair, ready to object. This man is talking about sex!

So begins the court room scene, Drummond verses Brady or Bertram Cates verses the State. Drummond, the man who just a week before this trial was able to have two Chicago child-murderers acquitted. The Agnostic! The man who wants to defend a man who has polluted the minds of the children of Hillsboro! A slouching hulk of a man, whose head juts out like an animal's. A devil who is made to feel squeamish in his own little hell.

Brady, a mixture of emotions until he is in the court room. A man who has entertained Drummond in his home as a friend and fellow colleague. A famed orator. A God-fearing man. One who rushed to defend a crushed girl as she is struck to the ground by her own father's hand. A rock to the people of Hillsboro! A man who wishes almost death as a verdict for this mind-polluter and has a crowd behind him yelling, "Crucify!"

Two men battle, with a man's life forced in between. Which side defeats the other... is it Brady verses Drummond or is it the State verses Bertram Cates?!

Editor's Note: *taken from Inherit The Wind by Lawrence and Lee.

Theodore Lettvin Plays In Concert

"He holds a superior place among American pianists. He has musicianship, can be a blazing virtuoso when he wants to, and is in complete command of his instrument. In short, he is a pianist who has arrived." This is Theodore Lettvin, the dynamic American artist who will appear here on Monday, November 18, at Alumni Auditorium. The praise was heaped upon him by Harold C. Schonberg of The New York Times recently on the occasion of the New York recital which followed hard on the heels of Lettvin's third European tour.

During the course of this tour, Mr. Lettvin continued in the tradition of the American "musical ambassador," not only making new friends on scenes of previous triumphs in Western Europe, but forging behind the Iron Curtain

DRAMA COACH SAYS:

During a recent interview with Mr. Whitaker in regard to the coming play, these statements were made.

"The cast picked for this performance has responded terrifically to a completely new form of acting—The Method. In my view the technical crew has not only overcome a body of space, time and physical handicaps, but has so capitalized on them as to make Whillum - drawbacks creative aspects of the play. As for the cast, they have met head-on the difficult intellectual and emotional tasks of this relentless and gutsy production. They have stopped acting and started being."

Inherit The Wind will be given November 23 and 24.

Consideration For Others - Lacking

Consideration for others seems to be lacking in the manners used in the dining hall food line. Particularly in the matter of cutting in front of others.

I find it amazing how I can come to the dinner line early and have only five or six people ahead of me. By the time the doors are opened, there are any where from twenty-five to 40 people ahead of me in the line.

Noon hour can be bad for the blood pressure, especially if one has classes at both 11:30 and 1:00. Most of the half-hour is spent standing in line while people cut in at the silverware rack.

People six feet from the silverware rack may have one o'clock classes too.

Is all this line cutting really necessary?

As Experienced At Seminar: Music Ranks With Theology

The Third Annual Church Music Seminar in Minneapolis was undoubtedly one of the most exciting experiences I have ever had. Together with representatives from 32 other Lutheran senior colleges in the United States and Canada, I had an opportunity to study and sing some of the best church music of the late 18th and 19th centuries.

Much of Friday and Saturday was spent in choral workshops, in which the Selected Choir, under the direction of Weston Noble, Luther College (Decorah, Iowa), and Dr. Theodore Hoelty-Nickel, Valparaiso University (Valparaiso, Indiana), practiced such numbers as Mendelssohn's chorale "Cast Thy Burden," Gretchaninoff's "Credo," Homilius's "Our Father, Thou in Heaven" and the "Kyrie," "Gloria" and "Credo" from Schubert's MASS.

During the weekend we heard in concert the Concordia (St. Paul), Gustavus Adolphus and Wartburg College choirs, and we also listened to two lectures given by Dr. Donald Ferguson, Professor Emeritus of the History of Music at the University of Minnesota, on the topic "Classicism, Romanticism and Choral Music."

The entire weekend was a thrilling experience, but there are a few things that stand out in my mind. There was a real spirit of fellowship within the Selected Choir, for we came together, out of a common religious background, for a common purpose—to worship and study in song.

Professor Noble and Dr. Hoelty-Nickel, both extremely competent and delightful men, emphasized over and over again the importance of singing the text of a number. Only by understanding and sincerely singing the words can a person really make sacred music living and personally meaningful.

The highlight of the weekend came on Sunday afternoon, following the concert by the Wartburg College Choir, when the Selected Choir presented a short concert as the culmination of the seminar activities. The experience of singing stirring sacred music with some of the finest young voices on our continent in Central Lutheran Church, the largest ALC church in the country, was truly one I shall never forget. The brief concert became an individual worship service for each of us, and we came away from it and from the entire seminar feeling that, as Luther put it, music truly ranks next after theology.

A FRIEND

A friend is he who shudders not,
 When on life's weary way,
 No pleasant nook, no shady spot
 To drive life's grief away.

A friend is he who faithful still
 When life's dark path I tread,
 Some kind word will he have to fill
 My heart with joy instead.

A friend is he who'll fringe with d'light
 The way, that's full of thorns,
 With roses red and lilies white—
 The road that is forlorn.

I would now walk with such a friend
 In sunshine and in rain;
 I fain would walk till journey's end,
 Steadfast will he remain.

Editor's Column

In case no one noticed, there was an unfortunate error on the liberal arts assignment sheet recently distributed. It called Soren Kierkegaard's book "The Attack Against Christendom." The correct title is Attack Upon Christendom. The two words do have a slightly different connotation.

The "Ateneo Hispanico" wishes a retraction to be made. They will not be having a dinner-dance at Christmas time, only a dinner. Last week's item created a bit of a stir among the administration. Sorry that we gave the impression that they were planning something against college rules.

Tweton's Paper Is Study of Immigrants

Professor D. Jerome Tweton of Dana's history department attended a conference of the Western History Association in Salt Lake City, Utah. He presented a paper at the conference. This meeting of historians, anthropologists, archeologists, novelists and editors was held October 17, 18, and 19.

Mr. Tweton's paper on "Scandinavian Immigrants in the West" was a part of the program "They Also Came." In addition to Mr. Tweton's paper, this program included studies of Chinese and Italian immigrants.

In his paper, Mr. Tweton studied three typical Scandinavian immigrants to the American West: a Swedish student who became tired of Sweden and went to Wisconsin in 1840; a middle-aged Norwegian bachelor who, on a whim, immigrated to Texas in 1870; and a family-type Danish farmer who came to Nebraska in the 1880's.

These three people were compared and contrasted by several criteria. Professor Tweton studied 1) their reasons for leaving their homelands, 2) their initial experiences in America and reactions to American institutions, and 3) their final consequences. The Swede went back to Sweden; the Norwegian left Texas for a large city; the Dane remained on his American farm.

Of particular concern to Mr. Tweton was whether these immigrants became Americans. Professor Tweton concluded that they retained many of their Old World beliefs.

New Organization Elects Officers

A Sociology-Anthropology Club was recently organized on Dana's campus. All students interested in sociology and anthropology are eligible for membership.

Officers elected at the organizational meeting were as follows: Ron Thorngren, Omaha, Nebraska, president; Larry Mason, Rifle, Colorado, vice-president; Sandra Andersen, Racine, Wisconsin, secretary; and John Volkman, Kankakee, Illinois, treasurer. Faculty advisor for the group is Dr. Donald Lehmer.

Some of the social activities planned by the club are a "big-game dinner" on November 22 and an all-campus film.

Miss Nielsen Wants To Camp Out—At Walden Pond

A few years ago a slim, dark-haired lass came to Dana from her home town, Albert Lea, Minnesota. Before or after her came her six brothers and sisters. One became a minister, and is now Dana's campus pastor, John Nielsen. One of her sisters, Liz, was a princess in the 1963 Homecoming Court.

Luella K. Nielsen has her master's degree from the University of Minnesota and has done further graduate work at the Universities of Vermont and Wyoming. Pender, Nebraska was her first teaching job, then, on to Blair High School for a few years. After this Miss Nielsen joined the Dana faculty and is now in her sixth year here.

ites for leisure. One of her favorite authors is Josephine Tey, an English mystery writer.

At one time Miss Nielsen thought the greatest thing that could ever happen to her was to date a man who smoked a pipe... she changed her mind when she began dating one at the University of Wyoming. Now one of her ambitions is to camp out—at Walden Pond.

When asked about things she would like to see done at Dana, Miss Nielsen named only three of the many. She would like to see: (1) a chapel built, and to have chapel attendance go up, (2) more people attend programs and (3) freshman initiation mean something. "I would like to have it mean enough that the freshman would learn the school songs and other traditions. Also I would like to see them work at useful, not foolish things, such as cleaning up the campus."

Something that Miss Nielsen has always wanted (and could never get for herself) is to be brought a bouquet of flowers—violets. They are a quiet but strong flower. Don't you think they fit her nature?

E.S.P.

One of her favorite classes is American Literature. Could this be because she's been to almost every state in the union? During the summers she travels for fun, or goes to school, or visits "home." As for comments on which area of the United States she liked best, Miss Nielsen said, "Oh, I like New England, because of its literary background, but I like the friendliness of the midwest—and I love the mountains and the ocean," and after a slight pause, "The South has a special appeal to me, too. I like it all."

Although many of the records in her collection are classical, she also enjoys musical comedy. Ranked high among her hobbies is reading. Almost anything appeals to her, but, she confesses detective and mystery stories are her favorite.

Nebraska Wesleyan took to the air in defeating Dana by the score of 34 to 13 on Saturday, November 2.

Dana jumped to a quick lead by catching the Plainsmen off guard, enabling Bryce Olson to score on a three-yard plunge. The Plainsmen quickly came back with two consecutive touchdowns to pull ahead by the score of 13 to 7 ending the first half.

Wesleyan dominated the second half with the brilliant passing of quarterback Mike Slatinsky. He was the main threat throughout the game assisting in four out of their five touchdowns.

Although the score gave the impression of a one-sided game, the Vikings led with 17 first-downs compared to the Plainsmen's 16 and had a total of 167 yards rushing in contrast to Wesleyan's 175; however, Wesleyan gained 149 yards passing, while Dana gained 73 yards.

Rev. ROBERT H. HARPER
OLD THINGS

THERE ARE many things that not so many years ago were so familiar that were regarded as a matter of course that are gone or are going and I now find that I miss them exceedingly. Let me tell you of some of them.

JUST A THOUGHT:

The man best equipped to accept disappointment in some endeavor is the man who can truthfully say "I really did give it a good try."

As a small boy, I lived in the hills and the robins came in great numbers in the autumn and it was no uncommon thing to see a long line of wild geese crossing the winter sunset. There are not so many robins now and geese and I cannot recall when I saw a bluebird or a wren.

Then later I lived in a small city on a wide deep river on which great steamboats still came regularly. There is a bend in the river at the lower edge of the city and what a sight it was when the America rounded the bend and straightened out for the railway bridge and the wharf above. And how beautiful she was by night with her thousand lights reflected in the dark river! And I can vividly remember just before I fell asleep hearing the pounding of the hoofs of the splendid bays that drew the fire engine.

Still later I lived where great continental trains, drawn by steam locomotives, were nearly always in hearing. Now there is only one passenger train a day, from the Pacific Ocean to the Mississippi River. Well, I still have my memories, and if I want to go to New Orleans I shall get in my auto and beat the Diesel there, or if I want to go to the West Coast I shall board a jet airplane and roar there in an hour or so.

Sailor: "Kid me if you like, but I'll bet that ten minutes after we hit port I'll be walking down the street with a beautiful woman on each arm."

Marine: "G'wan! There never was a tattoo artist that could work that fast."

Specialties of the House

Boil small to medium-sized zucchini 7 minutes. Cut in halves, lengthwise and scoop out the centers. Fill with junior foods from jars like spaghetti and beef or macaroni, tomato beef and bacon, then bake in a shallow pan in a 350° F. oven.

To cooked chopped frozen spinach, add salt, pepper, onion juice and 3-ounces of cream cheese. Blend all together. It's easier than creaming spaghetti.

To beautify a tossed green salad, add sieved hard-cooked egg to the top in a falling mound.

Pork chops are delicious when browned on both sides and baked with a jar of strained plums and tapioca (baby food) which has been mixed with grated lemon peel, cinnamon and ground cloves.

Fish fillets baked with soured cream, dill weed and sliced lemon are a Scandinavian idea, well worth trying.
