

THE DANA MESSENGER

Volume XLV

Blair, Nebraska, May 12, 1964

Number 22

Staff Additions For 1964-65 Announced

Miss Donna Byriel has been added to the staff of Dana as director of women's physical education and coordinator of student activities. Miss Byriel, a 1960 Dana graduate, is completing her masters degree at Colorado State College.

A new member of the department of religion and Greek for the coming year will be Dr. Delman D. Hutton. Dr. Hutton completed his studies at the Harvard Divinity School. He is a graduate of Pacific Lutheran University and received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Wartburg Theological Seminary.

Mr. Roger F. Olson will be added to the mathematics department. Mr. Olson is a graduate of Gustavus Adolphus College with his master's from Kansas State University. He has done additional graduate work at the University of Minnesota, Iowa State University and the University of Washington. He comes to Dana from Tarkio College, Tarkio, Missouri.

Reverend Paul Johnsen of the religion department has received an extension of his leave from the mission field. He will remain at Dana next year and will assist Pastor Nielsen with the campus pastorate.

Dean Christiansen said that candidates are still being interviewed for professor of German.

Lehmer Field Party

The following Dana students will be included in the 1964 archaeological field party of the North Dakota State Historical Society: Janie Botos, Sue Hengeveld, Steve Hansen, Fran Jordan, Dave Kjeldgaard, Willy Knopp, Gary Miller and Phil Panum.

Conducting the project is Dr. Donald Lehmer of the Sociology-Anthropology department at Dana.

Grant To Jensen

Bob Jensen has received an assistantship from the University of Nebraska to do graduate work in economics. He will receive $1800 plus tuition. At Dana he majored in economics and mathematics.

Honors' Recipients Rise to Occasion

Awards and scholarships will be presented at the annual Senior Honor Convocation this Friday morning, May 15, at 10 a.m. in Alumni Memorial Auditorium.

Awards for contributions to Sower will be made as follows: The Kai Munk Memorial Award for translations, Ken Jacobsen, for his German translation of The Village Blacksmith; The Hal Cole Evans Award for the creative composition in the area of art or music, Judi Briggs, for her design of the cover of Sower.

Professor Joseph Langland of the English Department at the University of Massachusetts, presents awards in the fields of poetry and prose. Recipient of the first place award in prose is Pam Barber, for her contribution entitled Retribution. Second place winner is Richard Jorgensen's story—And the Rulers Take Counsel Together. First place in the field of poetry also went to Rich for the poem entitled Shiloh. Second place in the field of poetry went to Autumn Muses written by Wayne Morton.

Recognition of the editors of the school publications—Danian, Sower and Hermes will also be made at the convocation.

Winners of the various scholarships will also be announced at that time, including any for special abilities.

Counselors Chosen

Mickelsen Hall counselors for the 1964-65 school year will be Kristi Planck and Marjorie Stansberry, fourth floor; Mary Beyer and Carolyn Hansen, third floor; Christine Moosmann and Jean Behrendt, second floor.

South Hall counselors will be Janie Botos and Jeannine Frohling, fourth floor; Loretta Heckathorn and Judy Olsen, third floor.

Barbara Peterson and Karen Nielsen will be counselors in Unit C.

Association of Women Students officers for the coming year are Sue Hengeveld, president; Cheryl Donahoo, vice-president; Kay Lee, secretary; Kathy McKenna, treasurer.

A.W.S. Social chairman for the next year is Carol Leslie. Devotion chairman is Joan Hendricksen. Jackie Swendseid will serve as study chairman.

Larsen, Schauer, Speak At Senior Commencement

The Reverend Stanley Larsen will be the speaker at the Baccalaureate service to be held at 11 a.m. on May 24. He is the pastor of Pella Lutheran Church, Sidney, Montana.

District Judge Hilbert Schauer of Fort Morgan, Colorado, will speak at the Commencement exercises at 3 p.m. that afternoon in Borup Coliseum.

More than one hundred seniors are scheduled to receive diplomas at this year's graduation exercises.

The Reverend Larsen, Baccalaureate speaker, graduated from Dana in 1938 and from Trinity Seminary in 1941. He served parishes in Des Moines and Exira, Iowa, prior to serving the last seven years at Sidney, Montana.

Judge Schauer, Commencement speaker, is a member of the American Lutheran Church's Board of College Education and a councilor representing the ALC in the National Lutheran Council.

Royalty Crowned; Camelot Relived This Week In Chapel

Ruling over the May Festival activities this past weekend were Liz Nielsen as Queen and Lynn Barnes as King. Both are seniors. Liz is from Albert Lea, Minnesota, and Lynn is from Mineola, Iowa.

Opening the weekend's festivities on Friday evening was the banquet.

The Dana College Concert Band, under the direction of Dr. Wise, presented a concert preceding the coronation ceremonies.

Master of ceremonies for the coronation was Thern Kaldahl. The King and Queen were crowned by last year's May Fest royalty, Judy Swenson and Gary Lebeck. Miss Alexandria Whitaker presented the flowers to the Queen.

Following the coronation, the Dana Four presented a program. Members of this group are Janie Botos, Jim Jorgensen, Don Olsen and Rick Houston.

Last Issue

This is the last issue for the 1963-64 school year. I wish to thank everyone who worked on the staff or helped in any way throughout the year. All help was appreciated. The issues for the fall of 1964 will be under the editorship of Miss Jani Johnson.

Happy vacation to one and all!

Cellular Bio Class Postponed 'Til '65

Here is a footnote and a correction to the story you published on our recent NSF grant for science equipment. I would like to express appreciation to the Biology Department for their leadership in securing this grant and particularly to Mr. Stone for preparing the proposal.

The correction involves the reference to the new courses. The course in Biological Methods was introduced this year. The grant will further strengthen the laboratory aspects of this course as well as the other existing biology courses. The course in Cellular Biology will be developed during the ensuing year and will not be introduced earlier than the fall of 1965.

Verve; Variety; Vitality; "Because She Enjoys It"

"We do so many things in Denmark because we love them." This is the feeling the Danes have for their education, and which Gudrun has brought over to the girls physical education courses here at Dana. Since her arrival she has been both a part-time student and teacher, teaching the girls physical education classes and taking a few courses herself.

Actually being a math major, Gudrun participates in gymnastics, track, and swimming because she enjoys them. Back in Denmark she went to a gymnastics high school, and then taught it herself, along with folk dancing. Gudrun attended an advanced school for physical education in Copenhagen after having obtained her teaching license at the Esbjerg Teachers College. Why? Because she enjoyed it.

Two of her most exciting experiences resulted from this interest. She attended the Olympic Games at Finland in 1952, participating in a group of gymnasts asked to perform for the occasion. Not only was it a thrilling experience, but Gudrun also met girls from all over her native country who made up the group. Six years later, in 1958, she had the opportunity to see the World's Fair in Brussels.

Gudrun's interests are varied. She enjoys reading, traveling and visiting art museums, to name a few. Here at Dana she has been quite busy. Besides her regular physical education courses, she teaches gymnastics and swimming one night a week. At Christmas she was our Santa Lucia Bride, and in the fall of the year was on television with the Danish Folk Dancers.

Gudrun will tell you that she has very much enjoyed her year here at Dana. "At Dana, I found what I expected and much more. This college with a Danish heritage is a college full of opportunities to learn and a wonderfully exciting place to stay." Future plans possibly include traveling around the United States before leaving for Denmark this summer. One thing is certain, we have enjoyed having Gudrun with us this year as much as she has enjoyed being here.

Soc. Dept. Gorilla Is Really A Prince

"And they lived happily ever after!" or at least the children were brought to believe so when the Social Work class under the direction of Mr. Walter Baeumler presented a puppet show for the primary grades at West Grade School.

Bob Pratt, a truly ferocious gorilla, really a prince under the spell of the wicked old witch (Pam Barber) charmed the children with his problems in securing the magic broom. The princess (Kathy Olsen) was lovely and so dark that a little boy in the front row wanted to know if she was an Indian(? !).

The prince (Bob Price) was assisted in his efforts by the wizard (Marge Kathman) and the story was narrated by Betty Smith. A stage was built and the scenery provided by Tim Carlin.

The purpose of the puppeteering venture was an experiment in group work practices and the reactions of a child audience. (Betty Smith, who wrote the script, informs us that the prince only lived happily ever after until he had to file a joint income tax report . . . that's what has happened to fairy tales, Man, they've gone to government!)

Gaines Moving To Peru State

Delbert Gaines, Dana's maintenance supervisor, has accepted a position with the maintenance department of Peru State College, Peru, Nebraska.

He will begin work there this summer. He and his family will move when school is out.

Editor's Thoughts At Year's Close

We made it. At times it didn't look like we would but somehow we struggled through.

We had critics and comments by the dozen but what really helped were the Letters to the Editor (they filled up space). Toward the end of the year our critics became quieter, I'm not sure whether the paper improved or they just gave up.

Usually critics are unloved but now that the year is drawing to a close my attitude is mellowing toward them. What would we have done without them? They kept us on our toes. We couldn't give up with them around—they would say "I told you so." Bouquets to our critics! (They know who they are).

Now, I can relax.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR . . . Confrontation—Not Isolation Is Policy For Campus Church

I would like to share with you a few of my impressions concerning our first Student Congregation service.

This service offered me a worship experience which was particularly meaningful. Perhaps there are many reasons for this. First of all, I sensed that I was a part of a community of believers. This of course is not unique to this service. It did, however, impress me again with the fact that worship involves not only myself and God, but also my fellow believers. I sensed a bond with other students that was strong and alive.

Also, important to me was the knowledge that Student Congregation is our congregation. Its very existence testifies to student involvement and concern. Likewise, its future will depend to a large extent upon us. It is important for us as college students to find a setting of worship that meets our need to become involved in the work of God's kingdom. I look to this congregation to offer each of us such a chance.

I am convinced that we at Dana need this congregation, not because we want to be isolated from others in the community, but because we feel the attempt must be made to confront our students with the living Word of God. Perhaps this can better be done in the setting in which we as students find ourselves. At this point we can not help but be challenged to try it. Thus, for me, the important question is not the reactions of Blair's local congregations. I hope that they will recognize that we are genuinely seeking to improve the worship opportunities for Dana students. Perhaps letters could be sent to these pastors explaining our purpose and concerns. Beyond this, however, our first concern would seem to be to our college community.

Ostrich Egg or Beer Bottle Peaks Roof; Offers Status

Dear Dana,

We finished our first term of teaching at the Women's Training College, and decided to go out into the bush and teach as a vacation project. We chose the village of Monguno, 74 miles from Maiduguri and a three and one-half hour ride by Landrover over a sandy trail.

The village is fairly large but no one knows the population. Almost everyone lives in grass huts, which are really a piece of fine craftsmanship and last from 7 to 10 years. At the peak of the roof sits an ostrich egg or if they're not lucky enough to have an egg, an empty beer bottle turned upside down perched on top. They have a school, a dispensary, some district offices and a market.

Market day is Saturday and that is the only day of the week that school is closed. By 6 A.M. women are streaming into the village with huge loads of goods on their heads for selling. Some come 10 or 12 miles. Camel caravans and loaded donkeys come too in great numbers and by the middle of the day the Monguno parking lot looks like the Omaha Crossroads lot except that camels and donkeys are substituted for cars. Sieg and I always attract a good deal of attention in the market, and if we stop to buy 14c worth of peanuts we may attract a crowd of 25. The people are friendly as well as curious and shake their fists at us. We smile and shake a fist at them. (Fist shaking is a friendly greeting here.)

The senior primary school is a 7 year school with about 275 students, three times as many boys as girls. On Sunday the last period of the day is reserved for clothes washing. Monday morning is inspection morning and everyone must have had a bath and be wearing his clean clothes. That morning is a comical sight. There is a water outlet right across the road and you see children get under it for their bath, then run for school, soaking wet and putting on their clothes as they go.

The children begin learning English in year 1 and by the 4th year all of their classes are supposed to be in English. They also learn Arabic so that they can read their Koran. (It is an entirely Moslem community.) We worked with the teachers. One time we'd teach and they'd watch, the next time they'd teach and we'd watch. Some of the teachers have only gone to secondary school and have had no teacher training. Even if they want to do a good job, they don't know how.

In the late afternoon there are games of soccer, volleyball, and basketball for the boys. Soccer is their main sport and they can really handle that ball with their feet. Athletic Sieg joined the team one day but couldn't seem to send the ball off in the right direction.

One Friday evening the school put on a drama—a series of 6-8 plays done in the Kanuri language for the town men. (Respectable men leave their wives at home where they belong.) They have no memorized scripts, but simply dramatize folk tales in their own words and are fine little actors.

A week after we arrived we had a field trip to Lake Chad. The teachers on horseback and 75 children on foot trudged 12 miles to a small fishing village near the lake and arrived after four hours, tired, thirsty and sunburned (the latter applies to Sieg and me.) Sieg and I were given a private compound in the village, complete with grass hut, a pot of water and mats to sit on. The village head sent us a bowl of rice and some local fruit in the afternoon and in the evening a nice big fresh fish and a pan for fryng it.

After a rest in our hut we started for the lake, walking probably half a mile until we came to water. "I think you'll have to take off your shoes" we were told. We looked at one another, rejected our Peace Corps medical advice and took off our shoes. We waded 100 yards through reeds and came to a carved out log boat, filled almost to overflowing with kids. We climbed in and were poled out on the lake where we watched the local fishermen throwing out their nets. The students took the stems of water lilies, put one end in the water and sipped lake water through the "straws" as we rode. When we got near the shore they jumped out and had a great time splashing in the water. We watched children's drama and dancing by the girls and women, spent the night in our grass compound and returned early the next morning.

On a Saturday morning we called on the district head in his 70 Pound grass hut (average sized ones cost 10 Pounds) and as a gesture of kindness he gave us police protection. We usually slept outside because it's considerably cooler, but that night a terrific sandstorm came up, forcing us inside. We had shaken the sand out of the bedding, dusted ourselves off and had gone to sleep when suddenly there was a light shining in our faces. Our policeman had arrived. We should have felt I suppose that we had a guardian angel 10 feet from our feet but somehow we felt like carefully guarded prisoners and were glad it was to be only one night protection. That was what we thought. Five nights later he came again and was back the two following nights, so we ended up with four nights of protection.

The Saturday before we left we both had camel rides. Once you're up in the air it's a rather pleasant jogging ride, but the trick is getting up and down. Sieg wanted no assistance, but I was glad to have as many hands holding me as possible.

After three and a half weeks we returned to Maiduguri. It seems good to be able to sit at a table again when we eat and to have cold water to drink, but we're happy that we were able to have our "bush" experience.

You'll be finishing school about the time we begin our second term and we hope you have a good vacation.

Sincerely,

Sieg and Brenda Krueger

P. S. By the way, they do send mail both ways!

(Editor's Note: The February 4 issue of Hermes carried a letter from the Kruegers, former Danians, currently serving the Peace Corps in Nigeria. Their address is Women's Training College, Maiduguri, Nigeria.)

Who's putting you through school?

If you're "working your way", it's tough — not enough hours in the day. If someone else is footing the bills, they cared enough to start saving a long time ago. And now is the perfect time for you to start saving — for your own retirement, or to provide a college education for the children you will have some day. Rates for your Lutheran Mutual insurance are lower now than they will ever be again for you. Every insurance dollar buys more security and provides more savings. ## True True!

They find fault with the editor,
The stuff he prints is rot,
The paper is about as peppy
As a cemetery lot;
The paper shows poor management
The jokes it prints are stale,
The upperclassmen holler
The lowerclassmen wail;
But when the paper's printed
And the issue is on file,
If someone doesn't get one
You can hear him yell a mile.

Beck Sets Record At Concordia Meet

Tuesday, May 5, found the Viking trackmen at Concordia. Although they were undermanned and hampered by strong winds, they did quite well. Ron Beck, Knight Wynn and Gary Hiemke were all double-event winners. The only really outstanding performance in the meet was Beck's shot put of 47' 4", which is a new school record.

The results for Dana were as follows:

Shot put — (1) Ron Beck, 47' 4"; (3) Ron Petrick, 39' 5".

Mile — (3) Carl Magnusson, 5:36.2.

High Jump — (tie for first) Knight Wynn and Les Haussler, 5' 10".

440 — (1) Gary Hiemke, :54.7.

Broad Jump — (1) Knight Wynn, 20' 11¼"; (2) Owen Vasby, 20' 8".

100 — (2) Wynn, :10.3; (3) Vasby, :10.5.

120 yd. High Hurdles — (2) Wynn, :16.2; (3) Dennis Barker, :17.0.

880 — (1) Hiemke, 2:10.6.

Javelin — (2) Ron Beck, 162' 2½".

220 — (2) Vasby, :24.7.

Discus — (1) Beck, 138' 6".

330 Intermediate Hurdles — (2) Barker, :45.8.

Mile Relay — (2) Hiemke, Mike Sink, Magnusson, Jim McLaren.

On Friday, May 8, part of the Dana trackmen went to the Doane Relays at Crete. On May 15, the conference meet will be held at Concordia.

What Is Happiness

Happiness is not finding a long line when you go to meals.

Happiness is having friends.

Happiness is having a clean room on inspection day.

Happiness is being able to fit all the needed courses into four years.

Happiness is passing a test.

Happiness is being able to sleep late.

Happiness is money from home.

Happiness is finishing your term papers.

Happiness is not getting yelled at.

(Editor's Note: Happiness is the end of a newspaper.)

(We thank cartoonist Charles Schultz, the "Happiness is . . ." man. We made up our own.)
