Tuition Hike And New Housing Requirements Announced

350 Turn Out For All-Campus Meeting

The election of Student Body Executive Officers (President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer) will be held on Friday, April 6. Nominations for these positions will be reopened beginning today and will last until March 29. Candidates are to submit a nomination sheet accompanied by a petition of endorsement consisting of fifty signatures. The nominations are to be submitted to Box 105 in the campus mail. The nomination sheets will be available at the information desk in the Campus Center.

It should be noted that the election was originally scheduled for today. In a special meeting of the Student Senate held March 5 it was moved and passed that the date of the election be moved back to allow further time for nominations.

100% Increase In Support Of Phone-O-Rama

The second annual Dana Phone-O-Rama, conducted by alumni volunteers during the latter part of February, has given the College budget an extra boost by producing a total of $15,580.00 in cash and pledges for the current operating budget.

According to Paul Strand, Assistant Director of Development at Dana and organizer of the Phone-O-Rama project, the $15,580.00 figure represents an increase of more than 100% over the 1972 Phone-O-Rama. And, all of the gifts and pledges are not yet in. Many of the alumni who were called were not able to make commitments on the spot and, based on last years results, the Development Office anticipates receiving an additional significant amount from those alums who said "maybe" or "we'll have to talk it over."

The volunteers who worked on

Last year the elections were held during April but at that time a constitutional amendment changed the date of future elections to March. This date arrived sooner than most student representatives realized. Although the stipulations of due process were adhered to concerning this year's election, it was felt by the Senate that the spirit of free and well-debated election which is implied by the Constitution is more important than the letter of the Constitution.

The decision to postpone the executive officers' election will have no immediate effect on the election of Student Senators or any other student government offices although these elections will also have to be changed as a result of Easter Vacation.

the Phone-O-Rama project placed a total of 2,134 telephone calls to alumni in all parts of the United States. 1624 alumni were actually reached and, of those, 586 responded with immediate gifts or pledges. A total of 510 persons on the call-lists did not answer and are being asked to support the program through a series of personal letters. It is also interesting to note that 286 of the alumni responding to the 1973 Phone-O-Rama have never given to the College before.

Dana President Earl Mezoff and Alumni Association President Bud Robinson issued a sincere and enthusiastic thank you to everyone who participated in the Phone-O-Rama including volunteer callers, student assistants and especially the alumni who responded so generously.

Dana Students Exhibit Talent

The Photo exhibit in Par-nassus next week will show the production of fifteen students in four weeks. These students were members of Dr. Larrie Stone's 1973 Interim class on photography.

Most students had no previous experience in the dark room or with thirty-five millimeter cameras. However, students worked in taking, developing, and enlarging photographs

Dr. Brandes To Present Recital

Dr. Brandes will be featured in a faculty recital on Monday evening, March 19, beginning at 8 p.m. in A.M.A.

Dr. Brandes has selected the following compositions for the March 19th program:

"Impromptu in G-flat Major," Op. 90 by Franz Schubert.

"Two Sonatas" by Domenico Scarlatti

"Sonata in C Major," Op. 53 by Ludwig van Beethoven

"Alborada del gracioso" by Maurice Ravel

"Sonata in F Minor," Op. 5 by during the four week period.

The display shown next week will contain various subject matter. It will be set up Saturday. Photographs will show use of different techniques, variety of toners, and varying types of photographic paper.

Selected photos were previously shown in the library. This exhibit will show the complete works, March 12 through 16.

Johannes Brahms

"Three Preludes" by George Gershwin

Dr. Brandes has performed with the St. Louis Symphony, the Little St. Louis Symphony, the Fargo-Moorhead Symphony and the San Francisco based 6th Army Band. He will also accompany the Band in tour in early March and will appear with them as soloist in the "Warsaw Concerto" and Grieg's "Piano Concerto in A Minor." Recently he was featured in an individual recital at the Joslyn Lecture Hall in Omaha.

President Earl Mezoff addressed 350 people in an open meeting with students and faculty last Wednesday morning, addressed himself to a number of issues and changes which will affect life on the campus for the 1973-74 academic year.

He opened the meeting with several comments concerning the recent examination the College has gone through by our three major accrediting agencies--the North Central Association, the Nebraska State Department of Public Instruction and the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. He pointed out that it is unusual for a college to be examined within the same year by three major accrediting bodies. It is equally unusual for those three examining teams to come up with similar reports especially when they use such terms as "excellent", "Positive" and "strong" in describing the physical plant, faculty, staff and student body. Such was the case with the recent examinations we have undergone.

The President continued by saying "If such reports of a positive nature are voiced by people outside the institution, surely those of us closest to it should also take a more positive attitude. He also pointed out that while the examiners had many positive things to report, we do have problems and weaknesses which must be corrected. With strengthened faith in the institution we can correct those problems.

He continued his report by pointing out what is happening on the campuses of other colleges--public and private--in Nebraska and throughout the country. Recent declines in enrollment and rising operating expenses have forced many institutions to make major cutbacks in size of faculty and staff, student services, library acquisitions, custodial and food services. And, although Dana has experienced the enrollment squeeze and higher operating expenses, we have not had to make similar cutbacks and we have no plans to do so in the future.

He also spent time comparing costs to the student between Dana and the other private colleges in Nebraska and other colleges of The American Lutheran Church. He pointed out that in 1972-73, Dana was second lowest in tuition charges among the private colleges in Nebraska and lowest on charges for room, board and fees. Compared to the other colleges of The American Lutheran Church, Dana was second lowest in all charges in these categories.

In addressing himself to plans for 1973-74 President Mezoff

Student Costs: 1973-74

Tuition	$1550	(increase of $200)
General Fee	$220	(remains the same)
Room	$300	(same)
Board	$525	(same)
Total	$2595	(exclusive of student body dues, $40)

made the following announcements:

---For 1973-74 there will be no increase in the general fee and no increase in charges for room and board. There will, however, be a $200 increase in tuition bringing the total cost for the 1973-74 academic year to $2,595.00 (Exclusive of the student-levied fee of $40.00 for student government activities.)

---Beginning next fall, the College will no longer furnish linens to dormitory and campus housing residents. The linen service costs the College approximately $10,000 annually with an additional estimated loss of $2,500 due to loss and theft. By discontinuing this service, a significant saving can be made.

---Also beginning next fall, all students (with the exception of married students and those living at home) will be required to live in campus housing.

---There are currently 44 full time and 10 part time members of the teaching faculty and plans for 1973-74 call for 42 full time and 9 part time members of the faculty. Contrary to numerous rumors, no major cutbacks in teaching faculty and/or programs are planned for next year.

---Beginning in September, two dormitories will be staffed with adult head residents and the rest will be staffed with student head residents. This change is being initiated on an experimental basis and, depending on the way in which students respond to the change, it may or may not be continued.

---Although income will be down next year, the College has made no plans to decrease the amount of money being spent on student financial aid. The figure of $172,000 which is being spent in 1972-73 will be continued at the same level for 1973-74.

The President concluded the session by answering a number of questions from the floor.

When asked his impression of the session, Dr. Mezoff expressed that he considered it a "good meeting", and he appreciated the large turnout. He also indicated that he was very pleased with the interest shown by all and the willingness of people to talk and share ideas and questions with him.

Theatre Corner

It's For Big Kids, Too

by Candy Wilde

The plot thickens... Two kid-nappers kidnap a kid, when to their despair, the two kidnapers discover that the kid has kidnaped them. Whew! DANA COLLEGE THEATRE group present: ta da! "The Ransom of Red Chief," a children's play, directed by Mark Morgenstern.

This play will be presented to school children from Blair and the surrounding area on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 13 and 14. In addition to the veteran performers, theatre goers will now be introduced to some recently converted theatre freaks. Among these are Nancy Comfort, Stan Lassegard, and John Brooks.

I talked with the Student Director, Connee Gibson, and she displayed animated excitement and enthusiasm for the upcoming performances. Those of you who were at Dana last spring, may remember Connee as one of the frightening(?) Uglies in last year's children's play. Connee laughs:

"Being an ugly was much more fun than being Student Director. There was so much more clowning around, and I'm a natural clown."

When asked about the duties of a Student Director, she switched to a serious note.

"Everything...take notes, gather props, paint flats...And there is one big problem, I have." She says with twinkling eyes.

"I can't seem to leave the center by six. It's just too much fun playing around."

Yes, that's the Connee Gibson we know.

The morale is high in the cast of "The Ransom of Red Chief" and this can be partially attributed to the cast addition of four Blair sixth graders. These kids keep everyone hopping.

So, all you Dana students, Spring is coming, and if you are still young at heart, don't miss the Kiddie Play, March 13.

This is an extension of two hours from the previous 10:00 p.m. sign-off.

Ombudsman

Dear Ombudsman,
Is it true that our school population has tripled in the last ten years or are they talking about the tuition.

Disrespectfully,
Cassandra

Dear Cassandra,
I believe they were talking about tuition which, according to the only information I was able to get ahold of at this time, (a 64-65 Catalog) was $300 per semester.

Therefor, in nine years, tuition will have doubled and then some.

Signed,
Ombudsman

Dear Ombudsman,
What happened to the night lights in the parking lot? I can't seem to find my car. The parking lot is not that well lighted anyway and it is very creepy walking out to the parking lot by yourself at night.

Signed,
Scared of the Dark

Dear Scared of the Dark,
The light switches for the parking lot east of Borup are in the dirt area of Borup Coliseum.

Vandals have been shutting these switches off. Maintenance has been trying to prevent this and has so far produced good results.

Signed,
Ombudsman

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

Dear editors:

I was very pleased to read Kaj Neve's letter to "Miss Hot and Horny" regarding the benefits to be gained from co-ed housing, for I feel that such a living arrangement, if established at Dana, would be of inestimable value. While it may not be the ideal living arrangement for all students, it is nevertheless an extremely valid housing option that should be made available to our students who reside on campus.

Contrary to what is often popular opinion, the development of college students is not limited to the academic arena. In fact, the campus environment is of paramount importance in the emotional, moral, psychological, and intellectual growth of the student. The attitudes, the surroundings, the extra-curricular activities, the manners and morals of a campus can either encourage or discourage academic strivings. In other words, students can only pursue an optimum level of achievement if all else supports it.

Research on coeducational housing indicates that, almost without exception, a coeducational housing program produces happier, more intellectually stimulated, better adjusted men and women than does a non-coeducational program. Viewed in this light, coeducational housing can be seen as an educational tool - a means for encouraging students to reach a higher level of learning. Furthermore, as Kaj pointed out, it can result in healthier and more informal male-female relationships.

The University of the Pacific, in Stockton, Calif., has had some coeducational housing for over twenty years, and has experienced such success that it has extended this type of living experience to any student who prefers it. U.O.P. recently put out an article reviewing the benefits gained from their coed housing, and I would like to quote extensively from it.

...by placing more emphasis on acquaintances and shared activities, coeducational housing avoids "over idealization" of the opposite sex and a good deal of the "mutual teasing and destructive behavior" characteristic of campus dating.

Other interesting results indicate that, in general, coed hall residents have greater affinity for, and more interaction within, their living units. There is more "spirit" among members of the unit, manifesting itself in programs and activities, and a greater enjoyment of the resident hall itself. Surveys have indicated that residents of the coed units are happier, mingle more with faculty members, watch television less, eat more often in mixed groups, and enjoy more social events and programs. The intellectual atmosphere found in a coed unit is higher than that found in either a traditional male or female residence hall.

It seems to me that if the purpose of Dana's rules, regulations, and procedures is truly to aid in student development rather than to, for example, appease the public, we would do well to establish coed units here. I feel that it would bring out the best in our men and women. I, for one, support wholeheartedly the establishment of such an option at Dana; and I invite other students to air their opinions of coed dorms in the Hermes.

Rachael Neve

Letter to the Editor:

Dear Editor:

In the last two Hermes there has been quite a discussion carried on about the male-female relationships. I found it all extremely interesting, however I feel that another side to the argument was left out.

So far nothing has been said about the students who have found their compassion. Now don't get young love is certainly wonderful, but I find the public display of it on the part of some couples to be very disgusting. It's almost come to the point where you can't go anywhere without seeing a couple having a touchy-touchy relationship. I would hope that these couples in the future would at least look at themselves and come to the realization that all this touchy touchiness really isn't necessary.

Lloyd Neve

Letter to the Editor:

It occurs to me that we have a communication problem on this campus. The other day I looked at the bulletin board in the Center and -lo and behold- was informed of who is running for student body offices. This was fine. The problem is that we were not informed first that it is nearing election time. Nominations for something as important as student body officers should be publicized before the fact - not after.

Ideally, we should have had posted or published information about how one goes about running for office around here. Some students may have a general idea, but that is not good enough. All the students should be informed clearly, even if they don't want to run.

I think - but it's only hearsay - that it is not too late to take out a petition (wherever you get one of those) and run for office. The way it looks now, the ballots won't be very crowded. Why not give them a little healthy competition?

I really don't think that situations like this can be blamed entirely on the Hermes staff. When there is something going on around here that you think is of relevance to some or all of your fellow students, send it to the Hermes. I for one will be glad to read it.

Sincerely,
Tricia Thennes

HOT SPOT

by Theresa Walsh

When does human life begin?

The most distinguished scientific meeting of the last decade that considered this question in depth was the First International Conference on Abortion, held in Washington D.C., in October 1967. It brought together authorities from around the world in the fields of medicine, law, ethics, and the social sciences. They met together in a "think tank" for several days. The first major question considered by the medical group was, "When does human life begin?"

The medical group was composed of biochemists, professors of obstetrics and gynecology, geneticists, etc., and was represented proportionally as to academic discipline, race, and religion. Their almost unanimous conclusion was:

"The majority of our group could find no point in time between the union of sperm and egg, or at least the blastocyst stage, and the birth of the infant at which point we could say that this was not a human life."

They continued:
"The changes occurring between implantation, a six-weeks embryo, a six months fetus, a one-week old child, or a mature adult are merely stages of development and maturation."

There has not been, before nor since, a more important or more qualified body of natural scientists who, as a group, have thoroughly discussed and come to a conclusion on this subject.

(Wilk Handbook on Abortion)
What was the basis for their scientific conclusion?

Modern science in the last decade has brought us a spectrum of knowledge about fertilization and early development that we have only guessed at previously in history. We now know that the sperm contributes 50% and that the egg contributes 50% of the new life. The sperm contains the genetics code of the father, and has no life or continuing function beyond the sole goal of its existence, that is, fertilization. The ovum contains the genetic code of the mother and is unquestionably part of her body. It has no other function than to be fertilized, and if it is not, it will die.

When, however, at fertilization, the 23 chromosomes from the sperm join 23 chromosomes from the ovum, a new being is created. Never before in the history of the world nor every again will a being identical to this one exist. This is a unique being, containing within itself a genetics package, completely programmed for and actively, moving toward adult human existence. It has, by any standard, a life of its own and in no way is part of the mother or the father. We call it a fertilized ovum and soon thereafter a zygote. Nothing will be added to this being between the moment of fertilization and its ultimate death as an old man except time, nutrition, and oxygen. It is all there in toto at the moment, merely not fully developed.

(Wilkes, Handbook on Abortion)
But how can it be human at that point? Doesn't it become human later?

Would we say that an adult has come from an infant? No, we would say that an adult once was an infant, but has since grown, matured, and developed into an adult. Everything the adult is was once contained in the infant, yet not fully developed.

In the same way, we do not say that the infant has come from the fetus or the embryo or the zygote or the fertilized ovum. Rather, we should say that the infant once was a fertilized ovum, or a zygote. He now merely is a more mature, larger, and more developed person than what he was, in entirety, at the moment of conception.

(Wilkes, Handbook on Abortion)

But the embryo is just a simple fish-like creature.

"The body of the unborn baby is more complex than ours. Before he is born, the baby has several extra parts to his body, which he needs only so long as he lives inside his mother. He has his own space capsule, the amniotic sac. He has his own lifeline, the umbilical cord, and he has his own root system, the placenta. These all belong to the baby himself, not to this mother. They are all developed from his original cell." (The Secret World of a Baby, Day & Liley, 1968, Random House)

When does the unborn baby's heart begin to beat?

The heartbeat begins between the eighteenth to twenty-fifth day.

(James M. Tanner, Gordon Rat-trey Taylor, and the Editors of Time-Life Books, GROWTH, New York, Life, Science Library, 1965, p. 64).

Doesn't a mother have a right to her own body?

This is not her body but the body of another human person. Since when have we given to a mother the right to kill her children - born or unborn?

(Life or Death)

To be continued next week.

IMPRESSIONS ON A NEWSPAPER

by John Brooks

In the beginning Bro created this column. 2 My column was without form and void, and blankness was upon the page of the paper; and the spirit of Bro was moving over the page of the paper.

3 And Bro said, "Giz, take over this column", and Giz took it over. 4 And Bro saw the column was good.

26. Then Bro said, "Let us make the column in our image, after our likeness; and let it have dominion over the people of Dana, over the faculty of the same, and over the administration. And Bro saw that it was good. And on the printing day Bro finished his work which he had done, and he rested on the seventh day and let Giz go on with the work he had started. This was his big mistake.

Wake up gang! This isn't Christianity class. A few people have asked how I came to be writing this column so I thought I'd let you in on it. Honestly, it really happened that way.

This week I have a surprise for you. I have found out who that mysterious j.a.s. is, so I can print his work.

Looking forward

Well I'm still depressed - I can't get motivated to do my best. It's going to take a huge effort for me to succeed. I know this very well - so why don't I heed. Yet it's hard for one to excel - When one feels like he's living in hell. Yet I know what I must do - and I must do it well. Then why in the world am I pessimistic as hell.

j.a.s.

I think we all feel like that at one time or another, usually the night before the deadline for my column. Thanks j.a.s. your poem is no B.S.

Maeane Johnstone also gave me some of her work but it's a bit long. I'm going to save it so I can devote an entire column to it. It's very good.

The next poem was written by Darlene Lile. You know, the girl who likes to turn in Ducks.

Moods

A boy alone cries to the sky.
In its pain the clouds cry tears.
A girl alone laughs to the sky.
In its happiness the sun beams gleem.

A guy alone reaches out to fields.
In its sympathy they send a gentle breeze.

A girl alone pleads to the emptiness.
In its caring along comes a particle of love.

Thank-you Darlene.

Now, you should get up and write something for me. Mary won't give me any of her work. She said the column has no class. I guess she didn't read about the classy contest I'm running. Remember, the deadline for entries is next Monday, so you get busy 'cause so far I only have one entry. See Mary, this column does have class, so, bite the wall.

Til next week: Bottom's Up.

Basketball 1972-1973

A somewhat surprising Viking win over Doane in the last game of the season, ushered out a rather unsuccessful Dana basketball campaign for 72-73 with the Vikes posting a final season record of 7 wins and 16 losses, this including their 2-8 conference mark.

The Vikings started out strong by capturing the number two spot in the pre-season N.I.A.C. December tourney with wins over Concordia and Doane, and saw the remainder of their 23 game schedule spoiled at times by close losses and given new life at other times by fine play.

Danas only two conference victories were against Concordia in early February and Doane, the last game of the season and perhaps one of the best games the Vikes have played in a long time.

The Dana squad over-all displayed considerably more cohesiveness than last season, partially due to improved play on the part of senior Terry Miner, and the matured efforts of sophomore Jim Huseman.

The Vikes only evident problems this season were possibly the periods of lax offensive play during some contests, combined with the much needed and seldom seen 'killer instinct' and a relatively low free throw percentage.

Dana was seldom outrebounded this season, and Gary Bott, who retired as Danas second leading career rebounder, was evidence to that fact as he snatched 206 ricochets on the year was third on the scoring list with 214 points. Terry Miner, senior starting forward, finished his career at Dana with 379 points and 193 rebounds on the year, good enough for a number two spot among scorers, and retired as the second leading scorer in Viking history. Bryan Traylor, Danas perennial scoring leader, led all scorers this year with 445 points, and with a good effort next year should easily capture the school scoring record. Jim Huseman, sophomore center-forward, placed fourth on the scoring list with 136 points and should be tough next season in a starting spot. Junior guard Steve Woitock should be starting frequently next year, as he had a fine year scoring an even 100 points in just 14 games. Team statistics follow: TOTAL POINTS - 1650; TOTAL REBOUNDS - 1032; FIELD GOALS - 677 out of 1520; FREE THROWS - 284 out of 474. Individual stand out performances: MOST POINTS - Miner 34 against Northwestern; MOST FIELD GOALS - Miner and Traylor 15 each against Northwestern; MOST FREE THROWS - Traylor 12 against Doane; MOST REBOUNDS - Bott 18 against Northwest Missouri State.
