Dana College

Dr. Roland Bainton, Dana's third visiting theologian in the 1980-81 Visiting Theologians Program, charmed and delighted large audiences as he brought people and doctrine alive in his series of presentations held in DHA January 12-16.

At 86, Bainton is Fascinating

No single adjective that comes to mind is sufficient to describe Dr. Roland H. Bainton. One of the first that suggests itself is diminutive. Yet this small man has a very expansive mind and a warm personality. Both of those characteristics were clearly and repeatedly evidenced in his stay at Dana from January 12-16. Dr. Bainton gave four lectures on historical figures from the era of the Protestant Reformation, where he has done most of his work. His final lecture was a fascinating discussion of the world situation and the role of the Church and the individual Christian in it. The lectures were delivered with refreshing sensitivity and a relaxed style. Dr. Bainton's knowledge of his subject was impeccable: he spoke entirely without notes, yet never lagged in his presentation. For those who attended, and there were many, the lectures were informative and fascinating.

Another adjective that fits Dr. Bainton is grandfatherly. In his 86 years of exciting and productive life, he has garnered a wealth of experience that he is eager to share with anyone who is interested. He showed a great concern for the problems that the youth of today face and he offered his advice to make those problems less mystifying and more easily handled.

As Dr. Bainton described the world, he spoke of a situation in which survival will require "perpetual readjustment". The world is in flux; nearly every aspect of it is constantly changing, and to be ready for it, the citizens of that world must also change. Dr. Bainton spoke at some length about the future of the Church. It serves as an example, a microcosm, of the rest of the world, for it, too, is changing. On the one hand the acknowledged leaders of the church are becoming more liberal in their theology. On the other hand, fundamentalism is on the rise and is very active, if not belligerent, as evidenced in the recent Presidential election. The major church bodies are looking at various mergers, but several other bodies are close to splitting because of doctrinal disputes. Fundamentalism is also on the rise in Judaism and Islam. The present governments of Israel and Iran are both thoroughly orthodox and fundamentalist. The Church, as the world, has other problems. The Roman Catholic Church is suffering a crisis of leadership, as millions of American Catholics ignore the Pope's ban on artificial birth control. Also, the state Churches of Europe are suffering from very low participation and interest. There are innumerable other conflicts and problems. Dr. Bainton is not, however, without hope. He believes that the basic elements of Christianity will survive, but a new synthesis may have to emerge.

There are some things, however, that never change. One such item is the attitudes of adults that the younger generation is degenerating to the point that the world may not survive. Dr. Bainton quoted a source from the sixteenth century that expressed that very attitude. But if we are to insure the world's survival and be responsible citizens of the world, what action should we take? He gave this advice: Try to attain competence somewhere so you can be useful. There is a need at some point for specialization. Also, one must accept renunciation.

One has to give things up as time progresses, such as Dr. Bainton's having given up playing the piano after many years. Even if one must choose activities to concentrate upon, broad initial experience enlarges appreciation. Thirdly, one must take the world seriously and not ruin one's strength while still in youth. Learn the limits of life and remain within them.

Dr. Bainton's last word of advice is obviously the one that he has followed most religiously throughout his life. He put it very simply: Love life!!

Dana College Letterhead Wins Design Award

Dana College's new stationery--both letterhead and envelope--received the Exceptional Achievement Award, top honor in the category of letterhead design, at the January 11 Awards Banquet of the Mid-America District of CASE, Council for the Advancement and Support of Education.

The banquet was part of the program of the Mid-America District's annual conference,

FAF Forms Available

All students who will be returning to Dana College for the 1981-82 academic year should obtain a financial aid packet from the Financial Aid Office. Do this as soon as possible. Each packet contains instructions for applying for financial aid, an Application for Financial Aid, and Financial Aid Form (FAF). All students who wish to be considered for financial aid must submit both the Application for Financial Aid and the FAF.

An FAF (or similar needs analysis) will be required of all students seeking aid during 1981-82 unless a petition waiving that requirement is approved by the Student Financial Aid Committee. The FAF will be required of all aid applicants because:

1. It is a requirement of all aid applicants as stated in the Dana College catalog.

2. The needs analysis formula has changed significantly in the past two years benefitting many Dana students...for example, from 1978-79 to 1979-80 the number of Dana students receiving Basic Grants increased by over 100.

3. The more Dana students who submit FAF's, the more money Dana receives to award to students. For example, from 1979-80 to 1980-81 Dana received over $60,000 more for Work-Study and Supplemental Grants. This means more aid to distribute to Dana students.

As in the past, please feel free to stop in the Financial Aid Office for assistance, aid counseling, or to receive answers to your questions at any time.

Kallas Outlines

New Services

On January 5 in a letter to Dana's faculty, staff, and students, President James Kallas announced an expansion of services for Dana. This announcement comes following a stabilization of the student body and the budget within the past two years.

After an intense look at the budget, the administrative staff along with five senior faculty members are recommending the following proposals to Dana's Board of Regents:

1. The addition to the faculty of one full-time person in the area of Computers in order to expand the Computer Program. New majors, such as Computer Science, will be offered in conjunction with already-existing programs. Also an investment in computer hardware will be recommended.

2. The separation of the Offices of Dean of Students and Chaplain. Dr. Bruce Bergquist will return as full-time Chaplain. These offices were combined two years ago by financial necessity.

Budget projections indicate these proposals will be adopted by the Board of Regents when they meet in February. Dr. Kallas believes this expansion of services "will greatly enrich life here on the campus of Dana College. It will mean an expanded and improved academic program. And it will mean expanded and improved service in the area of student personnel."

A major public announcement concerning the issues will be made to the public when they have been approved by the Board and when the positions have been filled.

Elections for Student body representatives from the various classes will be held March 20. Nomination forms will be available sometime in February.

Nomination forms are available at the Information Desk in the Campus Center for the 1981 Homecoming Committee. Anyone interested must nominate themselves by filling out one of these sheets by February 4. Election by student body will be held on February 6. Twelve people will be elected to the committee. If you have any questions, contact Scott Rasmussen or Sharon Gordon in the Development Office.

Elections for Executive officers for Student Senate will be March 6. These offices include President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer.

Director of Theatre Sieghard Krueger has announced tryouts for the spring play Hippolytus by Euripides. A Greek tragedy, the plot revolves around a woman who becomes interested in her stepson. The stepson refuses the advances of his stepmother, but both are destroyed through a string of unfortunate incidents. Racine used this story for his French play Phaedra.

A large chorus of men and women will be needed for the production. Mr. Krueger hopes to incorporate much movement and chanting into the chorus as well as experimenting with Choral Speaking. The production will be held in AMA March 13, 14 and 15.

Tryouts are scheduled for February 2 and 3, Monday and Tuesday, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. in AMA.

CO Informs on Draft Option

Dear Editor,

As of January 1, 1981, all men who will turn nineteen in 1981 must register for a possible draft. This act will affect many people at Dana. I recall from the past summer when I had to register the fear and confusion I felt during this time. I'm against all war, and I believe that I could not serve in the armed forces to any extent. I also feel that I have an obligation to my country; that is why I'm a conscientious objector (CO). This means that in time of a draft, instead of doing combat duty I would do the equivalent amount of time working for a hospital or wherever I was needed.

I would like to recommend to anyone who feels the same as I to do the following:

1. Register
2. Mark on the registration that you are a CO.
3. Start preparing evidence to show that your beliefs are sincere (letters from friends, family, pastors, professors). If there is a draft, a person has less than ten days to react and object.

4. See your pastor and talk with him about what you plan to do. The ALC has lots of materials on the draft.

5. Don't be afraid to stand up for what you believe. This is a free country and each of us is entitled to our own beliefs. That is what America is all about!

Finally, let me say this to those of you who may not agree with what I've said here. I'm not saying this is for everyone, but what I am saying is that those of us who are against war, death, and destruction should have the choice. By serving in an alternative way, you can still serve your country and what a better way? Why not use that time to help people rather than to destroy!

From The Editor

As we begin the year 1981, we have already seen a good number of historical events take place. The release of the hostages from Iran...The inauguration of President Ronald Reagan...How many other momentous events will we see in 1981 and the years which follow?

As students of Dana College and members of the community we live in, as well as the world members, I feel that it is our duty to take a responsibility to ourselves and to others. One of these responsibilities involves personal control. In the past few weeks, I have watched with growing concern as vandalism has twice closed the doors of the Linden Room in the Campus Center.

Is this the duty and responsibility of young adults wishing to find a place in this world? I think not. If we expect to find our niche in this world by the destruction of community property, I wonder what kind of place we are readying for ourselves.

Being a liberal arts college, Dana encourages freedom of speech and expression. As a community of adults, we should be able to work out concerns and problems which arise. The way to gain attention is not through acts of destruction. Instead, involvement in college activities - clubs - organizations, publications - insures a voice within the community. This kind of attention allows growing and learning with others. Also, future interests and references may come about through involvement in various campus activities.

Think about this year - next year - future years. What is your choice?

NEXT ISSUE: Interim Recap

Christmas. A time of joy and cheer throughout the world. A time for families to gather together and renew a deep bond of kinship and common oneness. A time of gift-giving around a tree decorated with beautiful ornaments and lights. A time for sharing...love.

Christmas. A time like any other in the Karamoja region of upper Uganda. People will die today of hunger just like every other day of the year. Inter-tribal warfare will claim more as they fight over what food is left.

Christmas. Roast turkey, hot gravy and mountains of white, whipped potatoes. Cranberry sauce and special desserts to tempt even the strongest-willed dieters to indulge a little. After all, there is plenty, and we can worry about losing weight later.

Christmas. In the desert of northwestern Kenya, a Turkana warrior loaded his bandoleer with cartridges in preparation for a cattle raid across the Ugandan border. His body was shrunken with hunger. He knew that he would eat within a few days - and that he would have to kill someone for the privilege.

Interim '81 - Losses and Gains

"What are you doing for Interim?" is a common question during the month of January. All too often we, the academic-minded students that we try to be, answer with the title of the course in which we're involved. Interim is a great opportunity to pursue one or two subjects in-depth, but it's more than that: Interim seems to be a time when the Dana Experience is at its best.

Interim '81 has proved to be just that - in particular a realization of the Dana Family. Tragedy at the start of January shook many of us to realize the many friends we have here. A dear friend, Clyde Johnson, had passed away during the holidays and the news was brought to us when we returned to the Hill from home. The memorial service, very appropriate for a man like Clyde, brought back memories for me. I had the privilege of working with this loving man last summer on the maintenance staff. The patience and humor he displayed to two girls painting dorm rooms for a summer will stay with me as long as I live. The fervor of Clyde's telling of his World War II experiences, contrasted with anecdotes about his grandchildren, showed us the personality, dedication and love Clyde had. As it happens so often, I hadn't seen much of Clyde this year. Now I long to walk down to the shop and see Clyde sitting in a battered chair, his long legs stretched out, munching on a doughnut. I realize, along with many others, the great loss we've experienced, but also remember the joy of a friendship that was very much cherished.

The second week of Interim brought the Dana Campus another Visiting Theologian, Dr. Roland Bainton. As the attendance in an up-to-capacity DHA showed, Dr. Bainton was a vibrant speaker with a fascinating message. This man, although in his late 80's, proved to be a storehouse of timeless energy. His interests ranged from cycling to current topics and from painting to finding additions to his lost comb and glove collections. As a member of Professor James Olson's Freehand Drawing class, I had the privilege of seeing Dr. Bainton sketch caricatures of our class, and of receiving a Bainton original.

Among the many visitors to the Dana Campus during the week of the Bainton lectures was Pastor Jerry Jeffries from Hazard, Nebraska, our Pastor-in-Residence for the week. Few campus visitors have made such an impact on the personal lives of individual students unless they have had a presentation of some sort to reach the student body as a whole. Pastor Jeffries did not have that opportunity until the final day of his stay, when he spoke in chapel. However, this chapel meditation was the culmination of a week spent reaching out to many students, talking to them to see where they were "at", whether it was in the Center, at meals, playing UNO, or ping pong, or visiting the classrooms. We are thankful for having such a caring person as Pastor Jeffries in our Dana Family.

These are just three of the personalities that make the Dana Family special. Mention should also be made of Sister Reparata Hopp and her gentle light she gives to Dana each time she visits the campus. New and transfer students will soon realize the special quality of the Dana Family and the excitement it adds to the Dana Experience.

The Dream Is Over

60's has lasted through the 70's to some varying degrees and probably will extend into the 1980's as well.

When John Lennon died, gone was the continuation of his wealth of music that he had or probably would have composed. Also, his death ended what seemed to have been a ten-year dream of reuniting the Beatles.

What Lennon did leave was a legacy of music which makes us richer for its existence.

In three years will be the 20th anniversary of the Beatles invasion of America. And all there is for future generations will be their music and their films as well as a number of books about them. So all they will be able to grasp will be an idea and hopefully that idea will be enough for them to just imagine the kind of impact they had.

As for now the best Beatle fans can do besides remember John Lennon and his music is best summed up in lyrics of one of Lennon's songs: "...And so dear friend, you'll just have to carry on. The Dream is over."

Christmas - A Time To Think

Christmas. The average gift giving in the United States is $50 per person. Ten and a half BILLION dollars spent on gifts. For merchants, Christmas is the best time of year. Many report that over 1/2 their profits come from this season that stretches from the day after Thanksgiving to the end of December. Our economy is lifted out of its doldrums for a hectic few weeks when everything from plastic airplanes to real airplanes are given and received in the greatest display of wealth the world has ever known.

Christmas. A time of hope in Honduras even in the face of an "abnormal food shortage" - the U.N.'s fastidious euphemism for famine. The people believe that somehow, from somewhere, help will come. If they lost this belief, they will die. Many will die anyway from hungry.

I have a personal stake in all this. First, I am an American and am one of those who grew a little fatter on turkey and gravy this December. Second, I have been to Honduras and have seen that poverty is not going away just because we become wealthier in the north. Third, because my sister, with Wycliff Bible Translators in Chad, West Africa, knows the same. She has seen what I have not; actual death. The experience has fundamentally altered her perception of America as "the land of plenty from which the riches gained from raw materials of other lands are returned to these lands." She knows that it is a one-way street for most of the benefits.

Christmas. A time to reflect on the abundance that God has placed around us. The decision as to its use is left to us. Do we eat 5 times what we need or feed another? Do we build houses of 10 rooms and more and complain of 'only $5 an hour' in wages while fellow humans live in single room huts, earning $300 a year? We in America pay lip service to 'equality' and 'freedom' for all. Yet, in practice, we give only an equal opportunity for all non-Americans to stay poor and the freedom many times to work for subsistence wages producing cocoa beans, tea, bananas and other food stuffs for American companies so as to keep the price of American food budgets down.

Christmas. A Time to think.

the plural is BOXES...
But the plural of OX is OXEN,
not OXES.
One fowl is a GOOSE, two are

Yet the plural of MOOSE it is never MEESE.
You may find a lone MOUSE or

If the plural of MAN is always MEN,
Why shouldn't the plural of

If I speak of a FOOT and you

And I give you a BOOT, would a pair be called BEET?
We speak of BROTHER and

Shakespeare Series

Acclaimed "Shrew" on PBS

The third season of The Shakespeare Plays—the 6-year series which eventually will bring all 37 of William Shakespeare's dramatic works to television—gets off to a rollicking start, Monday, January 26, at 8 p.m. on the Nebraska Educational Television Network. The series premieres with Shakespeare's classic comedic tale of the endless battle between the sexes, The Taming of the Shrew, which is repeated Sunday, February 1, at 10 p.m..

Produced and directed by the multi-talented Dr. Jonathan Miller, host of the public television series, The Body in Question, the Shakespearean comedy features Monty Python's John Cleese as Petruchio, who tries to win the hand of the fiery Kate, played by Sarah Badel.

This comic confrontation, one of the Bard's most frequently performed plays, marks the first time that Cleese has acted Shakespeare professionally—the first time, in fact, since, as a nine-year-old schoolboy, he played a bit in the same play. However, after some initial uncertainty, Cleese found this Shakespearean comedy not terribly different from the challenge of Monty Python's madness.

Starring with Cleese and Badel in the production are John Franklyn-Robbins as Katherina's sorely tried father, Baptista; Susan Penhaligon as the too-good-to-be-true sister, Bianca; as well as, many of England's most capable comic actors: Anthony Pedley, David Kincaid, John Bird and others.

Miller, who is the new executive producer for the third and fourth seasons of The Shakespeare Plays, will provide a brief introduction to the play, and in a special videotape sequence following the presentation, will talk with Cleese about the play.

British critics awarded almost unanimous critical acclaim when this BBC-TV and Time-Life Television co-production aired late in 1980 on British television.

Adventure Promised By AYH

Vacationers in 1981 will be looking for bargains in travel as well as new and unique adventures in near and far away places.

The "1981 Highroad to Adventure," a new brochure available free from American Youth Hostels, describes a wide variety of creative, low-cost organized trips and tours through Europe, North America and for the first time, Africa and China.

These organized trips and travel programs are open to vacationers of all ages and range in length from five to 44 days. Not only are the trips inexpensive but they offer adventure, not just in what the traveler sees, but in the experience of living.

The opportunities are endless, from bus trips through Aztec ruins in the Mexican highlands and remnants of the Mayan culture in the Yucatan to bicycle tours of the California coastline and raft and canoe trips down powerful rivers of the mid-Atlantic states.

Of special interest this year are several unique new trips, including an exotic bicycle tour of China. There will be nine, sixteen-day trips, co-sponsored with the Metropolitan New York Council of AYH, through Southern China and Hong Kong. This is an opportunity to see a part of the world that has only recently been opened to the West.

AYH is also offering a "Kenya Safari," a three-week 4-wheel drive trek through the high plains of Kenya where wildlife abounds and African culture is still exciting and unspoiled.

The American Youth Hostel's travel program also offers less exotic but no less interesting and exciting trips such as the one in conjunction with The Infinite Odyssey, a 28-day youth group bicycling and sailing program in Maine. The trip includes a short stay on a farm in Maine learning basics in ecological camping, first aid, bike repair and carpentry. Bicycle touring along the Maine coast and sailing trips on the 35-foot open sailing vessel, Tancook Whaler add to the adventure.

For the cycling enthusiast who would like to tour Europe there are 11 trips listed in "Highroad to Adventure" including a 22-day adult tour through the English countryside and a 44-day adult trip across Central Europe.

Another first are tours by van designed expressly for the over 50 age group. The traveler will spend less time alone in hotel rooms and more time in the company of fellow passengers seeing and doing things together. The "50+ Program for the Young at Heart," as it is called, includes excursions down the California coast, across the desert Southwest and Colorado Rockies, and through the Northeast and New England countryside and great cities.

There is one element every trip in the "1981 Highroad to Adventure" has in common and that is hosting. Hosting is sharing a travel and living experience with others. Inexpensive overnight accommodations range from cabins to castles, ships, Historic Trust properties, lodges, farm houses and lighthouses.

The American Youth Hostels Travel Department will also make special arrangements for AYH members who would like to create their own trip itineraries. This includes domestic and international rail travel arrangements, hostel reservations throughout the world and travel expertise.

Baseball Team Goes To Florida

About half of the candidates for Dana College's 1981 baseball team are taking advantage of the school's January Interim to travel to Florida this week to attend the Boca Raton Baseball Camp.

Dana baseball coach Dale Lemon and 19 students, all but three of them freshmen and sophomores, will be in the Sunshine State January 16 through 30. They'll attend the baseball camp for one week, move to a motel on Pompano Beach for a second week, and play 12 to 15 games during their stay.

According to Lemon, the trip gives students a chance to polish their baseball skills, show what they can do, and get an early jump on the season ahead. Before leaving the Dana campus, they spent a week and a half in the classroom and gymnasium, learning team strategy and how to play all positions.

Lemon said that the four-hour credit course will also teach students how to coach baseball, "especially at the high school, legion and Little League levels."

This is the fourth time that Lemon has taken an Interim class to the Florida camp. He organizes the class every two or three years, he said, "so that any Dana baseball player can have a chance to participate during his four-year college career. The Boca Raton School Camp is regarded as the finest in Florida, and our players can round out their knowledge and ability by receiving instruction and training from others besides me."

Senior Larry Fry watches anxiously as Junior Terry Kelly works against opponent. The Vikings have an 8-11 record so far this season.

Men's Team 'Puts on Show'

After returning from Christmas break, the Dana Varsity Basketball team has put on some kind of show for the Viking fans. Led by seniors Larry Fry, Brian Serr and Scott Simms and under the direction of Head Coach Paul Peterson the Vikes have dropped only 2 games at home this year.

One loss came against an excellent Tarkio squad with a score of 79-69. Terry Kelly had 7 field goals and 7 free throws for 21 points while Brian Serr had 10 points. Joe Crncovich tallied 15 for Dana. Tarkio shot 54.5% from the field and 70.4% from the free-throw line as compared to Dana's performance of 43.9% from the field and 63.2% from the charity stripe. Tarkio out rebounded Dana 43-34.

The Red and White knocked off Wartburg 86-80 in Dana's first home game in January. Dana was 31-59 in the field goal category and 24-37 at the free throw line. The Vikes collected 43 rebounds while Wartburg had 42. Wartburg shot 50% and 66.6% from the floor and free throw line respectively. With 32 personal fouls and 11 turn-overs, Wartburg was no match for the Vikings.

Brian Serr grabbed 11 rebounds and put in 20 points to pace Dana. Scott Simms scored 1/4 of the century mark as he notched 25 points followed by Joe Crncovich with 10. Point guard Terry Kelly had 20 counters for the night.

The following evening Westmar fell victim to Dana by a landslide 95-68 score. Tom Kammerer shot 100% as he was 3-3 in field goals and 2-2 in free throws.
