"The Pump Boys and Dinettes" includes audience participation

MONICA PAUK

NEWS EDITOR

"The Pump Boys and Dinettes" is a really exciting show that really celebrates a simple life on the highway," Sonny Larsen said about his next stage appearance. "The Pump Boys and Dinettes," a comedy musical about a gas station and a diner together on Highway 57 outside Froglevel opens Wednesday night in the Lauritzen Theater of the Madsen Fine Arts Center.

The show revolves around the gas station and diner and what goes on there everyday, and how the characters got there. The pump boys are made up of Jim (Rich Jones), Eddie (Larsen), Jackson (Scott Dugdale), and L.M. (Tim Marsden). The dinettes are Prudie Cupp (Beth King) and Rhetta Cupp (Holly Halsell).

The pump boys and dinettes are all friends and eventually start a band. The pump boys and dinettes get help from the grease pit band that is made up of Dorris May (Terra Keiser) on drums, Orville (Paul Jensen) on acoustic guitar, and Jr. (David Branard) on lead electric guitar.

"Audience participation is really important in this show," Larsen commented.

It is directed by guest director Dan Hayes of Omaha. This performance also has the talents of two University of Nebraska-Omaha students Branard and Jones and former Dana student Jensen.

"This is going to be a really fun show," according to Larsen. "It's almost a concert but it also has a plot."

"I think that this is a very exciting show because of the audience participation. I think that this show is very unique for this reason. There are great songs and fun dancing," said Halsell.

"The Pump Boys and Dinettes" opens Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. An improvisation session will begin at 7 p.m. so cast members encourage the audience to get there early.

Capel-Mikkelson chosen for on-stage chorus at Dana.

"I am excited! It has been two months since the open audition. Finally, I got the contract last week."

Kimberly Capel-Mikkelson has been chosen by Opera Omaha to be one of the 20 singers on stage for "Requiem Variations," a choral review by Andrew Lloyd Webber. Performances will run June 9 - 19 at the Orpheum Theater.

Capel-Mikkelson, a native of Council Bluffs, Iowa, graduated from Luther College with a degree in psychology.

Twelve years ago she sang for Opera Omaha for the first time. Currently she is a music major

In February she joined in the open audition held by Opera Omaha and with the help of her vocal music teacher, Jeanmarie Nielsen, chose to sing "O Mio Fernando" and "Much More." Last week she was informed that she had been chosen for the on-stage chorus.

Capel-Mikkelson's ambition was to become a professional singer, but first she wanted to go to graduate school. "I want to thank my voice teacher Jeanmarie Nielsen and my mom Karen who started me singing."

She will perform her junior vocal recital with Kevin Westring at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Trinity Chapel.

U.S. foreign policy is in disarray

SHAWN OSBAHR
EDITORIALIST

For a man who was elected for his domestic policies, President Clinton sure has his hands full with foreign interest. Bosnia, North Korea, and Haiti are three fronts that the President must deal with.

Everyday, it is becoming more and more obvious that Clinton hasn't the slightest idea on how to handle foreign policy situations.

Our president has handed over the use of U.S. air craft and American lives to the United Nations, which severely diminishes his credibility as our Commander in Chief.

When was the last time that our military was under the control of someone else besides the United States? It is a scary situation when our nation's military leader turns over the reins to another party.

Whatever the United Nation's Boutros Boutros Ghali recommends, seems to be a good enough idea to Clinton. Do you think that the U.N. has the United States interest at heart?

Even with American lives at stake, it is all too obvious that our president's mind is elsewhere.

During times such as these, the past couple of presidents always seemed focused on the problem. And, they were always located somewhere that reassured the public that they were on top of the situation.

Where is Clinton? Recently he made the news hooping it up at the NCAA tournament, zooming around in his 1967 Ford Mustang convertible, and discussing his undergarments on MTV. I am embarrassed for him.

Speaking of embarrassing, this word seems quite appropriate regarding our policy with Bosnia. Clinton claims that we are not taking sides and that we are not doing anything to help one side or the other win.

Then what in the world are we doing over there? Are our air strikes hitting neutral targets? Are we not trying to set Serbia back? We know better than that.

Our pathetic threats throw about as much fear into Serbia as a cocker spaniel threatening a pit bull.

Minutes after signing pathetic cease fire agreements, fighting erupts again. We should either commit ourselves totally, or get out.

This half-hearted baloney only gives other potential aggressors around the world a green light.

Even though Clinton wasn't elected for his foreign policy, this will still reflect his incompetency to be our nation's leader in 1996. Unfortunately we live in a global society and world issues frequently take precedence over domestic concerns.

It is long past time for Clinton to depart from his role of "Bubba" and start paying close attention to issues that effect the credibility of the United States as a world power.

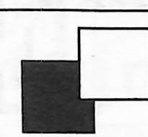

Students win money, prizes at Blizzard of Bucks

Student Activities Board sponsored the Blizzard of Bucks game show Friday. All contestants won t-shirts.

Three students won their respective rounds, $25 and a chance to go into the money machine.

They were Paul Gardner, Emily Hobbs and Pete Katzdorn. Hobbs won an additional $109 in the money machine.

Fafani Goecke and Todd Ashby each won $15 for being the most enthusiastic audience members.

Piece by piece

Listen to my generation

I will begin by saying I have never been a Nirvana fan, a Kurt Cobain fan or a supporter of suicide. However, after watching Andy Rooney Sunday night on "60 Minutes" (who I usually enjoy watching), I became outraged at his ignorance and (if I was to use the logic he used) the ignorance of his generation.

He readily admitted that he hadn't heard of Cobain or Nirvana until the obituary was printed on the front page of the New York Times. But from that point on, Rooney sarcastically spoke of the despair of my generation in light of Cobain's suicide. "What would all these young people be doing if they had real problems like a Depression, World War II or Vietnam?" asked Rooney.

Cobain and many members of my generation do have "real problems." The pressures of life ahead sometimes hit us hard and in Cobain's case they were coupled with alcoholism and drug abuse.

This is not a new phenomenon. Remember the suicides/accidental deaths of Marilyn Monroe, John Belushi and Elvis Presley?

Fame sometimes takes its toll. Their respective generations were not ridiculed for mourning their deaths. They were not labeled as hopeless by the actions of famous members of their generation.

Rooney said he would like to have the years back that Cobain threw away. He can have them. I think Rooney would have difficulty living as a part of my generation. Fifty years ago life was different. Sure Rooney and his generation lived through World War II and Vietnam but other pressures were minimal. A college education could land a graduate a good job. AIDS didn't exist. Drug use was minimal and perhaps nonexistent in the Midwest. The family unit was stable and supportive.

Rooney needs to remember to only discuss those issues on which he is informed. By knocking the existence of "real problems" in my generation he feeds into the problem. Help the teenager and young adult with real inner difficulties. Don't mock him and consequently steer him down the route Cobain followed.

Rodney Bennett-England coming to Dana Tuesday

On Tuesday Rodney Bennett-England will be visiting Dana and making three presentations.

Bennett-England is one of England's leading journalism training experts. A past president of the Chartered Institute of Journalists, he is a director of the National Council for the Training of Journalists (NCTJ) and has the unique distinction of having been elected by the British newspaper industry on three occasions as its chairman.

The NCTJ is the industry's own examining body. It establishes standards and provides the teaching syllabuses which cover basic reporting skills and essential knowledge used in universities and colleges which train journalists in Britain.

He is a senior examiner for the Council and External Examiner to Sheffield University. He also sits on the Court of City University, London, representing the media.

He has visited the United States on eight previous occasions and lectured at 25 schools of journalism in 17 states.

In 1978 he was the first non-American journalist to be invited as Scripps Lecturer at the University of Nevada - Reno. In 1982 he was the Woodward and Bromley Lecturer at Yale University.

He authored a number of books, has received several awards and honours and is secretary of The Media Society, a 'think-tank' and forum for senior national newspaper editors, broadcasting and TV bosses, media lawyers and politicians. In addition he is honorary treasurer of the Institute of Journalists, an annually elected post he has held for 11 years.

After editing three weekly newspapers in the greater London area, he was a reporter and columnist on the Sunday Express for six years, freelance broadcaster with the British Broadcasting Company (BBC) and columnist for several international glossy magazines. He was also London editor of an American business paper for two years, has written for over 300 publications worldwide and was chairman and managing director of two London public relations consultancies.

Bennett-England's first presentation on Tuesday will be from 2-3:20 p.m. He will speak to the editing class on journalism in Great Britain. His second presentation will be 3:30-4:20 p.m. on evolving European situation from a British perspective in the Forum. His 7:30-8:30 p.m. presentation will focus on the future of journalism from a world perspective. It will be in DHA. His 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. presentations are open to the public.

Tennis teams will compete in conference meets this weekend

DENISE DAUBENDIEK
COPY EDITOR

Women's and men's tennis teams will compete in the Nebraska-Iowa Athletic Conference (NIAC) meets on Friday and Saturday in Lincoln.

The women's record became 2-5 this week. They defeated York Friday 7-2 but lost to Hastings Saturday 1-8. Heidi Grappendorf was the only player to defeat an opponent in competition (6-0, 6-2). Forfeits allowed the win Friday. Grappendorf also earned an individual win against Hastings (6-2, 6-0).

Gina Jacobs and Grappendorf extended their doubles record to 3-1 after a forfeit against York. Stacy Spencer and Steph Wilson also gained a win by forfeit and advanced their record to 2-1. Each pair is undefeated in the conference.

Grappendorf stands undefeated in the conference and leads the women's team with a 6-1 overall record. Her only loss this season was to Jennifer Allison of College of St. Mary. Allison also defeated Grappendorf at districts last year and is the only opponent to beat Grappendorf in her Dana career.

Grappendorf will defend her title of NIAC singles champion. She was also the District 11 runner-up last year.

Other individual records include Wilson at 3-2, Jacobs 2-2, Spencer 2-5 and Nancy Coles 2-4.

Coach Shad Beam states, "Hopefully our younger players will have a good weekend. Hastings and North western will be our toughest competition."

The men's record is 0-6. Brent Johnson earned their only individual win against York, 6-0, 6-3. Danny Mattern won by forfeit also against York.

"It's not that we're horrible. It's just that everyone else is better than us," says team member Shawn Osbahr.

"I hope the guys have fun and play some good tennis," says Beam. "This has been a rebuilding year and all I expect is for them to have a good time."

The men have two make-up meets next week. They play Concordia Tuesday and compete against Midland Wednesday.

CORRECTION: The Student Senate story in the March 25 issues of Hermes stated that senate secretary Meredith Novak said that the majority of the faculty in the Madsen Fine Arts Center were opposed to the suggestion of having a pop and/or snack machine in the building due to the risk to equipment.

It should have read that Novak said she hadn't spoken to any of the faculty in MFAC. However, in the past Novak had gotten the impression that there was a concern about having pop in the computer lab.

Hermes regrets the error.

Baseball team splits twin bill with Midland

ROBERT BOYD
SPORTS EDITOR

Vikings' pitcher Dustin Wolfe recorded his sixth win of the season and the Vikings blew a six run lead in the sixth inning to split a doubleheader with the Midland Warriors Wednesday. The Vikings won the first game of the twin bill against Midland 7-1 but lost the second game 7-6. The split pushes the Vikings' record to 9-19 with a 3-8 record in the Nebraska-Iowa Athletic Conference (NIAC).

Dana 7, Midland 1

Dana capitalized on six Midland errors as the Vikings won the opening game of the twin bill. The Vikings broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning when Matt Rega scored on one of Midland's errors. Then the Vikings exploded for two runs in the fifth and three in the sixth to put the game out of reach.

Dana's offense gave starting pitcher Wolfe (6-4) enough run support as he only surrendered one run to the Warriors. He pitched a complete game while giving up seven hits. He also fanned five and walked three.

Wolfe also led Dana in hitting with three hits. Gregg Yanta went 1-4 with an RBI and Jeff Reiter went 1-2 with an RBI and a run scored.

Midland 7, Dana 6

The Vikings got out of the gates early in game two by scoring six runs through the first two innings due to six Midland errors. All six Dana runs were unearned.

Jeff Dyrda drove in Dana's first run with an RBI single and Wolfe put Dana ahead 2-0 with an RBI sacrifice fly.

In the second inning, Scott Mitchell walked and scored on a Midland error. Then Rega singled in R.J. Ryan for the second run of the inning. After a couple of more Midland errors, Dyrda singled in Yanta. Rega scored Dana's fourth run of the inning off of another Midland error to put the Vikings ahead 6-0.

Starting pitcher Chris Ulven was cruising until the sixth inning. He had a two-hit shutout going into the sixth but Midland rallied for seven runs in the inning for the win.

Ulven (2-7) pitched 5 1/3 innings while giving up five earned runs on four hits. He walked nine batters and struck out one.

The Viking offense was led by Dyrda who went 2-4 with two RBIs. Rega went 1-4 with an RBI and Wolfe went 1-3 with an RBI.

'Juiced up' baseballs will help America's pastime

Major League Baseball is finally taking the right strides in restoring the old adage that baseball is America's favorite pastime. They are 'juicing up' the baseball.

Statistics show that baseballs are flying out of ball parks at an enormous rate this 1994 season. Many experts claim the reason for the home run outburst is that baseballs are being purposely doctored so that they carry better. I think it's terrific.

Since this year, baseball has been a very boring sport. Baseball has given way to football or basketball as America's favorite pastime. Major League Baseball needed to do something drastic to compete with the fast pace of football and basketball.

The first thing they did was change the playoff format so there are eight playoff teams instead of four. The second innovation, in my opinion, was to doctor the baseball.

A 'juiced' baseball means more runs scored and more exciting games. I would rather watch a home run derby between Jose Canseco and Frank Thomas rather than a pitcher's duel between Greg Maddux and Bob Tewksbury.

Home runs bring excitement to the game especially to youngsters. The League needs to get the young people involved because they are the future and the key to restore baseball as the best sport in America.

Viking softball team overpowers Midland in a NIAC match up

NEAL ANTHONY
SPORTS REPORTER

The Lady Viking softball team has been busy recently. After winning the College of St. Mary Invitational, splitting a doubleheader with Doane and sweeping Hastings, the Lady Vikes took a doubleheader from the Midland Warriors Wednesday.

The Vikings, 34-14 overall and 8-2 in conference play, outplayed and overpowered the Warriors in both games. Each game was called after five innings due to the Nebraska-Iowa Athletic Conference (NIAC) eight-run rule.

In the first game, which was decided 10-0, the Vikes exploded in the bottom of the third inning

Olsen and Foster earn NAIA District 11 honors

Heather Olsen and Dayna Foster claimed Pitcher-and-Player-of-the-Week honors in NAIA District 11 softball for last week.

Olsen earned the pitcher of the week honor after giving up just one earned run in 21 innings last week. She tossed her first career no-hitter against College of St. Mary Friday night. She wiffed 13 batters in the no-hitter.

Foster was named the player of the week after hitting .371 (13-for-35) and eight RBIs in ten games last week. She also had a double, two triples, a home run and nine runs scored.

for eight runs. They tacked on two more runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to give themselves their 10th and final point in what would be their last chance at bat.

The top of the fifth would be the Warriors' last chance to overcome their deficit. With Heather Olsen throwing a one-hitter and her teammates playing errorless ball, the Vikings held the Warriors of Midland scoreless. With the eight-run rule in effect, the game was called after five innings.

Dana 8-0

With Susie Chavez on the mound throwing a three-hitter and the Viking offense supplying a steady stream of runs through six innings, the Lady Vikes jumped on top and never looked back. They won their last regular season conference game in six innings by a score of 8-0.

You can catch the Lady Vikings in action again at the NIAC tournament in Lincoln both Friday and Saturday. Game times have yet to be announced.
