

Winterfest 1987 was a very fun occasion for all who attended. Nominees for the court were presented throughout the week for campaigning, and towards the end of the week a day was set aside for the election of king and queen. Saturday night the Student Senate and Student Activities Board decorated the Center with excitement for the evening dance. They did a beautiful job with the decorations: shiny, heart-shaped balloons of many different colors were strung throughout the Center along with colored streamers of paper. One string of balloons full of helium were wound from the bottom floor of the Center to the very top of the Center. It was a very enjoyable dance for everyone that night as a D.J. played the music.

The 1987 Winterfest Queen, Kay Schjodt, who reigned beautifully over the Winterfest dance.

The 1987 Winterfest King, Gregory Kubik, who did an admirably good job over the Winterfest celebrations.
